CHICAGO G.O.P. WOMAN HELPER IS FOUND SLAIN

Her Body Discovered in Narrow Passageway Behind Building.

ROBBERY IS CALLED MOTIVE BY POLICE

Case Is Second Death in Republican Ranks in Five Days.

CHECK AS ELECTION JUDGE IS MISSING

Victim Had Spent Evening Working on Registration Revision Reports.

Chicago, March 16 (A.P.).—The badly battered body of Mrs. Ida M. Doyle, 59, political worker, was found in a narrow passageway behind a South Side building early today. Indications were the woman had been slugged to death by an assailant wielding a heavy blunt instrument.

Preliminary investigation led police to advance robbery as the motive for the slaying. Mrs. Doyle's purse, which contained a check she received shortly before her death for services as Republican judge of the Seventh Precinct poll of the Second Ward, was missing. Her earrings and a bar pin were untouched, however. Her wedding ring was found 150 feet from the body.

Political Motive Scouted.

Police scouted the theory that a political motive was involved although the case marked the second slaying of a Republican worker here within the past five days. William Slaughter, Negro preacher and a precinct worker in the Forty-second ward, was shot to death at a Gold Coast poll March 11. The Second Ward, where Mrs. Doyle was active, was an unusually quiet one, however, police were told, and no trouble has been reported there. The slain woman was not known to have engaged in any of the various factional fights within the local party organization.

Mrs. Doyle had spent the evening at the polls, completing revision reports on last week's registration for the April primary election. Together with two other women political workers she went to the county building to receive her check for $17 and file the report for her precinct.

The three women left the county building together and boarded the same street car for the South Side. Mrs. Doyle left the car alone a block from her home shortly before midnight.

As she passed a dark alley in midblock, police believe, she was seized by her assailant, subjected to a brutal beating and dragged to the rear of the building. The body was found at dawn by Grant Carter, Negro teamster, who walked through the passageway on his way to adjacent stables. There was no evidence of criminal attack.

Speedway Traffic Snarled by Crash

Two Women Slightly Hurt by Collision; One Car Hits and Runs.

An accident in which two women were slightly injured tied up traffic on the Speedway early last night and all but caused a serious traffic jam. Park policemen spent a busy half hour untying the snarl that quickly followed the collision.

An automobile driven by Miss Helen Wise, 34 years old, of 112 South Royal street, Alexandria, and with Mrs. Margaret O'Neill, 65 years old, of the same address, as a passenger, was struck by another machine near the Tourist Camp. The other car sped away, but Miss Wise's car was disabled.

Both women were taken to Emergency Hospital, where they were treated for numerous cuts and bruises. Their wrecked car caused many automobilists to stop and inquire about the accident, and the Speedway was soon badly jammed.

District Attorney Freed In Liquor-Ring Charge

Madison, Wis., March 16 (A.P.).—Clinton G. Price, suspended district attorney of Juneau County, was acquitted by a Federal court jury today of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The charges on which he was tried were that he was active in two Juneau County liquor ring. The Government called 41 witnesses to establish the alleged conspiracy. Most of the witnesses were linked in other alleged conspiracies and many of them have pleaded guilty to previous indictments and are awaiting sentence. The defense charged that the case was a "frame-up" and 36 witnesses testified, including Price.

Rev. E. A. Walsh Cites Cruelties of Russian Antireligious Drive

Authority Details Working of Soviet Regimer, Which Is Closing Up Churches and Heaping Persecution on All Who Refuse to Accede to Atheistic Demands.

(Editor's note.—This is the second installment of the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh's review of facts and proofs of the Soviet campaign against the Deity and all religions. By the REV. EDMUND A. WALSH.

The number of archbishops, bishops, priests and laymen of the Russian orthodox faith who have suffered even unto death for conscience sake is legion. Some place the number as high as 6,000 or over. And the manner of their death is a revolting page in the long annals of man's inhumanity to man.

The Archbishop of Perm was buried alive after having his eyes put out. The Bishop of Belgorod was cast into a pit of quicklime. The Bishop of Yourlew was incarcerated in a cellar with common criminals, his nose and ears cut off, and after being beaten mercilessly with a bayonet, was finally hacked to pieces. The Archbishop of Voronej was hanged before the altar of his own church, while throughout his archdiocese 160 priests were shot. Archbishop Feofan, already at the point of death from abuse, was carried to a hole in the ice of a frozen river and cast into the water. Another priest at Tcherdin was stripped naked in the cruel Russian winter and sprinkled with cold water till he became a statue of ice. In the case of certain other priests condemned to death, crowns of barbed wire were placed on their heads before their execution. At Poltava and at Kremenchoug the victims were impaled. At Poltava, where Grichka, the prostitute reigned, eighteen ecclesiastics were impaled on one day.

Counter-Revolution Charged.

The customary charge of counter-revolution has been lavishly invoked during the last ten years, even against such innocent and universally respected prelates as Bishop Benjamin, who was secretly murdered in Petrograd in 1922.

Obstruction of famine relief was alleged in its turn, although the Patriarch Tikhon offered sincere cooperation in stripping churches of their ornaments for conversion into funds for famine relief and only resisted the confiscation of the Eucharistic vessels. Those familiar with Soviet practices can have no delusions about the ultimate intent of the iconoclasts during the long struggle with the Orthodox Church. When offers were made to redeem the sacred vessels by

RED ATHEISTS PLANNING NEW RELIGIOUS WAR

MINISTERS DECRY FIGHT ON RELIGION

London Congregations Also in Protest; Capital Joins Move.

Moscow, March 16 (A.P.).—While millions in other lands prayed today for Russia's legions of Christian faithful, the militant atheist society of Russia, the League of the Godless, prepared for a more intensive assault against God and the churches during the approaching Easter period.

The Russian government itself, however, has noticeably moderated its attitude toward religion. It now discountenances the forcible closing of churches or the tearing down of church bells without the consent of the overwhelming majority of the population and the formal sanction of the central government authorities.

All Moscow's churches were well attended at services today, the government having at no time attempted to prevent individuals from freely taking part in their religious rites

Christians Fear Future.

Most Christians here, however, see a dark future for their faith if the government continues to carry out its present plan of forbidding the teaching of a religious faith to those under the age of 18.

Since the agitation abroad has assumed such imposing proportions throughout the world, there has been a perceptible change in the atheists' plan of warfare against the church.

Fearing punishment at the hands of the government authorities if they go too far, they now confine their activities exclusively to disseminating antireligious propaganda and teaching the peasants that good crops depend not upon God, but upon their own labor, good wealther and proper methods of cultivation.

Among the numerous manifestos issued today by factories, workers' clubs and atheistic organizations, is one by the Moscow dynamo factory saying, "Under the sacred robes of the Pope, there is concealed a jackal that is ready to destroy the land which builds socialism with fire and sword."

Rest of World Addressed.

The Moscow Union of Militant Atheists, addressing the capitalistic world, says, "You will not frighten or dismay the Soviet union of workers with your religious crusade, as you have so often attempted to frighten us with your diplomatic notes and wild attacks on our foreign representatives. Religion and collective farms can not exist together."

The militant atheist society announced that it concluded an agreement today for "socialistic competition" with an organization of 9,000 atheists in the Ruhr district of Germany. The Germans will attempt to tear away from the church before March 30 2,000 Garman worshippers, to collect 2,000 marks for the purchase of tractors for the Soviet union, to recruit 500 new members for German atheist societies, and to recruit 100 new members for the German Communist party.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Meetings of protest against alleged religious persecution in Russia, and prayers for its cessation were held today by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religious bodies.

At the same time a crowd of 14,000, including Communists and others, gathered at the Bronx Coliseum to protest against criticism of Soviet Russia's antireligious policy.

While special details of police and detectives guarded St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and the free Synagogue, another detail of more than 200, together with riot and bomb squads and emergency wagons, with tear gas bombs and submachine guns, stood watch over the Communist gathering.

Sympathy Is Expressed.

In the service of prayer at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Bishop William T. Manning said: "Setting aside all that may be uncertain or exaggerated, the main facts of this persecution are beyond any possible doubt of question. The statement that the cruelties inflicted are not persecutions for religion, but punishments for disobeying the law of the

POLICE OF MARYLAND AID VICTIMS OF WRECK

Men and Women Are Hurled From Vehicle Speeding Off Highway.

Three persons are known to be dead, one seriously injured and one person unaccounted for in an automobile accident which happened near Savage, Md., late last night when a large automobile traveling at high speed swerved from the road, hit a culvert and ran into a ditch.

The Maryland State police reported that one of the persons killed was a woman, and two other persons died en route to St. Agnes Hospital in Baltimore.

The car was operated, according to the police, by Howard V. Burnell, 3114 M street northwest. He is in a serious condition at the same hospital.

The car license tags are listed to Rose Mathews, 22 todd place northeast. District police were asked by the Maryland authorities to ascertain the names of the party in the car but were unsuccessful at a late hour last night.

Three Are Killed In Plane Crashes

Zanesville, Ohio, March 16 (A.P.).—Albert J. Edwards, 33, garage proprietor and airplane salesman, and Burt Chaney, 35, automobile mechanic, were killed in a plane crash 4 miles north of here today.

The ship, which was owned and piloted by Edwards, went into a tail spin at an altitude of about 3,000 feet. It crashed in plain view of a throng of spectators who had gathered to see an air circus at Wheeler Airport. While they had no connection with the aerial show the two men were flying around the edge of the airport, most of the time at a high altitude.

Both men were still living when they were taken from the wreckage. They died shortly after reaching a local hospital.

Neillsville, Wis., March 16 (A.P.).—Crushed in wreckage of an airplane which dropped 500 feet, Alfred Stellock, 18, was killed near here today. His brother, Frank, 21, was critically injured. Witnessest said the plane went into a nose dive and fell straight down.

Theater Fire Fails To Annoy Audience

Movie Patrons Oblivious as Firemen Battle Blaze in Rear.

As 400 persons watched a performance in the Leader Theater yesterday, firemen fought a blaze in the rear of the building. The patrons, oblivious of the fire, sat throughout the show.

A heating plant attached to the main building, but lined with fireproof walls, ignited and sent off dense smoke into the areway. A wooden coal chute, used to convey fuel from an upper loft to the furnace, caused the fire. G. E. Barrett, manager of the theater, stood in readiness in the rear of the auditorium ready to quell any disorder that might arise.

Deputy Chief G. E. Barrett estimated the damage at $25. Private John Eridge, attached to No. 14 engine, turned in the alarm.

PARLEY AGAIN SEEKS FIVE POWER SEA PACT AFTER TARDIEU VISIT

Primo de Rivera Dies; Spain Plans Funeral

Sudden Heart Attack Is Fatal to Man Who Quit Dictator's Post.

Paris, March 16 (A.P.).—Miguel Primo de Rivera y Orbaneja, Marques de Estella, Spanish grandee and for seven years dictator of Spain, died today in the modest Latin Quarter hotel where in the 1890s he spent what he always considered the happiest days of his life as a student at the Sorbonne.

The former dictator was stricken by an affection of the heart this morning and died alone in his room at 11 o'clock, less than seven weeks after relinquishing the supreme power in Spain.

Death broke his voluntary and temporary exile in Paris with the rapidity of a stroke of lightning. Primo's hand was stretched forth in an effort to reach an electric button to summon his valet. His broken reading glasses lay beside him.

Perhaps the former dictator had a premonition of impending death, for as he kissed his daughters Carmen and Pilar early today he said:

"Very well, go attend mass. I feel much better and am going to dress, but be sure not to return too late."

Mindful of his request, the young women went to his room on returning from church and to their amazement and sorrow found him dead

GEN. PRIMO DE RIVERA.

FRENCHMAN INSISTS ON INCLUSION RIGHT

France Has No Intention of Leaving Conference, He Declares.

CURTAILMENT HINTED IN TONNAGE PROGRAM

U. S.-Japanese Ratio Question May Be Hurled Into Melting Pot Again.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Prime Minister Andre Tardieu of France went to Chequera, the British prime minister's country place, today to find a three-power treaty between Great Britain, the United States and Japan almost in being. After three strenuous hours of discussion with Ramsay MacDonald he returned to London, having completely altered the situation by the simple method of insisting that France had been asked to this conference, was willing to make a treaty, and had no intention of withdrawing.

Accordingly, the situation at the London naval conference is more uncertain than ever, for it is well known that French ideas of a possible treaty are scarcely compatible with those of the other powers and yet France, having been invited, can not be sent away. As M. Tardieu's formal statement tonight hints, the conference has now settled down to a contest of endurance.

"We consider the result to be obtained," said M. Tardieu, "is important enough to exclude all undue haste. I am convinced we shall come to a satisfactory result. The work is going on."

France to Wait For Pact.

Mr. MacDonald said nothing. The real upshot of the discussion was that France proposes to stay here until she gets the sort of treaty she wants, if any, and not walk out and leave the field to Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

M. Tardieu went to Chequers after a breakfast table talk with Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who is the most wholehearted supporter of a five-power pact in the American delegation and alone has refused to consider a three-power agreement satisfactory.

The discussion with Mr. MacDonald, it was learned on good authority, had the following results:

The two statesmen agreed that on questions of a method of determining the comparative strength of navies—that is, by the compromise between limitation by total tonnage or by classes of ships, already adopted—a five-power agreement is possible. They also agreed that all the participants in the present conference can reach a settlement on humanization of submarines and agree to a battleship holiday until 1936.

Cut in Figures Hinted.

The French premier put forward hints that France will reduce her tonnage program, calling for a French navy of 724,000 tons by 1936, if political results are achieved. His suggestions were vague, but British abandonment of this country's objection to trained reserves being left out of the computation of military strength figured in the talks, as did the general problem of security on which, however, no progress was made.

There is, as though by order, a reduction of talk in the air tonight in the French camp. All this depends for its validity in helping toward a five-power treaty upon whether France is willing to cancel building of new ships or only to scrap obsolete ones.

Returning to the American-Japanese situation, a fact which does not

RIVER YIELDS BODY OF TORTURE VICTIM

COUSIN IDENTIFIES HIM

Chicago, March 16 (A.P.).—The Chicago River yielded another corpse and another underworld mystery today.

Shot through the head and bound with baling wire, the body of John Rito was found floating in the North Branch and taken to the county morgue to reveal a story of torture and slaying—gangland's answer to a "wrong guy."

Early investigation indicated the victim was either a bootleg ring collector or a bookmaker.

Tips of the fingers on both hands had been burned apparently to satisfy the frequently manifested half world lust to make the death of enemies painful. The body had evidently been in the water about two weeks. It was noticed by motorists, who called police.

Identification came through a prayer book, on which Rito's name was inscribed in gold, and a belt buckle, bearing the slain man's initials. A cousin, Joseph Rito, went to the morgue and identified the body.

Slips of paper with notations of names and amounts of money indicated that Rito either collected from speak-easies for a liquor ring, or was connected with one of the many

WOULD-BE ROBBER CAPTURED IN CHASE

THEATER RECEIPTS SAFE

Disregarding a volley of bullets fired by a robber who attempted to hold them at bay, a large crowd of men last night continued on until they captured him at V and Fourteenth streets northwest.

The chase began at the Lincoln Theater, in U street between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets northwest. The alleged robber, Charles Mason, colored, of New York, was said to have attempted to steal at gun point a box containing $300, the day's receipts of the theater, which was about to be placed in the safe.

Wells Wallace, colored, usher, pushed the gun aside as the robber attempted to grab the box. The man backed out of the theater and began to run. Men in the section, aroused by Wallace's cry of "Stop thief," joined in the chase.

The pursued man fired three shots at them, but none took effect. When Mason was captured he was badly beaten by the crowd of colored men. His injuries were treated at Freedmen's Hospital. Later he was locked up in the Eighth Precinct Station for investigation.

Boy, 9, Fights Off Dog.

Brave little John Cocker, 9 years old, of 2616 L street northwest, didn't cry yesterday when a stray dog attacked him and bit him on the right arm. The boy, after fighting off the animal, walked to the Emergency Hospital where his wound was treated. Later he went home to show his scar to his family.

Hoovers, Out Promenading, Pass Unnoticed in Crowds

President and First Lady Walk to Amaryllis Show and Return to White House With Little Effect on Fellow Pedestrians.

The President and Mrs. Hoover, escorted by three members of the White House Secret Service, strolled down through the crowded streets and over Monument Park Grounds late yesterday afternoon, and very few who passed them recognized them as the Nation's first citizens.

The sunshine tempted the residents of 1700 Pennsylvania avenue into taking a walk in the spring air, and to go down to the amaryllis show at the conservatories of the Department of Agriculture on Fourteenth street, near B street, northwest.

They left the White House by going down East Executive avenue, and walking down the avenue past Poli's to the District Building at Fourteenth street. Turning there, they walked down Fourteenth street to the hothouses, and entered without benig announced. The flowers were in exhibit in one of the middle wings, placed so that there would be a continuous file of people entering, going up and down the aisles, and out at a side door.

The President did no twant any special attention. One of the guards at the exhibit offered to clear the place for him, but this courtesy was declined. Rather, he walked in and rubbed elbows with the masses, occasionally bending down to sniff one of the beautiful blossoms, or stopping to admire a particularly splendid specimen.

From the hothouse the President walked across the street to the Monument Grounds, disdaining the sidewalks, and keeping on the grass. Down in the park three or four small boys were practicing at putting, and Mrs. Hoover beckoned to the President to stop and watch them. The boys played on, not knowing who their distinguished lookers on were.

At the foot of the monument the party stopped, and for several minutes they stood looking down across the Mall, perhaps seeing in their minds the picture of the completed city with all its beautiful buildings, which, when completed, it will be possible to see from there. For a long time Mr. Hoover looked at the bony structure of the incomplete Department of Commerce Building.

Fro mthe Monument thee Hoovers went across the tennis court grounds to White House Grounds, entering the gate by the executive offices, which are being remodeled, the result of the Christmas Eve fire.

SEVEN SAILORS HURT IN MANILA RIOTING

POLICE QUELL BATTLES

Manila, March 16 (A.P.).—Fifty sailors of the United States Navy and a crowd of Filipino civilians engaged in a riot at Kittelle Field here this afternoon after a baseball game. Clubs and blackjacks were wielded, and stones and lead pipe were used as weapons during the melee in which five of the sailors were injured, although not seriously.

The crowd was subdued by B. K. West, an American police captain who was armed. When native police arrived they arrested three Filipinos. The most seriously injured of the Americans was E. O. Mecklinburg, a chief machinist's mate on the U. S. S. Parrott, who received four fractured ribs and was badly bruised on the face and body.

The influence behind the attack was not clear. One theory was that it was inspired by Communists. Others believed it was an attempt on the part of Manila gangsters to make good a threat made several weeks ago to avenge California race riots.

Police described the event as a "brawl" and of "no importance." An effort was made to suppress the facts.

FRENCH STATEMENT PREDICTS SEA PACT

HOLDS RESULTS CERTAIN

London, March 16 (A.P.).—A four-hour conference at Chequers between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Tardieu gave the Naval Conference a new lease on life tonight.

With A. V. Alexander, British first lord of the admiralty, and Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, and a whole crew of experts and advisers ranged beside them, the French and the British premiers negotiated to bring together the viewpoints of France, Great Britain and the other powers.

Foreign Minister Briand went to the conference at Chequers today direct from a breakfast table talk with Ambassador Morrow. While Mr. MacDonald and M. Tardieu, and Mr. Alexander and M. Briand, were bent over their task at Chequers, Mr. Stimson anxiously awaited the result at Stanmore.

M. Tardieu and M. Briand were in high spirits on their return to London, and did not conceal their elation over the new developments when they received all the newspapermen covering the conference tonight.

M. Tardieu issued a statement on the advance made.

"The French and British delegations," it said, "have examined the

U. S. Bullfighter Is Gored Seriously in Madrid Arena

Enraged Animal Tosses Brooklyn Toreador's Limp Body on Its Horns When Man Turns Back for Fraction of Second.

Madrid, March 16 (A.P.).—Sydney Franklin, bull fighter, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was gored by a bull today at his second appearance of the year in the Madrid arena. Doctors said his condition was serious, but believe he will live.

Franklin drew a large crowd to the arena and received a great welcome.

He went out jauntily to face the black bull, which was his first that afternoon. The animal, whose horns were very wide apart and sharp, lunged at him disconcertingly, and the fans began to murmur. "The Americano has a tough beast to fight."

As Franklin was making a whirling pass with his cape in front of the bull he was caught by the bull's horns from behind, during the fraction of a second that his back was turned to it.

The other matadors and the members of the "cuadrilla" rushed forward, waving their capes to district the bull, which was tossing Franklin's limp body on its horns. Finally he was flung loose and fell writhing in agony in the arena.

Another matador, Lagartito Segundo, was also injured slightly during the afternoon.

Dr. Crespo, a famous surgeon who specializes in the treatment of bullfighters' injuries, attended to Franklin. He said he believed his patient will be well again within 40 days if complications do not develop.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Sydney Franklin, of Brooklyn, who was gored by a bull today in Madrid, has gained much attention as the only American bullfighter in Spain.

The Brooklyn man, who was once a commercial artist and took up bullfighting after becoming interested in it during a visit to Mexico City, has appeared in arenas in Mexico and Spain for the last six years.

He has expressed the intention of introducing bullfighting in New York and has predicted that crowds as great as those that throng baseball parks here would soon turn out for bullfights.

Spanish experts have frequently expressed great admiration for Franklin's skill and astonishment that a foreigner should have learned the fine points of the Spanish national sport so well. One critic wrote he dis'ayed "magnificent valor."

Last July, in his first appearance in a Madrid arena, he was applauded by Premier Primo De Rivera, who attended.

Last August, in Lisbon, Franklin was gored by a bull and his condition was said to be serious, but in a few days he appeared again in a Madrid arena. Previously, he had been tossed, dragged on the ground or grazed by bulls' horns frequently, but he escaped permanent injury.

escape notice in informed quarters, is that the American proposals are based upon figures that, if not obsolete when the understanding resting upon them was reached with the Japanese politicians, may be obsolete after the debate tomorrow in the House of Commons.

House May Hear of Parley.

Mr. MacDonald, it is known, does not wish to discuss the conference in the House, but he or First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, may be forced to do so if Winston Churchill lives up to reports and delivers his expected slashing attack on the British delegation. The British delegation and the admiralty have agreed, if there is no big reduction in the French program, to demand 57 cruisers instead of 50, and 50,000 tons of destroyer tonnage in excess of the Rapidan figures.

All this will at once reopen the American-Japanese controversy, even if settled for the moment, on the subject of 8-inch-gun cruisers on the Rapidan basis. For the United States' suggestion to Japan that America build fifteen 8-inch-gun cruisers, to be in commission in 1936, and lay down three in the years 1933, 1934 and 1935, to come into service later, presupposes fifteen British cruisers of this type, and, according to present understanding, Great Britain will demand, not fifteen, but seventeen, and five more 6-inch-gun cruisers.

Unless the United States, therefore, abandons parity with Great Britain, the Japanese ratio question will again be thrown into the melting pot, and this now appears certain.

Three-Power Pact Under way.

It can be stated with authority that before M. Tardieu's return to London Secretary of State Stimson and Premier MacDonald had a three-power pact in an advanced stage and that the rapidity of the recent negotiations with the Japanese had for their aim Japanese adherence.

M. Tardieu's tactics today have apparently, therefore, surprised some of the statesmen of other powers, but are explainable on the ground that he wanted to smash this situation, and for the present has succeeded.

It can also be revealed confidently that Secretary Stimson is aware of the new British demands in advance of the Rapidan figures and decided last week how to deal with them. Instead of raising the figures between the United States and Great Britain agreed on here he wanted to invoke Article XXI of the Washington treaty of 1922, providing for calling of the treaty signatories in the event one of them felt menaced by the acts of an outside power. This, however, the British refused.

Another Clause Discussed.

Another clause has therefore been discussed and while its exact nature is not known in general it will provide for higher building by the three contracting parties in agreed ratios if the building programs of outside powers exceed certain figures.

This provision will enable the British to build their excess ships, but it will require supplementary negotiations with Japan which have not even begun.

All these things, however, which seemed in a fair way to settlement have been destroyed, at least temporarily, by M. Tardieu. France has as much right to sit here indefinitely demanding the sort of treaty she wants as the other powers have and apparently intends to do so.

What the future will bring forth besides extremely protracted negotiations no one in London can even guess.

Mysticis min Religino Attacked by Speaker

Religion today is hunting for theories and not for facts, it claims, an audience was told last night by Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, of Washington Missionary College, at the L'Aiglon Auditorium, Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest.

Speaking on the subject, "The Social and Political Dangers of Mysticism in Religion," he declared that this condition in religion is leading mankind from belief in an Almighty God to the trust or worship of an Almighty Man, a situation that might easily result disastrously, he added.

"On the one hand, we have specified the questions about which an agreement is either certain or easy. On the other hand, and more especially, we have examined those about which any agreement has hitherto appeared difficult to reach.

"The different methods suitable for bringing our standpoints together have been discussed. They will be used conjointly in the days to come.

"We consider that the result to be obtained is important enough to exclude any unwise haste; what we require is not haste but success.

JAPANESE APPROVAL OF U. S. OFFER SEEN

PRESS FOR AGREEMENT

Tokyo, March 16 (A.P.).—Tokyo today generally believed the government shortly would cable to London approval of the compromise reported to have been reached by the American and Japanese delegates at the naval conference.

Well-informed circles believed that naval men would strongly oppose the proposed U. S.-Japanese ratio on cruisers armed with 8-inch guns. Reliable sources reported that the compromise would allow America a total tonnage of 527,000 compared with 366,900 for the Japanese. That would be a total ratio of 69.4 per cent.

Reports said the proposed agreement would provide for 180,000 tons of 8-inch-gun cruisers for the United States, besides 145,000 tons of small cruisers, 150,000 tons of destroyers and 52,000 tons of submarines. Japan would be allowed 108,400 tons of 8-inch-gun cruisers, 101,400 tons of small cruisers, 105,000 tons of destroyers and 52,000 tons of submarines. America was understood to have proposed to lay down her whole allotments of warships carrying 8-inch guns by 1936, but to complete only 150,000 tons by that time.

15 U. S. Cruisers by 1936.

By this schedule, the United States would undertake to complete only fifteen big cruisers before 1936. The remaining three would be laid down, one annually, beginning in 1933.

Japan, on the other hand, would not be permitted to lay down any more big cruisers before 1936. Japan would retain her present strength, composed of four 10,000-ton cruisers, the Nachi, Myoko, Haguro and Ashigara, already completed, and the four 7,100-ton vessels, the Furutaka, Aoba, Kako and Kinukasa, which are also completed. The four 10,000-ton ships which are being built, the Takao, Atago, Chokai and Maya, of which the last probably will be completed by the end of 1932, also would be retained.

It was understood Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief of the Japanese delegation, and his colleagues submitted the tentative agreement to Tokyo as the "last American offer." But the submission was considered tantamount to the delegation's belief in its general acceptability.

Objections Are Foreseen.

Since the delegation includes Admiral Hyo Takarabe, the opposition naval men remaining in Tokyo are unlikely to be very vigorous or long sustained in their objections, although objections are expected concerning the cruisers. Tokyo is likely to insist that American undertaking respecting the last three big cruisers be specifically incorporated in the treaty. The Tokyo naval men are also likely to object to a reduction in the submarine fleet to 52,000 tons.

Recently the official denials of differences between the naval officials and the foreign ministries have been so vehement as to sustain rather than disprove reports concerning them.

While refusing to divulge the contents of the official dispatches from London or to comment on them, officials of the civilian branches of the government informally have expressed the hope that press reports of a London agreement prove true.

See Results Likely.

While the navy men were less hopeful, one spokesman of the navy ministry told newspapermen that the long drawn negotiations between the Japanese and Americans at London were likely to produce results within a week.

Editorial comment reflects a reawakening of hope for a successful outcome of the London naval conference. The Hochi Shimbun says that "although America's concessions still are short of Japan's desires, Tokyo would display wisdom as well as virtues in coming to terms somewhere near the latest American offer in view of the moral and material dangers attending failure of the conference."

The Tokyo Nichi-Nichi Shimbun welcomes the tidings of a provisional agreement at London although expressing doubt of British adherence. The Asahi Shimbun urges Japan and America to take advantage of their new-found spirit of cooperation and friendliness and draft a more permanent instrument than the proposed agreement terminating in 1936.

Women to Seek Equality Under rWorld Law Code

(Associated Press.)

The standards for equality between men and women as they are written into the laws of Argentina, Chile, Paraguay and Urugury, will be put forward by the inter-American commission of women at the conference for codification of international law for insertio)n into the world code of law.

Miss Doris Stevens, chairman of the commission, said in addressing a meeting in her honor at the National Woman's Party headquarters last night that the group would "oppose any action by The Hague conference adverse to this standard of equality." The commission will sai lthis week to present to the conference a treaty deaignde to give equal rights in nationality to men and women.

Debunked History Course To Be Given by Columbia

Dr. A. J. Nock, Follower of Thomas Jefferson, to Direct Department Which Will Be Established at St. Stephen's College.

New York, March 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—History will be taught debunked in a new department of American history and government to be established at St. Stephen's College at Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y., the country college of Columbia University, according to an announcement today.

Dr. Albert Jay Nock, author, editor and publicist, has been appointed visiting professor to direct the new department, Harold F. Wilson, former assistant to Prof. Arthur M. Schlesinger, of Harvard's history department, will act as instructor.

In Brussels studying the life and explained by Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, warden and dean of St. Stephen's, "students will study our national history and politics from a strictly realistic point of view, with special attention to the theories of government involved.

"Dr. Nock's own political theories are largely those of Thomas Jefferson. He is especially opposed toward centralization of control and interference with the rights and privileges of the individual, tendencies which, to his mind, completely overthrow that for which America rightly stands."

During the World War Dr. Nock was assistant to Brand Whitlock, Minister to Belgium, and interceded with the German commandant in a vain effort to prevent the execution of Edith Cavell. After the war he was editor of the Freeman for a while, and for the last three years has lived in Brussels tsudying the life and works of Rabelais and contributing political articles to Atlantic Monthly, Harper's, the Century Magazine and Scribner's Magazine.

Dr. Nock is an alumnus of St. Stephen's of the class of 1892.

MANEUVERS REVEAL U.S. NEEDS CRUISERS

AIR ATTACK SUCCEEDS

Guantanamo Bay, March 16 (A.P.).—Cruisers and more cruisers—those fleet scouting greyhounds of the sea—are the present need of the American Navy even as they have been in years past.

This is the consensus of flag and other high ranking officers of the United States fleet in Guantanamo Bay, fresh today from experiences gained and lessons learned in the "Battle of Navassa," theoretically fought to a finish in the Caribbean Friday after almost a week of maneuvering and scouting, involving intricate problems and in which ships of every type played their part.

Since the days of the Washington Disarmament Conference, which throttled all serious naval construction, cruisers have been at the forefront of international news.

The recent maneuvers and the working out of fleet problems has not changed the opinion of high ranking naval men that fast scouts in the form of light cruisers are still of so high an importance that without them a fleet staggers about in its battle strategy as a blind man.

Fast Cruisers Essential.

Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder, who acted as umpire in the war game just completed, is emphatic that from lessons which came out of the tactical problem, it is absolutely necessary to have a large fleet of fast cruisers, modern from stem to stern, if a mobile fleet is to be formidable in action.

A lack of sufficient light forces, including destroyers and cruisers, Admiral Magruder believes, considerably hampered officers in command of both the "Black" and the "Blue" fleets in the "battle" just completed, considerably cutting down their visibility and range of intelligence operation.

Rear Admiral Magruder is also of the opinion that the United States should proceed with the building of 135,000 tons of aircraft carriers allowed by the Washington Conference. Also, he believes, the new carriers should be smaller than the Saratoga and the Lexington to permit greater numbers of this type of ship.

Admiral L. M. Nulton, who commanded the "Blue fleet" in the exercises, emphasized the need of an offensive fleet for a large force of cruisers, not only for screen work but for scouting far ahead of the great ships of the line. The "Blue fleet" cruised about the Caribbean for days in vain search for the mythical invader, its sea eyesight considerably hampered by the absence of sufficient light forces to locate the course and position of the enemy and to determine his plan of battle.

Strategic Air Attack.

It was by a brilliant air attack that Vice Admiral W. C. Cole after several days of maneuvering was able to launch his air force from the broad decks of the Lexington and in the period of a few brief minutes wipe out the air force of the Blue fleet.

The Lexington, Black fleet aircraft tender, and the Saratoga, the floating air base of the Blue fleet, were approximately 40 miles apart, with the fleets running on courses which made battle imminent. Admiral Cole was able to launch a fleet of 36 bombing planes from the Lexington in a brilliantly executed surprise attack on the Saratoga, which was caught unawares and put out of action with only three planes of her air armada in the skies.

Just before the big ships fired their last shots, eighteen Black torpedo planes took the air from a secret base at Great Messels Bay, Haiti, where they had been deposited by the mother ship Wright, and attacked the already hard-pressed Blue fleet main battle line. Some observers were of the opinion that the Blue fleet losses had been staggering and that the Black fleet had concluded the engagement with a decisive victory in which many Blue ships were theoretically sent to the bottom.

Autoist Is Arrested After Two Cars Crash

James S. Rust, 40 years old, of M street near Fifteenth northwest, was arrested and charged with driving while drunk and without a permit at the Sixth Precinct station last night after he collided with a car operated by J. L. Phillips, of 622 D street northeast.

No one was injured in the accident. Bond was set at $400 for Rust.

SENATE TO RESUME DEBATE ON LEATHER

Enters Twenty-ninth Week of Tariff Revision at Session Today.

WILL LIMIT ARGUMENT

(Associated Press.)

Continuing its eleven-hour day program, the Senate will enter upon its twenty-ninth week of tariff revision today with leaders entertaining high hopes of passage of the Hawley-Smoot measure by Thursday.

Only half a dozen disputes of more or less major importance remain to be settled before the final command from Vice President Curtis, "The clerk will call the roll."

The first point of difference will be tackled today with resumption of efforts to place duties on hides, leathers and shoes, now on the free list, but made dutiable in the House bill. An amendment by Senator Oddie (Republican), Nevada, calling for higher hide rates and lower shoe levies than those of the House measure, will be the hub around which the debate will revolve.

Eight Attempts Fail.

Eight attempts to modify the Oddie proposal failed last week, but this was not interpreted as a sign that it would go through. On the contrary, the consensus appeared to be that it meant a repetition of the action of a few months ago, when all three commodities were left on the free list by a vote of 46 to 28.

Debate will be limited when it is resumed today, and a decision is expected before the session ends at 10 p. m.

Two other rate controversies face the nerve-worn legislators before the administrative sections again are put to the test of revision. These embrace the attempts of senators from Southwestern States to take oil and petroleum products from the free list and of Northwestern senators to patch up the holes in the tariff wall against soft-wood lumber.

Both Suffered Defeats.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, will lead the fight for the oil tariff, while Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, will make another bid for lumber protection. Both suffered defeats several weeks ago, and in an effort to win more support they will curtail their rate requests.

As for the administrative provisions, much interest is being manifested in the plans of Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, to restore to the bill the existing provision authorizing customs officials to bar entry of books they regard as of an immoral nature. This clause was stricken out several months ago on motion of Senator Cutting (Republican), New Mexico.

Both Senator Cutting and Senator Smoot have been burning midnight oil in preparation for the contest. Senator Cutting recently placed in the record a petition signed by several hundred authors, educators and editors favoring the lifting of what they termed the "customs censorship." Senator Smoot has been devoting his spare moments in the last few days in exhibiting to senators of a more liberal turn of mind underlined passages from half a dozen books seized by customs agents.

Norris' Two Amendments.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, has pending two amendments which undoubtedly will lead to sharp debate. One would provide for suspension of duties on any commodity found to be controlled by a monopoly. The other would limit the profits on sales of imported articles.

The high spots in the rate schedules of both the House and Senate bills as of today are the agriculture and wool schedules, both of which have been revised upward to a point never before known. Of the four textile schedules, rayon and wool have been given the greatest increase in protection. Cotton goods have been given slight raises, while the silk schedule remains about the same as existing law.

Both measures carry an increase in the sugar duty, as well as rates on brick, cement and hardwood flooring. The House bill carries duties on other lumber and shingles, but these remain on the Senate free list.

Girl Gulps Poison; Taken to Hospital

Young Woman Thought to Be Recovering After Swallowing Potion.

Effects believed not serious were suffered by Gladys Trice, 19 years old, of an M street apartment, near Fifteenth street northwest, in swallowing the contents of a small bottle of poison in what police described as a suicidal attempt in a pharmacy at Eleventh and H streets northwest, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

Employes at the drug store sent her in a taxicab to Emergency Hospital, where she was reported slowly recovering. The young woman, withholding her name, was identified by her mother, Mrs. Lydia Trice, of Thirtieth street northeast, near Franklin who said her daughter had been residing recently with girl friends at the M street apartment.

Police said the young woman entered the drug store with a man who purchased the bottle of poison, giving the required explanation that it was to be used for antiseptic purposes. Police said he gave Miss Trice the bottle and a nickel which she requested, and that she entered a telephone booth and gulped down the contents of the bottle.

BLACKHANDER HUNT ON IN BALTIMORE

GUARD IS MAINTAINED

The haunts of criminals in Baltimore were the scene of the search last night by local detectives for the perpetrator of blackhand threats on the life of Frank Sachs, District auto repair shop proprietor.

Detectives believe that the racketeer, who has on three occasions threatened to kill Sachs, has been imported from the underworld of some nearby city. A description of the blackhander has been broadcast through Maryland and Virginia, but thus far all clews have been negative.

Despite the fact that Sachs has not been theratened since he was "taken for a ride" last Thursday, the police continue to watch his place of business at 609 K street northwest, and also his residence. They believe that the double guard has prevented the racketeer from carrying out his death threats.

The blackhand threats at no time made a demand for money. The notes commanded, however, that Sachs eliminate his glass repair department in his shop.

In cities like Chicago and New York racketeering of this sort is being carried on every day, according to the authorities, and in many instances the death threats are carried out.

Catholic Church History Is Traced

Weathered Greatest Test in Nineteenth Century, Dr. Cartwright Says.

Tracing the history of the Catholic Church in the second of a series of Lenten sermons yesterday in Immaculate Conception Church, the Rev. Dr. John K. Cartwright, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, declared that "in all the history of the church she has probably never been put to such a test as in the nineteenth century."

The speaker declared that the great industrial and political revolutions of the time brought more new circumstances into the individual life than ever before.

"When the changes came it was commonly stated and believed that the Catholic Church must go with all the older things," Dr. Cartwright said. "In point of fact, in spite of some difficulties and misunderstanding at the beginning, the Catholic Church has not merely survived the changes, but has made herself at home among them, has utilized them, has supported them with her tremendous moral authority, and has grown stronger among them than she was in the age of monarchy and absolutism."

G. U. Debate Team Downs Princeton

Georgetown University debaters defeated a team from Princeton University, 4 to 1, last night in Gaston Hall, at the Hilltop, in defending the negative of the question, "Resolved, That the Kellogg peace pact is a sound basis for the foreign policy of the United States."

The debate was the first between teams of the two institutions since 1921 and marked the first intercollegiate contest of the varsity debating team at Georgetown this season. Georgetown was represented by John C. Hayes, Bernard J. McQuade and John P. Lynch, while Princeton debaters were J. V. Vancise, E. D. Lucas and J. M. Punnell.

Hunt Begun for Bandits Who Shot Storekeeper

A wide search has been instituted by the Metropolitan Police for the youthful bandits who twice shot Max Reikes, 52-year-old delicatessen proprietor, of 108 East Capitol street, during a holdup Saturday night.

The condition of Mr. Reikes, who is in the Casualty Hospital, was reported as "fair" last night. He was wounded in the right arm and left breast. He was fighting off the bandits when he was wounded. The pair rifled the cash register of about $20 and fled. Police hope to locate them through an auto which they abandoned in front of the store.

WHOZIT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. His nationality is uncertain but it is generally believed that he was born in Scotland.

2. His lifetime covered parts of the fourth and fifth centuries.

3. He was a noted religious leader, his most noted work being the Christianizing of an island off the coast of Europe.

4. A day devoted to perpetuating his memory is widely observed in the United States.

Man Who Went Fishing For Trousers Is Seized

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Tonight a Queens patrolman said he saw George Moore, 29, a Negro, fishing. He arrested him.

According to the patrolman, this is how Moore fished:

He stuck a 10-foot pole with a hook on it through the open window of a house. He withdrew the pole and on it hung the master's trousers. Then he rifled the trousers and returned them on the end of the pole.

DOHENY TO DEFEND HIMSELF ON STAND

TACTICS ARE OUTLINED

(Associated Press.)

Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil operator, today will open his defense to an indictment charging that he bribed Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, to award his company a lease to the Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve.

Chief efforts of the defense are expected to be directed toward trying to prove that it was the Navy Department under Secretary Denby and not the Interior Department under Secretary Fall which directed execution of the contract to Doheny's Pan-American Co. for construction of naval oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. This contract contained a clause giving Doheny's company preference to any land in the naval oil reserve which the Government decided to lease. Fall executed the lease of the reserve to the company a year after Doheny sent him $100,000 in cash.

The defense also expects to try to show that the money was a loan to an old friend for which Doheny received a note payable upon demand and that it had no connection with the lease. The defense contends that Doheny did not hear of the Pearl Harbor plan of the Navy until months after he had made the loan.

Doheny to Take Stand.

Doheny will take the stand and submit to cross-examination. He is expected to repeat his former testimony that his company bid on the contract, after once refusing to do so, only after a naval officer had told him secret reports indicated that a navy of a Pacific power was becoming a menace to the West Coast of the United States.

Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for Doheny, and J. J. Cotter, his associate, declined to express an opinion as to the length of time the defense would require, but it was believed they would finish in four court days.

The Government's case against Doheny was completed Saturday, less than three court days after it started. In those three days Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, special Government prosecutors, placed before the jury of three women and nine men testimony and documents intended to show that Doheny had paid Fall $100,000 on November 30, 1921, and a year later had received a lease to the Elk Hills reserve.

1924 Testimony Read.

The Government placed Doheny's own story of the financial transaction with Fall before the jury by reading for hours the oil man's testimony before the Senate oil committee in 1924.

Stress was placed by the prosecutors upon the vigorous examination and cross-examination of Doheny by United States senators who were investigating the oil scandals of the Harding administration.

The prosecutors also produced testimony that while Fall did not handle oil leases during his regime, he did execute the lease to Doheny.

RED ATHEISTS PLAN NEW RELIGIOUS WAR

state is a subterfuge so transparent that it should deceive no one."

Dr. William B. Millar, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, representing more than 1,100 churches, expressed sympathy for religious sufferers.

At St. Patrick's and 444 other churches Catholics also held prayer services.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise said that protest should be made, not by the churches, but by liberals of the land as a duty to minorities.

At the Communist meeting Carl Brodsky, chairman, said: "We licked the white army. Now we will lick the black army of the imperialists. Today is a day of prayer for the holy of holies, and we want to be ready to mobilize hundreds of thousands of workers to defend Sovietism."

London Holds Services.

London, March 16 (A.P.).—Intercessory services on behalf of Christians in Russia were held in churches and chapels throughout England today in response to a call by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Preaching at St. Matthew's, the Bishop of London, the Right Rev. A. F. W. Ingram, declared, "We do well to pray for those in Russia today."

Dr. A. Fleming, at Colomba's Church, said, "Persecution and war to the death on religion have been acknowledged and glorified by those who perpetrate them."

A slight disturbance was caused at Islington Parish Church when four young men interrupted the special prayers asserting that they were a form of war propaganda against Russia. When asked to leave they did so quietly.

Condemnation of the persecution of the Jewish religion in Russia was embodied in a resolution passed by the Jewish Board of Deputies.

Catholics in Washington will join with others of their faith in the Baltimore Diocese Wednesday in offering up their prayers and communion for the Pope's intentions in his fight against the godless campaign of Soviet Russia.

Catholics of the diocese were urged yesterday at all masses to attend mass Wednesday, which is the feast day of St. Joseph, patron saint of the Catholic Church.

In St. Patrick's Church at 8 p. m. vespers will be sung and a sermon, touching on religious conditions in Russia, will be delivered by Dr. George C. Johnson, of Catholic University.

The Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, authority on Russia, whose review of the Soviet campaign against religion is appearing in other columns, will be the principal speaker at services to be held in Baltimore at the same hour.

First Auto Drive Comes to Grief

Sailor Knocks Policeman Off Bicycle; Held on Two Charges.

David O. Cooper, 25 years old, attached to the U. S. Naval Air Station, in his first attempt to drive an automobile, according to the police, ran down Bicycle Policeman William R. Ellery, of the First Precinct Station, yesterday afternoon.

Cooper was driving in E street between Ninth and Tenth streets northwest when his car bumped Ellery off his bike. Ellery suffered only slight bruises which did not necessitate medical aid.

Cooper was locked up at the First Precinct Station on a charge of driving without a permit and reckless driving.

MINORITY OF COURT PRAISED BY CAPPER

Opinions of Holmes, Brandies and Stone Held in Public's Interest.

TALK GIVEN BY RADIO

(Associated Press.)

Senator Capper (Republican), of Kansas, said yesterday the famous Supreme Court "minority" of Justices Holmes, Brandeis and Stone had rendered opinions that "seemed fairer and more constructively in the public interest than those of the customary majority."

In a broadcast address under the auspices of the Radio Home Makers the Kansan said "there should be some more members of the court with their viewpoint.

"The court has assumed and is taking more and more legislative power," Senator Capper continued. "Many senators and more people throughout the country are rebelling against this usurpation of power by the court."

Senator Capper, referring to the recent Senate fight against the confirmation of Chief Justice Hughes, said that he "was very much in favor" of Mr. Hughes, but that he believed "it was a good thing for the court and for the country that we have some plain-spoken comment on the tendency of the Supreme Court and courts in general to encroach upon the legislative branch of the Government."

Menace in China Seen by Speaker

Former Missionary Tells of Changing of Social Values There.

China is undergoing an evolution and revolution that promises to make that nation a menace to the world, the Rev. Charles L. Carhart, former missionary at Hankow, told the Washington Secular League at a meeting held yesterday in Musicians Hall. "In the old order of society in China," the speaker said, "the scholar was rated highest and the soldier lowest, but that conception no longer rules.

"The Chinese are modeling their armaments on those of the west, he said, and politics, industry, commerce and religion are increasingly reflecting the influence of more modern nations. This great transformation is bound to affect seriously the Western nations that have great interests in China. The solution of China's problems, and those of other nations, must be found in a realization somehow of the teaching of the ancient Chinese philosophy which urges men to remember that they must live together as brothers in the same household."

A discussion of the subject was participated in by Mrs. Ethel Murray, Judge Lawrence Becker, Henry Longley, Judge Frederick Haller, John D. Bradley and Percy H. Skinner.

Youth Movement Has Sex Program

Speaker Says Intelligent Relationships Are Part of Project.

"Intelligent sex relationships" are a part of the program of the International Youth Movement, Leonard Darvin, of Baltimore, former editor of Youth magazine, declared yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Washington Forum in the Annapolis Hotel. He denied, however, the rumors of licentiousness among its members.

The speaker defined the organization as "a movement which shall fight in America, as in Germany and in China, injustice, imperialism and suppression; a movement which shall institute a definite campaign for peace, interracial welfare and genuine culture."

Others participating in the discussion were Samuel Saloman, Dr. Joseph A. Themper, A. E. Gale, Felix Prayer, Daniel O'Brien, Dr. James Eads How, Henry W. Selah and Paul Denny.

Democratic Leader Sights "Unholy Alliance" Between Party and Interests.

TAKES BLOW AT HOOVER

(Associated Press.)

Existence of an "unholy alliance" between the Republican organization and the power interests was charged yesterday by Representative Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader, who said Claudius Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, "was, and doubtless still is, connected with interests seeking to exploit Muscle Shoals for private gain."

"The activities of Huston in connection with the Muscle Shoals lobby, as revealed by the Senate committee investigating lobbying," the Texan said in a formal statement, "clearly discloses the unholy alliance between the Republican organization and those interests seeking special privileges.

"It is evident the selection of Huston to head the Republican organization was acceptable to both President Hoover and those predatory interests that finance the organization. In his present position, Huston will be an important factor in the nomination of the Republican presidential candidate in 1932.

"Control of Party Complete."

"With Joe Grundy the dominant figure of the so-called administration forces in the Senate, and Houston at the head of the Republican organization, control of the party by the lobbyists, manufacturers Association and power interests is complete. Emboldened by their success in 1928, the Republican party now is brazenly admitting and attempting to justify a condition which heretofore it has sought to conceal, and President Hoover, titular head of the party, has not, by either word or act, endeavored to make the party responsive to the demands of the people rather than to the demands of the lobbyists and seekers of special privilege.

"The Boulder dam situation is a fair criterion of the influence the power interests yield. It was the intent of Congress that the municipalities and communities should be given preference in utilization of the power generated, and there is nothnig at in the bill that can be construed as extending to Secretary Wilbur, of the Interior, the right to regard it as another 'grab' for the power interests. The recent opinion rendered by the solicitor of the Interior Department, E. C. Finney, of Teapot Dome fame, is a clear index of the trend of that department in its relations with the power interests.

Sees Issue for Campaign.

"I am confident the usurpation of governmental functions by the allied interests and lobbyists will be one of the most important issues in the congressional campaign. The revelations of recent months, which have closely linked the Republican party and the Hoover administration with those interests exploiting the American public and our natural resources, have, I believe, aroused the American people to such an extent that they will not permit such conditions to endure.

"A year has elapsed since the inauguration of President Hoover, and during that period the power, industrial and financial interests and the lobbyists have been permitted to fasten themselves more firmly upon the public. Apparently, the President, unwilling to assume the responsibilities of party leadership, has turned that leadership over to them, and they may be depended upon to utilize it for their own benefit."

Driver Burns to Death In car After Collision

Toledo, Ohio, March 16 (A.P.).—Stephen G. Van Buren, 31, manager of the Toledo Transcontinental Airport at Lemoyne, Ohio, was burned to death when the automobile in which he was riding with his wife and friends burst into flames following a collision with a truck on the outskirts of Milan, Mich., 30 miles north of Toledo, early today.

Van Buren was pinned in the car by the rear of the truck, which was driven through the windshield. Mrs. Van Buren was burned on the right hand and Harry Naugle on the face, hand and leg in an attempt to save Van Buren.

WHAT A WHALE OF A DIFFERENCE JUST A FEW CENTS MAKE

NEW ST. GABRIEL'S CORNER STONE LAID

Most Rev. Michael J. Curley Presides at Services Attended by 5,000.

SOVIET IS CHALLENGED

A challenge was hurled to Soviet Russia to observe the prosperity and the happiness of the Christian people of the United States yesterday afternoon by the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, archbishop of the Baltimore diocese, and the Rev. Ignatius Smith, O. P., former prior of the Dominican House of Studies, in religious exercises conducted at the laying of the cornerstone of the new St. Gabriel's Catholic Church, on Grant Circle, in the Petworth section.

"Will the Russian government not learn a lesson from Mexico?" asked Father Smith in the principal address following the ceremony of blessing the cornerstone. "Mexico found that national disintegration follows the persecution of the church.

"Why can't Russia learn a lesson from the nations of the eighteenth and nineteenth century who attempted to destroy the church? Thanks be to God, there are no such problems in the United States."

Archbishop Curley took occasion to make reference to the prayers that the Pope had called for the religious people of the Soviet republic and contrasted the scene in Russia with the dedication ceremony conducted at St. Gabriel's.

The dedication ceremony drew approximately 5,000 persons to the skeleton structure that is expected to be a completed edifice before the year is out. Balmy spring skies made the weather auspicious for the exercises.

The colorful ceremony opened with the procession of the Archbishop, the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop and St. Gabriel's pastor, Father Smith, and other notables of the clergy from the rectory to the church auditorium, now being used for a church.

The rites of dedication and blessing of the corner stone were conducted by the Archbishop, while the sermon was delivered by Father Smith. A choir of women sang and the choir boys participated in the ceremony.

"This church is the product of years of dreaming," Father Smith said in his address. "It will stand as one of the great monuments of the city and a tribute of the generosity and faith of a devoted people.

"You do well to erect this edifice to our Saviour in this great City of Washington, which is unsurpassed in the number and beauty of monuments to heroes. You do well by your church, your God, your community, your Nation, and yourselves in building this sermon in stone."

Father Smith and later Archbishop Curley highly praised Bishop McNamara for his work in the parish during the last decade and for his leadership in bringing about the building of the new church.

The archbishop also lauded the "generosity and loyalty of the people of the St. Gabriel's Parish, saying that they were "unsurpassed, if equaled, in all of the Baltimore archdiocese."

At the conclusion of the benediction Archbishop Curley announced that because of the dedication and the fact that today is St. Patrick's, the children of the parochial school would be given a holiday.

Current Burns Clothes Off Organist, Who Lives

Salem, Mass., March 16 (A.P.).—Kemmenth W. Moffett, of Cambridge, organist of the Second Church of Salem, Escaped unscathed today when electricity from a fallen wire burned the clothes from his body.

Policemen watching the fallen wire shouted warnings, but Moffett must have had his mind on his hymns. He became entangled in the wire just as he stepped on a car track. There was a blinding flash and Moffett was left in a somewhat embarrassing situation.

DR. WALSH SCORES SOVIET TACTICS

ransoming them with equal sums of money, the offers were either refused—or accepted, only to have the objects confiscated anew so that they might be ransomed all over again. In the meantime, the government was spending large sums on foreign propaganda and exporting wheat even from famine regions.

In short, confiscation of church property under cover of famine relief furnished an admirable starting point for the elimination of the physical equipment of the churches.

Soviet Fairs No Famine.

The Soviet government fears no famine today, but from their own statistical records the destruction of church edifices, Catholic, Orthodox, Protestant, Jewish and Moslem, by demolition, by dynamiting, by conversion into clubs, cinemas, museums, warehouses and circuses goes on apace. A dispatch from Soviet sources dated February 22, 1930, puts the number of churches closed or destroyed during the past year at 1,370. They were "needed for public purposes" or confiscated "on demand of the local peasants and workers" or for nonpayment of taxes (sometimes 50 per cent per annum of the total value) or "liquidated" to furnish a playhouse for communist children.

A church is requisitioned for a communist club because the parishioners did not repair the leaking roof—permission for which had been carefully refused by the local commissar. The classical example, worthy of a high place in the annals of cynical hypocrisy, is that of the local Soviet which has heard rumors to the effect that the foundations of the parish church has subsided, making the edifice dangerous for the good parishioners. To verify this report it was obviously necessary to inspect the foundations; to do this the church was torn down instanter. To the great relief of the commissars, they found the foundations to be as solid as the Kremlin wall.

Various pretexts appear, but the churches invariably disappear. "Plus ca change plus c'est la meme chose."

How Law Operates.

Violation of the law forbidding religious instruction to any one under 18 years of age, whether in public or in private, is constantly invoked whenever a demonstration of communist purity is deemed advisable.

In the case of a church which may happen to be open and functioning, it is the simplest of simple matters to assign some zealous young communist of 16 or 17 years to the welcome task of slipping in among the congregation and furnishing evidence. Reading the Gospel of Jesus Christ would be sufficient. Next morning the offending priest is on his way to Siberia or lost among the host of forgotten prisoners in the cells of the G. P. U. He may even be executed in virtue of the unique provision of the penal code, which provides that if a court imposes the maximum penalty for a given offense, then the central executive committee has the legal power to commute that penalty into death by shooting.

Hence the revolutionary court may impose a purely correctional and disciplinary penalty of one year in prison. But if that period be the maximum sentence allowed under the statute invoked, the prisoner runs afoul of a supplemental paragraph, No. 33, and may be eliminated at the pleasure of the central executive committee.

Justice Department Abolished.

With reason the Soviet government recently announced the abolition of its department of justice and the substitution of a commissariat for the preservation of revolutionary order.

A mother in her home, with her children at her knee, is teaching her offspring the faith of their forefathers. She is denounced and may be faced with a dread possibility—either to go to prison or pay a heavy fine or suffer the moral torture of seeing her child torn from her bosom and placed in the communist school, where it will be taught the militant atheism of the state at the expense of the parent. To be sure, this is all quite legal, if by "legal" one means in accord with Soviet law.

The customary denial of religious persecution has already been cabled from Moscow and complete liberty of conscience vindicated, provided, of course, it be exercised within existing legislation. This interpretation, which seems to satisfy certain timid souls in America and elsewhere, is to be expected, as denial and counter-charge have formed the order of the day in every attack on religion. The Roman Neros first set that fashion by outlawing Christianity and then massacring Christians not precisely because of their religion, but for illegally refusing to offer a few grains of incense to the pagan deities.

Record Is Made Known.

The modern world, however, is better informed. The official pronouncements of the Soviet government itself render superfluous any laborious demonstration of their intent to extirpate all religion in Russia as a constituent elements of the five-year program.

Fortunately, we have a complete and remarkable documentation of some 6,000 words furnished by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency to the New York Times on Sunday, February 16, 1930, setting forth the legal pretexts under cover of which the attack on religion is to be conducted and God liquidated. No student of Russian affairs, no competent observer can now doubt what the Soviet government is the first to admit. The Moscow commissars frankly and cheerfully propose as their ideal, what Gladstone so well described in his succinct phrase, "The negation of God erected into a system of government."

The present writer heard with his own ears the prosecuting attorney of the Soviet state put the question to men on trial for their lives in Moscow in 1923:

"Will you stop teaching the Christian religion?"

"We can not," came the answer, "it is the law of God."

"That law does not exist on Soviet territory," replied Krylenko, "you must choose." "As for your religion, I spit on it, as I spit on all religions."

Basic Issue Clear-Cut.

The basic issue was clear-cut and as clearly faced. The victims went unflinching to death or to exile in 1923 and are facing the same alternative—as old as Christianity itself—with equal fortitude in 1930.

To elaborate further on the self-confessed intention of the Soviet government in that respect would indeed be painting the lily or gilding refined gold.

The Jewish religion is assailed with the same methods and equal hatred. In an authoritative report delivered before the American Jewish Congress held on December 8, 1929, at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, Mr. Leo M. Glassman presented the results of ten months of investigation of the fate of his coreligionists in Soviet Russia. Facts, dates, places, names and documents are cited in substantiation of his indictment of the government's maneuvers to abolish belief in God, irrespective of the particular credo. "The ferocious warfare against Jewish culture and Zionism," says Mr. Glassman, is directed by the Yevsektia, the Jewish section of the communist party. In the following incident, the speaker confirms one of the most odious and inhuman devices which the present writer knows to have been employed by the Soviet government against Christians as well:

"On April 18, which was just about a week prior to Passover, I left Moscow on my way south to visit the Jewish colonies in the Ukraine and Crimea. En route I stopped in a number of cities and everywhere they were employing the same methods to keep the Jewish people from observing Passover. But in some instances the Jewish communists surpassed themselves in sheer brutality. Thus, in Kiev the Jewish children were told that failure to appear in school on Passover would mean immediate expulsion; moreover, they were instructed not to appear in school in their new clothes.

"But the outstanding example that impressed itself on my mind more than any other was in Kherson, which, as you know probably, is a few hours distant by boat from Odessa. Here bolshevik cruelty was brought down to its finest point; the Jewish children were told that if they stayed out on Passover their ration cards for bread would be taken away from them! I leave it to your imagination to visualize this. Had I not been in Soviet Russia and investigated this personally, I would have refused to believe that such inhumanity was possible. Nor are those isolated cases.

"Similar reports came to me from many other cities, but I am only citing what I saw and substantiated."

Catholic Clergy Disappear.

Fifty per cent of the Catholic clergy of Russia have disappeared since the revolution, through judicial murder, starvation, exile or imprisonment. The martyrology is a long and glorious one. Mgr. Constantine Budkiewicz was shot to death on the night of Good Friday, 1923. Archbishop John Cieplak was condemned to die at the same time but was saved owing to the protests of the entire civilized world. Joseph Bielogolovy, 46 years of age, a brillian professor of the Ecclesiastical Academy at Petrograd, was early signaled out by the bolshevik authorities—and rightly so—as a priest of true episcopal timber. Urged to accept "consecration" at their hands as bishop of an anti-Catholic sect which would enjoy their subsidized favor in order to labor at the undermining of faith in general, he calmly spurned the insidious offer and paid for his loyalty to conscience with his life. He was shot in 1928.

Dominick Ivanov, about the same age, former vicar of St. Catherine's, Petrograd, banished to the unspeakable horror of Solovetsky Island in the White Sea, succumbed in the freezing darkness of that island prison during the same year. It was from this new Siberia that eighteen prisoners, worn to skeletons, escaped, as if by a miracle, a few months ago and reached the shores of Finland.

"Kill us here," they begged the astonished Finnish guards between Martukule and Kiolaarvi, "but don't send us back where they will kill us by inches."

Other Clergymen Listed.

There still remain on Solovetsky Island, undergoing the agony of slow execution, the following Catholic clergymen: Mgr. Boleslav Sloskan, apostolic administrator of Mohilev and of Minsk, who was arrested in August, 1927, and after the worst form of physical and moral torture deported to the island and sentenced to hard labor. (It is of this confessor of the faith that the sovereign pontiff makes mention in his recent letter); Paul Chomicz, 36 years of age; Vincent Dejnis, 49 years of age; Adolphe Filip, 44 years of age; Vincent Ilgin, 43 years of age; Joseph Iuzwik, 56 years of age; Casimir Siwicki, 45 years of age; Miecislas Szawdinis, 34 years of age; John Troigo, 49 years of age; John Versocki, 41 years of age; the two theologians, Tysowski and Woronko. All belong to the Diocese of Mohilev.

The list continues: Nicholas Alexandrov, Potapi Emilianov and that intrepid hero, Leonid Feodorov, exarch of Russian Catholics of the Oriental rite, and Bishop Frison.

And still the list goes on: Cesar Feodorovitch, Victor Kriventchouk, Basil Stysilo, Paul Aschеberg, Joseph Kolch and John Furch, the last of whom was sent into exile for the crime of having warned his parishioners against certain immoral moving picture films then being shown at the local cinema.

Complete Roster Missing.

The last name which we have is that of Father Chtchepanlouk, a priest of the Oriental Rite from Kiev. The complete roster of those undergoing a similar agony for conscience sake in distant points, such as Siberia, Turkestan and the Caucasus, is known only to God. But among them stand out the venerable apostolic administrator of Kiev, Mgr. Theophile Skalski, 52 years of age, and Father John Deubner, the first of whom has been imprisoned for three and one-half years; the latter for more than eight years.

Canon Anton Wassilevsky sealed his faith with his life during the first week of October, 1929, dying in South Caucasus, in absolute isolation, a veritable confessor of the faith.

Many of these martyrs and confessors of the faith I knew personally, and can testify that their only crime is the daily crime of Cardinal Hayes, of New York; of Bishop Manning, and of Rabbi Stephen Wise. They believed in God and taught His revelation and the moral law as God gave them the light to see it. Peace to their souls and honor to their names.

Rykov Statement Rapped.

And yet the premier of Soviet Russia, Mr. Alexis Rykov, in a recent interview reported by the United Press, assures the world that nobody has been executed, exiled, imprisoned or starved to death for religious beliefs, but only for "counter revolutionary activity." In this he is probably technically correct. Having publicly proclaimed Almighty God its enemy, the Soviet state cynically considers as treasonable all aid, comfort and consolation given to the cause of God.

The full might of the government, its army, its police, its legislation, its control of food, of lodging and education, its subsidized terrorism and espionage—in a word, the state itself—is then mobilized to extirpate religion in the concrete by direct and indirect attack. The helpless victims, for their part, are bound hand and foot by a network of discriminatory legislation and the ever-present menace of the G. P. U.

Possessing neither power, nor influence, nor representation, nor financial resources, nor printing presses, nor means to avert starvation when their food cards are withdrawn, they are guaranteed, nevertheless, full freedom of conscience and equal liberty of religious belief and practice!

How Soviet State Acts.

If this is not prosecution, words have lost their meaning.

Strike the shepherd and the flock will be dispersed. By indirect means the attack is now extended to embrace the Russian people as a whole. Already supreme arbiter of education, master of life and death, sole proprietor of the printing press, dictator of employment, landlord of all lodgings and autocratic distributor of ration cards, the Soviet government next created and financed the Association of the Godless, a militant atheistic league. Two hundred and fifty thousand skilled propagandists operating under the direction of the ministry of public instruction, supported by the bayonets of the red army and the omnipresent G. P. U., patronized by local soviets and the trade unions, are now feverishly engaged in corrupting the souls of the nation, particularly of its children.

During recent years 20,000,000 copies of the paper, the Godless, with its unspeakable blasphemies, have been deluged into school, home and kindergarten; 1,300,000 copies of the Review of the Godless have been printed and 2,000,000 copies of virulent antireligious publications of a miscellaneous character have been circulated.

Devastating Results Seen.

The devastating results of these years of militant atheism are now apparent and easy of verification. It is among the young, that is, among those from 16 to 25 years of age, that the program has achieved its most appalling results. Russia has developed a vast multitude of semi-illiterate, corrupt, immoral, uncontrolled and uncontrollable young men and women whose highest ideal is to satisfy the cravings of licentious appetite. How could it be otherwise

The atmosphere of crass materialism and positive atheism which envelopes the official school system has released the growing generation from obedience to parents or to conscience. When a state deliberately breaks down the barrier of parental and spiritual authority provided by the home and the church, it is opening a flood gate which no other human power can control.

Add to this the influence of Mme. Kollontail with her doctrines of free love, free marriage and jungle promiscuity, and the demoralizing circle is completed. How corruptive her influence has been may be judged from her novel, "Red Love." The progress of immorality in the schools is her outstanding achievement. A decent respect for the common opinion of mankind prevents me from quoting the circumstantial portions of her various reports and recommendations.

Divorces Easy to Get.

Small wonder, too, that a cebiegram from Moscow, dated February 2, 1930, containing the results of a questionnaire distributed by the Moscow Communistic Academy, should reveal the inevitable degradation to which human relations may descend, when:

"Religion, blushing, veils her sacred fires
And unawares Morality expires."

Circulated among factory workers in the Moscow area, the questionnaire sought information as to their mating practices. Numerous communist girls replied that divorce being obtained for the asking, they have changed their husbands three or four times a year.

One particular girl reported that she had been married sixteen times in a period of three and a half years—an average of one new husband for every twelve weeks.

Juvenal, in his "Satires," paints ancient Rome under the Caesars as the sink of the world. The Saturday Review of Literature in its issue of February 22, 1930, presents a challenging cross section of Russian life today in reviewing some 25 recent works of fiction emanating from the land of the Soviets. Few sociologists will dispute Mr. Nazaroff's underlying contention that the prevailing literature of a given period is a fair index of contemporary thought and morals.

Comment by Nazaroff.

"I have on my desk," he says, "a pile of about 25 recent works of fiction from Soviet Russia. . . . While reading them," he concludes, "one feels as though one were wading through a morgue." . . .

"A complete promiscuity of relations between men and women reminding one of the cattle yards; a heroine complaining with an engaging sincerity to perfect strangers that she is 'tired and worn out'—she underwent 'to many abortions' during these months—an occasional scene of rape described extremely realistically—such are the elements which are found in a majority of Soviet novels.

"Such are a few examples of the sex depicted in Moscow. Why do Soviet writers stick to that dirt, to that strange admixture of the gutter with pages from Dr. Kraft Ebbing, so obstinately? The answer, or at least a part of the answer, is clear. These writers honestly depict what they see in actual life. It is an old truth, and an undeniable one, at that, that the Soviet regime, with its constant war on traditions, on the 'old family'—'old morals,' &c., has plunged Russia into a complete moral chaos.

Scenes of Novels.

"Naked red ladies, ambiably inviting men to come in, actually fill the 'House of Rest,' where Soviet employes spend their vacation and where the action of L. Gumilevsky's novel takes place, and N. Bogdanov's young 'Comsomoltzy' are actually to be found in every Russian city; newspapers published in Moscow daily confirm it. If so, how could Soviet writers fail to describe it all? Is, however, all Russia thus freed of 'prejudices?' Certainly not. Behind this chaos, seething and sizzling on the surface, at least half of the country abides by the same 'bourgeois' ideas and morals by which the rest of the world abides."

"Ten thousand antireligious clubs, protected and shielded by the police, are functioning and spreading hooliganism throughout the land; special and abominable films are displayed in hundreds of sacred places now confiscated and turned into clubs, museums or theaters. Special universities have been consecrated exclusively to the war on God, and every teacher in every city, town and hamlet is obliged to cooperate in this hideous campaign under pain of party penalty. As was truly said during the speeches at the Albert Hall, London, on Friday, December 19, 1929, 'To believe in God and to confess it, is heroism today in Soviet Russia.'"

At Christmastide, 1928, 700 antireligious demonstrations were organized in Petrograd alone and Lunacharsky, Soviet minister of education, like Ajax defying the lightning, sent out a thundering broadcast against the existence of God over the state-controlled radio station. The same program was repeated last Christmas, and an elaborate mockery is being rehearsed for the coming Easter.

ENGINEERS SELECT AIRPORT COMMITTEE

RESEARCH IS PLANNED

Appointment of an airport committee to work with the Federal Government was announced yesterday by the American Engineering Council. The chairman is Prof. Ralph J. Fogg, head of the department of civil engineering in Lehigh University. Other members are:

Perry A. Fellows, city engineer, Detroit; W. W. Horner, chief engineer, St. Louis; Harrison E. Howe, editor Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, Washington; Alexander Klemin, head of the Guggenheim School of Aeronautics, New York University; H. G. Shirley, commissioner of highways, Richmond, Va.

"The committee," the announcement said, "has been appointed to confer with the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Department of Commerce for the purpose of developing a plan whereby the bureau and the American Engineering Council may cooperate in formulating a report for the information and guidance of public bodies indicating the diversity and importance of engineering problems in the design of airports."

The committee was named upon the recommendation of a special committee of which O. H. Koch, of Dallas, Tex., was chairman. Other members of the special committee were John Lyle Harrington, of Kansas City, Mo.; Gen. R. C. Marshall, jr., of Chicago; George T. Seabury, of New York, secretary of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and Dr. Howe.

Dr. Howe, who is chairman of the council's committee on program of research, stated in a report to the council that the Bureau of Aeronautics had asked the council to join with it in making a study relating to the coverage and drainage used for airports. The need for such a study was apparent, Dr. Howe said, because there was no uniformity of practice, no central source of information as to what had been used and the results obtained.

He pointed out that a report on what practices were prevailing under various conditions of terrain, climate and the like would be a valuable guide to engineers responsible for the construction of airports.

Students Will Aid Gandhi Campaign

University Closes to Let Pupils Join Policy of Disobedience.

Anand, Bombay, India, March 16 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi arrived today at the Village of Boriavi. The head man of Vadtal has resigned his post and joined Gandhi's camp.

Gujarat Vivayapiph, at Ahmadabad, the national university which Gandhi started, has resolved to participate in the independence movement. Classes were closed and students permitted to enlist as volunteers. Training classes will be opened for students and teachers wishing to join in the civil disobedience campaign. All more than 18 years old will be admitted to a course of eight lectures on Gandhi's campaign. The course will last fifteen days.

Nadiad, Bombay, India, March 16 (A.P.).—Before leaving Nadiad today, Mahatma Gandhi announced that tomorrow and subsequent Mondays would be observed as days of rest by his party of civil disobedience volunteers. Gandhi will follow his custom of keeping silence the whole day. Officials here understood that civil disobedience campaigns will be launched in the several provinces when Gandhi gives the order, or automatically if he is arrested.

Countess of Coventry Follows Mate in Death

Worcester, England, March 16 (A.P.).—The Countess of Coventry, widow of the ninth Earl of Coventry, died today. She survived her husband only three days.

The Earl of Coventry died at his home, Droome Court, March 13, at the age of 91. The countess was a daughter of the second Earl of Craven. They were married in 1865.

Woman's Body Found; Hammer Murder Hinted

Fort Worth, Tex., March 16 (A.P.).—The body of a woman, apparently beaten to death, was found today in a pasture 4 miles north of here.

The woman had not been identified late today. She was between 35 and 40 years of age. Police believe she was killed last night and that a hammer was used to crush her skull.

Hammer Slayer's Victim Is Found

Body of Woman Worker in Rooming House Was Lying in Posture.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 16 (A.P.). The body of Mrs. Pearl Voss, 30, beaten to death with a hammer, was found in a pasture near here today. She was an employe of a Fort Worth rooming house. The body was found by R. M. Andrews and L. F. Frady, who had gone to the pasture to inspect some old automobiles abandoned in the field.

Investigators were unable to determine whether the woman had been taken to the pasture and killed after a struggle, or had been killed some other place and the body then taken to the pasture.

One severe blow had been struck on the back of the head, apparently with the claw end of a hammer. Several other blows were struck.

Lowell Sherman Weds Film Star

Helene Costello, Daughter of One-Time Matinee Idol, Is Bride.

Beverly Hills, Calif., March 16 (N. Y.W.N.S.).—Helene Costello, 22-year-old daughter of Maurice Costello, one time matinee idol, and Lowell Sherman, 38, screen actor, were married here last night before a large gathering of motion picture celebrities. It was Sherman's third marriage and Miss Costello's second.

Miss Costello, whose sister, Dolores, is the wife of John Barrymore, was married in September, 1927, at Port Chester, N. Y., to John Y. Regan, of New York and Washington. She divorced her first husband in June of the following year.

Sherman's first wife was Evelyn Booth, who divorced him in Providence, R. I., in 1922. In February, 1926, he married Pauline Goron, screen actress, from whom he obtained a divorce March 5, this year, on grounds of desertion.

Girl Scout Aid Given by Wife Of Governor

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Made Commissioner in Porto Rico.

MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT, wife of the Governor General of Porto Rico, one of the most attractive members of that distinguished family, who is in Porto Rico adding charm and tact to her duties as an official hostess, is also busying herself with the great movement in behalf of American girlhood, the Girl Scouts of America. Mrs. Roosevelt has passed her tenderfoot test and has been installed as honorary commisioner of Girl Scouts of Porto Rico. The report of this honorary appointment was recently made at the national council of the organization by Miss Alice Conway, regional director at large, who has just returned from an extended tour of the West Indies.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who was before her marriage to "T. R. jr." Miss Eleanor Alexander, of New York, is one of the younger members of a family as distinguished and as well known socially, if not politically and historically, as her husband's. Although in appearance she is a mere slip of a girl, she is the mother of a typically Rooseveltian family, and was an immensely popular hostess in Washington when "young Teddy" was Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

It was on the advice of Gov. Roosevelt that an insular council to administer Girl Scouting in Porto Rico was formed. The national council decided to send a representative to the islands in response to requests from local Scout officials. A branch of the organiaztion has existed for some time in San Juan and there are several hundred members in scattered troops throughout the country. When the organization meeting for the establishment of the councilor body in the islands was called, Mrs. Roosevelt offered to take the chairmanship, and this led to her formal induction into the Girl Scouts.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer, 63 Sussex avenue, East Orange, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edna Newell Pfeiffer, to Mr. Martin Cook, of East Orange, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cook, of Washington. Miss Pfeiffer is a graduate of Skidmore College and a popular member of the younger set of the Oranges.

Mrs. P. W. MacMillan, of the Hotel Roosevelt, is entertaining at dinner this evening, the board of directors of the Zonta Club at Washington.

The following are the patronesses who are sponsoring the three-act comedy, "The Patsy," which will be presented by the Young Married Couples' Club of the Gunton-Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock at the church at Sixteenth and Newton streets: Mrs. Charles H. Tompkins, Mrs. J. Russell Verbrycke, Mrs. David P. Wolhaupter, Mrs. Bernard Braskamp, Mrs. E. Anderson, Mrs. A. G. Henry, Mrs. Walter Leaman, Mrs. Calvin T. Milans, Mrs. W. M. Mooney Mrs. S. C. Many "FRANKLIN" Numbers Have Been CHANGED
Now "NAtional," "DIstrict," or "MEtropolitan"
Please consult your Telephone Directory before calling
In preparation for the introduction of dial service in the downtown section of the city in the Spring, it has been necessary to change the numbers of about two-thirds of the telephone subscribers formerly served by the "FRanklin" Central Office. These subscribers now have "DIstrict," "MEtropolitan" or "NAtional" numbers.
The chances are that the "Franklin" numbers that you used to call from memory have been changed; so, in order to save your time and avoid confusion, it is important that you consult your directory before placing calls for any "FRanklin" numbers.

CRIME GROUP HEAD TO TALK IN DRY QUIZ

Wickersham and Mitchell Both to Appear Today Before Committee.

SESSION TO BE SECRET

Just what the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission has learned about the effectiveness of the dry law will be sought today by the Senate judiciary committee from Chairman Wickersham.

Both Attorney General Mitchell and Mr. Wickersham will be before the committee to give their views on the resolutions proposing a Senate investigation of the administration of the prohibition law, but they will speak behind closed doors.

It is the first time any member of the eight-month-old Law Enforcement Commission has been before the Senate, and there are some inquisitive senators awaiting the opportunity to question Mr. Wickersham.

Both Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Wickersham are expected to oppose the Senate inquiry into dry enforcement. But it seems certain they will be asked some pertinent questions about their findings of law enforcement under the dry law.

Norris Resolution Author.

Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee, is the author of the resolution for an investigation of the administration of the prohibition act. Senator Borah, of Idaho, who has severely assailed enforcement conditions throughout the country, is also a member of the committee.

While the dry-dominated committee is divided on the question of a Senate inquiry, there is every indication that the foes of the Norris resolution have the upper hand. It is not likely that the resolution will be voted upon today, however.

Meanwhile, the prohibition controversy in the House will get under way again Wednesday with the drys preparing to conclude their presentation of testimony at the House judiciary committee hearings on resolutions for repeal and modification of the prohibition act.

More Time May Be Asked.

Two days and a half at least remain to them to complete the case against repeal, but indications were yesterday that they might not be finished with so short a time and that either Wednesday, when the hearings are resumed, or later the committee would be asked to extend their time.

The dry forces have the assurance of Chairman Graham that they will receive all the time needed to finish their case and they have not only kept track of the total time occupied on the stand by their own witnesses and by those on the wet side, but they have computed the time taken up by committee members in cross-examination.

If the cross-examination of dry witnesses should be found to have taken much longer than that of the wets, and if Mrs. Lenna Lowe Yost, who has been acting as dry general at the hearings, should decide that two days and a half would be insufficient, it appeared extremely likely that more time will be asked. In any case both wets and drys have been promised opportunity to present rebuttal testimony, so that the hearings are virtually certain to go into next week.

Fisher Testimony to Be Heard.

The testimony of Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale, will be presented by the drys, whether the professor can appear or not. Every effort is being made by them to secure his attendance at the hearings as the committee has asked that in view of his prominence as a dry advocate he permit himself to be questioned. Last week Chairman Graham asked Mrs. Yost not to have his testimony read into the record unless Prof. Fisher were absolutely unable to attend, but he deferred until this week any definite decision on whether a reading would be permitted if the professor could not come. As many other statements have been read, and as the drys are especially keen that his opinions should be added to the record, its acceptance is anticipated.

One witness whose appearance seemed definite was the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Washington, who last week received the sanction of his church's committee on law observance for his testimony.

...ncendiarism Blamed In Burning of Church

...pecial to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 16.—Fire, believed of incendiary origin, last night destroyed the abandoned Salem Methodist Church, 2 miles from here on the Annapolis Neck road. The building, together with its furnishings, was valued at more than $4,000. The Salem congregation two years ago united with the Trinity Church.

The blaze caused a great deal of excitement in the section because it followed numerous smaller fires there, also believed maliciously started. Annapolis firemen responded but were unable to stop the flames as no water was nearby.

...HICOGO GANGSTERS TORTURED VICTIM

...b rosa handbooks. Amounts entered ranged from $75 to $1,350.

The body was wrapped in a blanket and the victim wore a chinchilla coat. The belt buckle was set with ...ur small diamonds. Rito wore an expensive wrist watch—characteristic of the hoodlum love for ostentation. ...is crystal had been broken and both hands knocked out, indicating that a struggle had preceded the killing.

"I heard rumors that John was in the 'silky' racket," Joseph Rito told officers. "But I never had anything to do with him. Just what he has been doing the last three years I don't know."

Rito had been shot through the head. Both hands and feet were bound with wire. He also evidently had been beaten severely about the head and had been knifed about the body.

While Rito's latest activities had not been revealed, it was learned that he had once been allied with the Genna gang of West Side liquor purveyors. His family lives in the section of "Little Italy" on West Taylor street, dominated by the Gennas for years.

Rito was 27 years old, about the average age at which gangsters meet death in Chicago.

Either by accident or design, the killers, in trussing Rito's arms, had wrapped them across his chest in an attitude of prayer.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

EVER since Mr. Legge stepped into the chairmanship of the Farm Board various and varying people have crowned his unoffending but conspicuous head with a sizzling halo of oncoming bolos, barshot and thunderbolts.

He has a well-developed, eight-cylinder genius for striking fire from his environment. An unkind destiny, when mapping out his career, marked him down as a bone of contention to be gnawed on by hostile interests. As the steel is drawn to the magnet, so strife, stress and struggle leap toward Mr. Legge.

Newspaper reports tell a serial story of his hastening from section to section in his campaign to lift the farmer to the silken lap of incessant luxury. They tell also of the calm, cool and inscrutable demeanor with which he fronts the verbal bayonets, bombs and battle-axes of his critics.

* * * *

NOT everybody knows, however, with what involuntary skill he now and then creates a local or sideshow animosity.

There is the case, for instance, of the loquacious feud between Senator Harris and Representative Larsen, two high-strung Georgia gentlemen who have battled on a field of newspaper columns because Mr. Legge made a statement about cotton and the senator denounced the statement, and Mr. Legge canceled his engagement to make an address to a fair association at Milledgeville, Ga., and Mr. Larsen issued a statement of his own berating Mr. Harris.

Mr. Larsen lamented that, in antagonizing Mr. Legge, Mr. Harris had shorn Georgia and the Georgia delegation of the enormous and potent influence of Mr. Legge in a campaign to secure certain agricultural appropriations and benefits for their State.

* * * *

MR. HARRIS, who is excelled by nobody in the art of filling a couple of newspaper columns, came back with the deft, definite and decided retort that the weight of the Legge touch on current governmental activities was not as heavy as Mr. Larsen seemed to think.

Furthermore, said Mr. Harris, there were many things which he, Mr. Harris, had done in a legislative way for the progressive Commonwealth of Georgia.

A natural and well-nigh overwhelming modesty, it seemed, had hitherto kept Mr. Harris from enumerating these achievements, but, now that he was so viciously accused of throwing the Legge weight against his own people, he no longer hesitated to list them one by one, in detail, at length and with emphasis.

* * *

FINALLY, he admitted, he could not understand why he failed to enjoy Mr. Larsen's love, especially since he had always been at peace with other Georgia representatives.

But there's no puzzle. When Mr. Harris entered the orbit of the Legge star, he inevitably stepped into the sort of friction, fuss and fracas in which Mr. Legge by this time must be thoroughly at home.

PRIMO DE RIVERA, FORMER DICTATOR OF SPAIN, IS DEAD

They called their brother, who summoned the family physician, Dr. Alberto Bandelac de Pariente. After examining the body, the doctor said the former dictator had been dead for half an hour.

He died on the very eve of his departure for Wiesbaden, Germany, where he was going to take the cure for diabetes. He had awakened feeling very well and looking forward to a farewell tea that his physicians had allowed him to offer a few friends at the hotel this afternoon. For some time his general condition had been improving steadily.

Tonight his body lay with serene visage encased in a cowl formerly worn by the monks of the Carmel Congregation. His body was draped in a coarse woolen fabric similar to those used in ancient Spanish monasteries. In his neatly manicured hands was a huge rosary of black granite.

He lay in state, with his daughters and his son kneeling in prayer. A continuous procession of notables from the military, official and political worlds of Paris filed by the narrow iron bed. Almost the entire Spanish colony passed through the room.

High Officials Represented.

President Doumergue, Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand had their representatives affix their signatures to the register in the hall of the hotel.

Marshal Petain, of the French army, a personal friend of Primo's, who was to have been one of his guests at the farewell tea, was another early visitor. He was accompanied by Ambassador Quinones de Leon.

Dr. de Pariente told newspapermen that the former dictator "had devoted himself to the cause of Spain until the end."

Shaking his head, he said, "El pais lo ha matado" (his country has killed him).

The body will be taken to Madrid in a special car attached to the Madrid Express at 8 p. m. tomorrow night.

To Get Full Army Honors.

Madrid, March 16 (A.P.).—Former Premier Primo de Rivera, who died in Paris today only seven weeks after resigning the dictatorial powers he had held for nearly seven years, will be buried with the full military honors of a Spanish captain general who dies while in active command of troops, according to plans formulated tonight.

All Spain was shocked this afternoon to learn of his sudden death. King Alfonso heard of it as he was preparing to go to the race track and immediately canceled his engagements, expressing his sorrow. Premier Damaso Berenguer, the resigned dictator's successor, did the same.

King Alfonso sent telegrams of condolence to Senior Primo's children in Paris and instructed the Duke of Alba, Spanish foreign minister, who is visiting Paris, to represent the crown and the government in discussing the funeral arrangements. He asked the duke to express personally the sorrow of the queen, the royal family and the cabinet.

Premier Mourn's Passing.

Premier Berenguer told the Associated Press correspondent that the passing of his predecessor is most untimely and a great loss to the nation.

"I had great admiration for my companion. We were always great friends, our friendship being born of the confidence we had learned to have in each other in the field of battle, when we fought the enemy together in Cuba and in Morocco. My admiration for him is natural and personal, for I have lost a friend."

The effect of Primo de Rivera's death upon Spanish political life is still uncertain. The former dictator died just as the opposition groups, with growing emphasis, were demanding the Berenguer government to do something to "fix the responsibility for the dictatorship."

May Lie in Family Vault.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been decided on in detail, but it is believed the interment will take place in the De Rivera family vault in the Cemetery of San Isidor at Madrid.

Primo is survived by three sons, Jose Antonio, Miguel and Fernando, and by two daughters, Carmen and Maria Pilar.

According to his friends, he leaves no other fortune than the 4,000,000 pesetas (about $400,000) subscribed by the Union Patriotics, the political organization he founded.

Of this sum he had distributed among his children, 250,000 pesetas as an indemnity for their having lost their maternal inheritance. The rest he kept for himself, using part of it to pay off a mortgage on his estate in Jerez de la Frontera.

(Associated Press.)

News of the death of Primo de Rivera in Paris was received with great surprise yesterday by officials at the Spanish Embassy and the State Department.

At both places, however, comment was withheld. No reason was given, but in other quarters it was pointed out that the political situation in Spain is very delicate and there is a possibility that any word from either the State Department or the Spanish Ambassador might be misinterpreted in that country.

Newspaper Advertising Man Dies in Cumberland

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 16.—Joseph Kelly, 33, connected with the advertising department of the Cumberland Daily News, died early today at Allegany Hospital after a short illness of heart trouble.

Mr. Kelly was a native of Clarksburg, W. Va., where he had been connected with newspapers. He came here from Connellsville, Pa. His body will be taken to Clarksburg, where his wife, Marie Carney Kelly, and three small children reside.

Gen. Pershing will speak at 5:15 p. m. Eastern standard time, over the National Broadcasting Co. network in concluding a series of educational talks sponsored by the United States Flag Association.

SEVEN SAILORS HURT IN MANILA RIOTING

and no news was given to the newspapers.

The Navy men, most of them chief petty officers, were drinking beer at the field. While they were drinking, served by Filipino waiters, an agitator leaped on a box and spoke to the waiters in Tagalog, a native dialect. Immediately the waiters stopped serving and demanded more pay.

When more pay was refused, the Americans said, one of the waiters jerked a piece of pipe from his shirt and began beating Mecklinberg, the nearest sailor.

Five Bear Brunt.

Most of the sailors began a retreat but five of them bore the brunt of the attack and were being severely handled when Capt. West checked the rioteers.

Later two American sailors from the oiler U. S. S. Pecos engaged in a brawl with Filipinos and were severely beaten by Filipino police who charged the Americans with attacking two native candy sellers and with resisting arrest. The men were G. Cunningham and P. C. Battese.

American naval authorities warned all sailors to avoid trouble and refrain from gatherings that might lead to race riots.

DAVIS ANNOUNCES SENATE CANDIDACY

LIVELY FIGHT FORESEEN

Pittsburgh, March 16 (A.P.).—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as United States senator from Pennsylvania.

The Secretary will bid for the nomination at the primaries May 20 in opposition to Joseph R. Grundy, appointed senator from Pennsylvania by Gov. John S. Fisher on the Senate's refusal to seat William S. Vare.

Davis will enter the race aligned with Francis Shunk Brown, of Philadelphia, former State attorney general, who has the indorsement of Vare and the backing of the Philadelphia Republican organization. Grundy, long a power in Pennsylvania Republican politics, will, if he enters the race as fully expected, be supported by the Mellon-Fisher combination in the State.

Three-Way Fight Seen.

Formal entry of the Brown-Davis ticket into the political field indicated a three-way fight for control of Pennsylvania Republican politics at the coming primary. Samuel S. Lewis, former State treasurer, and Gifford Pinchot, former governor, have both entered the race for the nomination as governor, but while Lewis is popularly supposed to be coupled with Senator Grundy in the race, Pinchot has no known candidate for the senatorial nomination in the field with him.

The possibility that Charles F. Armstrong, postmaster at Leechburg, a former legislator and a stanch Pinchot supporter, may appear on the Pinchot ticket as candidate for the nomination as lieutenant governor, has been indicated, however.

Judge J. Ambler Williams, of Montgomery County, also has entered the Republican lists for governor, further complicating the Republican situation, but what political alignment, if any, is sponsoring him is not apparent.

Favors Immigration Curb.

Mr. Davis in his announcement said: "I feel particularly qualified to represent this great Commonwealth, because of the knowledge and experience gained while serving as Secretary of Labor under three Republican Presidents—Harding, Coolidge and Hoover." * * * Employers and workers alike, know that I have always striven to balance their interests with fairness to each, and the maximum of benefits to both."

Some indication of his platform was given in the closing paragraphs of his formal announcement.

"I have always stood for fair wages for labor," he said, "and for fair profit for business. Since the days of President McKinley, I have constantly supported the principle of a protective tariff for the American farmer and American industry, as the best way yet devised to insure the prosperity of our farmers, business men and workers.

"I have favored limited immigration, because it is a protection to the American worker, both native and foreign born, against a competition which would lower the present high standard of wages and result in greatly increased unemployment. I have worked earnestly for welfare legislation for the benefit of man, woman and child."

Coast Artillery March Is Planned

Regiment Will Move From Fort Monroe to Point Near Chicago.

(Associated Press.)

A 1,000-mile march from Fort Monroe, Va., to Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, Ill., will be begun May 15 by the Sixty-first Coast Artillery Regiment, which is composed entirely of anti-aircraft batteries.

It will be the first Coast Artillery unit to take a station in the interior of the country, and its overland march is to be made occasion for public inspection of the antiaircraft batteries in many large cities. The route to be chosen is expected to take the regiment through some of the principal cities of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

If possible, it will give demonstrations at some of the overnight stops, firing blank ammunition while the battery searchlights spot and hold airplanes engaged in theoretical bombing of the inland cities.

Boy Critically Injured When Struck by Auto

Critical injuries were received by Leon Forman, 12 years old, of 4524 Pimlico road, Baltimore, yesterday afternoon while playing at Florida avenue and Fifteenth street northeast when he was struck by an automobile which Ninth Precinct police said was driven by Earl M. Mattingly, of O street near Eighth street northwest.

The boy was taken by Mattingly to Emergency Hospital, where he was reported suffering from concussion of the brain, several fractured ribs and possible internal injuries. Forman was declared to have been spending the day at the home of friends at 1209 Holbrook street northeast.

Society Indorses Monticello Shrine

Southern Group Would Join Pilgrimage to Jefferson Home.

Indorsement to the movement for making a national shrine of Monticello, Thomas Jefferson's home near Charlottesville, was given last night by the Southern Society of Washington through its executive council.

J. Cloyd Byars, its president, was authorized to appoint a delegation of not less than 50, numbering representatives from the District and every State in the Union, to join the proposed pilgrimage on April 13 to the tomb of Jefferson, with special exercises to be held the preceding day at the University of Virginia.

The society announced that it would resume its social activities on April 11 with a reception and ball in commemoration of Jefferson's 187th birthday anniversary. Its entertainment planned this month was canceled out of respect to the late William Howard Taft.

30-Day Term Is Given Doctor Who Hit Wife

Danville, Va., March 16.—Dr. C. A. Ward, specialist at Reidsville, N. C., near here, was under sentence of 30 days on the chain gang today on conviction of striking his wife last Thursday in his suite at a hotel there.

Ward asked for a stay of sentence pending an appeal and was granted bail of $1,000. A number of guests at the hotel testified to the disturbance.

THE RHEINGOLD

is the fit name for one of the world's most famous trains. This palace on wheels discloses what its name promises: the golden romance of the Rhine. The Rheingold Express is the favorite train for tourists leaving England for the Continent, or Switzerland for the sea. The Rhine, famous in song and story, glitters by picturesque villages, gay modern cities, framed by a rich loveliness of hill and mountain—so typical of Germany's variegated inducements to the traveler; and this year's great feature is the Oberammergau Passion Play. Modern comfort, kindly hospitality, and no visé charge in golden Germany.

"Going to Europe" means going to Germany.

TARIFF AND PARTIES.

It is too early to forecast the fate of the tariff bill, but not too early to perceive that the Democratic party has thrown away any chances it might have had to turn the tariff fight to its advantage. Its flirtation with Republican deserters and its violation of the Houston platform pledge have arrayed American industry against it. The Democrats of the Senate as a rule have turned their backs upon the protective principle, except in cases where they could obtain special advantages for their particular States. Their record is spotted. The people can place no reliance in the party, because it has violated its pledge.

The Republican party, not counting fake Republicans, will oppose the debenture plan, and probably will win. There is no reason why the House conferees should yield to the jackass coalition. If the coalition should then decide to try to kill the bill and should muster the votes wherewith to accomplish the feat, the net result would be Nation-wide resentment against the Democrats and renegade Republicans and a corresponding increase in President Hoover's strength.

Whatever may be the outcome of the struggle in conference, charges of party duplicity and incompetence will fill the air. In this battle of billingsgate the Republican party will have an advantage, because its faithfulness to protection has been demonstrated, while Democratic unfaithfulness is equally clear. Renegade Republicans have their sins to answer for, and some of them will bite the dust, but the regular Republicans will not weep on that account.

One or two of the recent changes in the tariff bill, forced through by the new protection coalition, are very unwise from a Republican standpoint, particularly the increased duty on sugar. This increase works with certainty against the consumer, while it is of doubtful benefit to the producer. Every individual is a sugar consumer. The Grundy-Smoot coalition has handed to the Democratic party its best weapon in the next campaign. But since that party has consistently voted against really deserving duties applying to many industries, it will be too busy apologizing and explaining to have much time for attacking the opposition. With all its faults, the tariff bill as it is now emerging is a long step toward uniform protection of American industry, agriculture and labor against ruinous foreign competition. That is what the country wants, and if the bill furnishes this need the average voter will overlook the flaws and defects.

The Democratic party has proved faithless in the greatest obligation that it could assume in behalf of the people—that of conserving their welfare by protecting them in their own market. The party gave a pledge and violated it. No twisting or turning can obscure this fundamental failure to keep faith with the people.

The Republican party, in spite of the treachery of a few members, has faithfully supported the policy of protection to agriculture, industry and labor. It has refused to adopt the crazy renegade plan for killing industry as a means of helping agriculture. The farmers have indicated that they understand the situation. They do not wish to cripple industry, which employs the labor that consumes farm products. The coalition Republicans who outraged the equal protection rule in order to curry favor with the farmers are thoroughly discredited, not only among the farmers, but among workingmen and employers of labor in the whole range of industries that are entitled to protection.

REGULATING POWER.

The second of the Couzens bills having to do with the regulation of power transmitted between States or generated for interstate transmission was introduced in the Senate last week. The earlier measure provided for the reorganization of the Federal Power Commission, with five civilian commissioners at $12,000 a year each in place of the present three Cabinet members. The measure introduced last week would compel power companies to submit to regulation similar to that exercised over the railways by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Of recent years power companies have been reaching out in a fashion scarcely imagined when power development was in its infancy. Today a little more than 10 per cent of all power generated is transmitted between States, and the tendency is toward further consolidations of the comparatively few remaining independents and the superpower companies themselves. With the extension of interstate transmission a field for operation has been opened up over which States can not exercise jurisdiction. It is to control this field that the Couzens bills have been introduced.

The bills will not meet with smooth sailing. Power companies are powerful and wealthy; they have been accustomed to having their own way. With respect to the provisions regarding holding and management companies the Couzens bill will be bitterly opposed. Mr. Couzens defines a parent company, for example, as one controlling one or more corporations or the management thereof, whether by ownership or control of stock or by interlocking directorates or otherwise. Ownership or control by any person or group of persons of 15 per cent or more of the stock of a corporation is declared to be prima facie evidence of control of the corporation. Such rigid limitation probably is called for, but the provision will be opposed by power interests.

The power companies must be brought under Federal regulation. In drafting regulatory legislation their rights must be safeguarded, but the power interests will merely waste time and money if they try to make it appear that regulation is unnecessary. The Government will not permit this or any other private or corporate interest to acquire and exercise unlimited and unregulated authority over public utilities and communications.

THE COURTS AND POLITICS.

The report of the special grand jury that has been investigating the lower courts of New York is a distressing commentary on one phase of judicial reform that has been widely advocated in the United States. The grand jury found the magistrates' courts honeycombed with politics. The relationship between the courts and politicians is responsible for a large share of the maladministration of justice.

New York's courts are probably no worse than those of the average American city. Elevating the lower court above political taint is a problem throughout the country. Some States elect their magistrates, a practice which forces the candidate to take part in politics. Other States, including New York, entrust the appointment of magistrates to mayors, which usually means that the bench becomes a political plum. No method has yet been found by which fearless and honest jurists can be placed in the lower courts without political obligations.

The appointive method has not measured up to all the advantages claimed for it by the reformers in the case of the lower courts. Incompetents are frequently appointed because of their political activities. If political influence ended there, many of the injustices of the system would soon be ironed out. But it does not end there. The man who has to answer for an offense goes to a political friend and the friend passes the word along until it reaches the judge. Some are courageous enough to disregard influences of this kind, but many are not.

Political influence can not be taken out of the judicial system until the people themselves demand a higher standard. Unless an executive is held strictly responsible for the appointments he makes, special favors, judicial "fixing" and unwarranted postponement of cases will continue to be the rule. The people can strike at a corrupt judiciary under the appointive system only through the executive.

RUSSIA'S INSANE PROGRAM.

The Soviet dictatorship has run against the dangerous opposition of the Russian peasantry in the campaign to concentrate the peasants upon state farms and to abolish religion. Orders have been given to Soviet agents to soften the rigor of their procedure. The program of collective farming has not been abandoned, but it is evident that the peasants can not be driven overnight into the herd form of agriculture. The Soviet does not possess sufficient official personnel to deal with the immense hordes of peasants, some of whom have barely heard of Communism and who have no sympathy with the movement.

The Russian people are naturally deeply religious. A large percentage of them is obsessed by the fanaticism of Communism, which can not thrive in a religious atmosphere. God must be annihilated if Communism is to survive. The zealots who are honestly endeavoring to abolish God are displaying a zeal that is worthy of a good and not an evil cause. They are battering themselves against a wall that can not be undermined or toppled over. "A mighty fortress is our God," is the innermost thought of a majority of the Russian people, as it was of Luther.

Man is not only a religious but a trading animal. The bartering instinct is inherent, even in savages. Communism, in trying to destroy private property, is attempting the preposterous feat of changing human nature. When it attacks the religious and trading instincts it merely paves the way to its own defeat. The Soviet dictatorship makes a brave show while it controls government in Russia, but it can not obliterate from man the traits that are embedded in his very nature. The more savage the assault, the more dangerous is the resistance. The Soviet dictatorship, recognizing the danger of a peasant obstruction and possible revolt, now moderates its tactics. To the extent that collective farming is delayed, the danger of collapse increases, on account of the inability of the Soviet to gather grain for export. Without exports the Soviet is bankrupt. It has no credit abroad. If it can not force the peasants to produce grain for the state it will have nothing with which to obtain foreign money. So the system is turning back upon itself, with disaster and chaos the only end.

THE GOOSE HANGS HIGH.

Throughout Washington the debate rages. The tariff, the peace conference and prohibition are brushed aside to make room for the stupendous question: What salary is "Goose" Goslin worth?

Baseball fans, drinking deep of the first glad days of spring, are divided as to whether Clark Griffith's offer of $10,000 for the present season to his hard-hitting left fielder is fair or not. It is a reduction of $7,500 from last year's contract. The "Goose" claims such an offer is an "insult" to him. His supporters, tapping the statistical vats of the years when Goslin "murdered the ball," stoutly defend his indignant stand. The followers of Griffith, sipping the statistical vintage of the year 1929, when Goslin was something of a "bust," maintain that the $10,000 offer is a fair one. And so, far in the night, "he is worth it," and "he isn't worth it," the debate waxes hot.

A distillation of the pro and con leaves the residue that the team needs Goslin and Goslin needs the money. Wherefore one does not have to borrow the mantle of a Landis to suggest that Messrs. Griffith and Goslin cease their long-distance press exchanges and get together in a peace conference. They can make a limitation agreement if they really try.

Broadway could make a neat stroke in economizing telephone book leaves by combining the receptions to Admiral Byrd and Old Doc Cook.

RUSSIAN PEASANT EXODUS

Warsaw Correspondence of the London Times.

Information received here from the eastern frontier during the week-end leaves no doubt that the measures taken by the Soviet authorities for the creation of collective farms are causing an increasing number of Ruthenian and Ukrainian peasants to abandon their homes and seek refuge in the Polish border districts.

The first peasants to come over predicted that they would be followed by many more. That forecast is now being fulfilled. By Friday there had been 100 crossings, but whether they are reckoned by groups, families, or individuals it is not always possible to tell. It is certain that since then the stream has not been checked, in spite of elaborate precautions taken by the Soviet frontier guards. On the other hand, the difficulties and perils of escaping from Russia are so great at the best of times that it must be considered an open question whether a much larger number will succeed in their attempts to get across. To be ready for every emergency, the Polish authorities are considering the possibility of opening a concentration camp for refugees who are without friends or relatives in Poland.

The largest number of fugitives has penetrated the northernmost sector of the borderline, between the towns of Dzisna and Druja. Here the boundary is formed by the River Dzwina (southern Dvina), and escape involves a passage over ice. The Novotnys, a large family of twenty, with children and two small infants, were the first to risk this crossing after they had abandoned a prosperous farm at Zatsishe, 4 miles within Soviet territory. They decided to move on Friday, when they were informed that their property was to be socialized the next day, and that they, as kulaks (well-to-do peasants), would probably be sent to Siberia. They set out with six wagons and six horses, taking only their better clothing and a stock of lard and bread. Everything else was left behind. The live stock was penned in the pig styes, the barn doors were bolted, and a light was left burning in one of the living rooms to give the impression that they were still at home. They had decided, if they met single sentries, to shoot them dead on the spot, but if they ran into a larger patrol, three or four were to stay behind and lay down their lives while the rest got away. Luck was with them, for they had drifting snow and fog, and were able to drive their wagons across the ice into Poland about midnight. They stopped on the further bank to offer prayer.

The head of the family, an old man of 80, said that Ogpu (Cheka) officials had come to make a list of the young children who were to be taken away and sent to Communist schools. When he had answered that he would never part with his grandchildren he was told that he would be sent to the Solovetsky Islands.

Boris Loban, a refugee who arrived at Stopice three days ago, said that there had been stubborn resistance to socialization in his village, Zamostoviche. First propaganda had been tried through the Antigod Society and young Communist Pioneers, and then, when that failed, the Ogpu had sent an agent provocateur, who provided the villagers with arms, telling them that the Poles had detailed him to muster armed bands, because a war with the Bolshevists was impending. Some days later the Ogpu agents arrived, found the arms, and shot twenty young men. The rest of the band went to Solovetsky, and 69 families were deported to northern Siberia in goods trucks. Examinations of other fugitives have produced similar tales of the violence and bloodshed which are accompanying the socialization of the land.

JUST FOLKS

WORTH.

To be rich is not enough
For rich men may be cold.
One can with manners harsh and rough
Fill up the purse with gold.

The maudlin, foolish tipster rich
Is just as great a boor
As is the drunkard in the ditch
Who happens to be poor.

Man must have more than cleverness,
And more than strength or skill.
One may in trade achieve success
And be a failure still.

True splendor out of trifles springs,
In manners, morals, mirth.
In all life's countless little things
A man must prove his worth.

Is It "Smart" to Seize a Prize That Is Kept Inside a Trap?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is a destiny that provides punishment for crime—not in some mythical hereafter, but here and now—and when the day of retribution comes, the innocent must suffer with the guilty.

Napoleon, whose ambition made a slaughter pen of Europe, died on a lonely and dreary island, a neglected prisoner, almost unattended.

Wilhelm, whose vanity created the greatest war engine in history, brought an empire to the verge of ruin and lives on in obscurity to see his people fare better without him.

Proud Athens enslaved conquered races and paid the penalty by absorbing alien blood that darkened the skin of her people and ended her glory.

America fattened on slave labor kidnapped by brutes, and was bled white in the time of retribution.

Spain banished and robbed her millions of Jews and thus was stripped of talents that made her competitors grow great.

The czars tortured and exploited and crushed humble millions, and the payment of that debt cost the lives of the untold thousands who composed the nobility and the aristocracy of their empire.

The Spaniards butchered the natives of the new Indies, and other Europeans who followed across the Atlantic also followed their example in cruelty and injustice, until the last copper-skinned natives were slain or robbed; but Destiny demanded an eye for an eye and inflicted the greatest punishment in history.

The doomed natives of Haiti lived long enough to curse their conquerors with the most horrible of all diseases, and each new generation is burdened with imbeciles and malformed innocents to remind the white race of a debt yet unpaid.

The just and right way is normal, and any deviation from it is followed by a reaction as inevitable as the satiety that follows excess.

What is just and right and normal?

The way that can be continued forever without contracting a debt—without inviting retribution—without requiring a swinging back of the pendulum—without storing up wrath against a day of judgment.

To follow the right way is to travel safely and keep your gains; to follow the unjust and unrighteous way is to penetrate an enemy's country, as Napoleon invaded Russia—each forward step increasing the hazard and multiplying the price you must pay when the reckoning comes.

And yet, with sixty centuries of history proclaiming the truth that men must reap what they sow, thousands apparently sane still cling to the belief that the "smart" ones are those who scorn old-fashioned rules.

There was a man in our town
And he was wondrous wise;
He filled his tax blank honestly
Which was a big surprise.

And when he found what it would cost
Back to his task he went
And figured out the tax again
So he'd not pay a cent.

Mary, Mary, muddled, very,
How does your tax sheet go?
With losses great (discovered late)
And minus signs all in a row.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Delegates at London Jockeying to Increase—Not Decrease—Armaments.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Would there be any way of conveying to our official misrepresentatives at London the growing impatience of vast numbers of intelligent Americans who feel that they are being shamefully betrayed in not only their hopes but their demands for a genuine disarmament?

Instead of this simple and logical procedure to validate and enforce the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war, we are offered an exhibition of jockeying to increase—not decrease—armaments, and ludicrous phrases, such as "synchronized retardation."

If I have five guns and you have five guns and we honestly wish to achieve disarmament or parity, the simplest and most economical way to do so would be to throw all ten guns into the gutter.

Senator Borah in a recent admirable speech referred to "the obsolete superstition" that national "security" rests upon military or naval weapons. All history demonstrates that it does not and that exactly the contrary is true. The greater the armaments the greater the incentive to make use of them.

These conclusions have long been self-evident to any lucid mind mature enough to regard facts, instead of merely parrot phrases. Is it too much to expect the 'master minds of statecraft," whose expenses we are paying at London, to see them?

Dry Spokesman Shudders at Report of Queen Mary's Visit to a Public House.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Unless my eyes deceive me, I am surprised beyond words at an item appearing in the paper this evening under a London date and credited to the Associated Press. It states that Queen Mary visited a British public house and learned more about "beer, bartenders and barrooms than she had ever known before." And then, to add insult to injury, Queen Mary is quoted as saying, "I have enjoyed myself tremendously. I think it is a splendid place, so cozy and homey."

Surely this can not be true. I shudder to think of the fate which would befall the Anglo-Saxon race if such incident ever happened. But why does this sort of thing appear in print?

House Judiciary Committee Mostly Wet, Says W. E. B.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Instead of being called a "judiciary" committee, the proper appellation of the committee sitting in judgment of the drys should be called the wet committee, as Chairman Graham and a few others are dripping wet.

They can not let an opportunity pass that they do not excoriate the dry witnesses and try to trip them up on their statistics. At the end of the hearing of the drys for the day Mr. Graham gives his own opinion in a vitriolic and sarcastic speech. There is nothing fair or impartial in such proceedings. I quite agree with Jean Rushmore Patterson's views, that Chairman Graham should hire a hall and do his debating out of the committee room. He is overstepping the scope of his duties as chairman.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

"The top o' the mornin' " to you this fine day,
When spring is upon you and will have its way;
When St. Patrick, gleefully Irish, will bring
A rush of his spirit to make your sou sing;
When you can be thankful that in nature's scene

POETRY AND STATESMEN.

There need be no surprise to find that Mr. Wakatsuki, of the Japanese delegation at the London conference is a poet as well as a diplomat and statesman, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. The combination of vocation and avocation is not unusual. Men of letters have often played a large part in public life. Temple, Addison, Matthew Prior, Bolingbroke are a few examples out of many. Even a poet may have a very good head for business. Other statesmen who have dabbled in literature there are not a few. Clarendon deserves a better word than that for his history. To come to a latter day, Gladstone wrote so much theological matter that it was said he should have been Archbishop of Canterbury. To this British list many names might be added, Morley, Bryce and Lord Rosebery among them, to say nothing of Bulwer-Lytton.

American diplomacy is full of the names of men of letters, poets included. Bancroft, Motley, Baker, Bayard Taylor, Lowell, Whitlock and the two Pages, are only several of the number. For the most part they have been able diplomatists, living up to their reputation. No American representative at the Court of St. James was more popular than the author of "The Biglow Papers." Scholars like Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, who has just resigned his post at Berlin, have been equally successful. Simon Cameron, it will be recalled, had a low opinion of "literary fellers." But these have proved their capacity in fields outside of literature.

It is worth noting that many of the most eminent statesmen in every country have been, if not writers, men eminent for learning. Perhaps there are now less common in legislative bodies than they once were. The old classical culture seems to be dying. In the nineteenth century a speaker in the House of Commons could point a moral and adorn a tale with an apt quotation from the Greek or Latin. The habit is less frequent in these days, when so many members would not understand it. We may doubt if most men now in American public life could carry on such a correspondence as that in which Thomas Jefferson and John Adams engaged toward the end of their lives. The range of their learning seems extraordinary to modern readers. They dwelt familiarly with Greek dramatists and Roman orators. What Cicero said was as Greek to them, as it was to home Casca.

HAITI COMMISSION LEAVES FOR HOME

PRESIDENT PRAISES U. S.

Port au Prince, Haiti, March 16 (A.).—The Hoover investigating commission sailed for home aboard the S. S. Rochester at 10 o'clock this morning, leaving behind it an outlined plan for solving Haiti's political difficulties and for untimately ending American occupation of the republic.

The capital was quiet as the members departed, and there were no demonstrations of any kind. The hour of their departure was not generally known, and there was not even a crowd at the waterfront when the Rochester steamed away.

As a sequel to their statement announcing an agreement on a temporary president by all sides yesterday, President Louis Borno today issued a brief communique saying:

"It was a great day for Haiti when the commission announced that the choice of a temporary president, and popular elections had been approved by all sides."

He praised the United States, saying it had always done great things for Haiti.

The commissioners left behind them an apparent political peace, with no sign anywhere of threatening attempts to void their plan. On board the Rochester, returning to Miami, they will complete their report to President Hoover and make their recommendations.

In general, these are reported to provide for withdrawal of the American Marines by 1936, some kind of military mission, consisting of four or five officers familiar with local conditions, being left behind for a few years after evacuation.

Among other things, the following probably will also be recommended: Replacement of the military high commissioner by a civilian minister, who will have powers to negotiate a new treaty; retention of the financial adviser until 1952, when the loan contract expires and all bonds will be paid; drastic changes in the "service technique," the widely attacked educational training system headed by American experts; elimination of alleged extravagances in the different government departments.

Three Near Death After Gun Battle

Women and Man Badly Wounded During Tent Dwelling Row.

Eldorado, Ark., March 16 (A.P.).—Two women and a man were near death in a hospital here tonight, and a second man was slightly wounded, the result of a gun battle early today in a tent dwelling in the Miller's Bluff community, 14 miles north of Eldorado.

Bill Long, shot once in the abdomen, had not regained consciousness. His wife, Mrs. Nora Long, also shot in the abdomen, and Mrs. Aileen Lyle, shot three times, were not expected to live. W. A. Foster, in whose tent the battle was waged, had two fingers shot off. He was arrested after the shooting, but was released late today. Officers were told the shooting started when Mrs. Lyle and Jess Foster entered W. A. Foster's tent and accused the latter's visitor, Reece Cliff, of improper relations with W. A. Foster's orphan niece. Mrs. Long remonstrated and was shot by Mrs. Lyle. Long then entered the tent and was shot by Mrs. Lyle, witnesses said. Long grappled with Cliff, wrested his gun from him and fired at Mrs. Lyle. In the meantime, Mrs. Lyle was firing the remaining bullets in her gun at W. A. Foster.

Byrd Party Plans For Return Home

Dogs and Penguins Will Be Among First to Reach America.

Dunedin, New Zealand, March 16 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd has been leading a very busy life since arriving here from the Antarctic. He has been attending numerable public and private functions given in his honor, and arranging details regarding his party, which returned from the far south last week.

Four members of the expedition will return to America on the whaler C. A. Larsen, in charge of the dogs. Dr. Vaclco Vojtech, a Czechoslovakian geologist, who made the trip to New Zealand to appeal to Admiral Byrd to asign him for the expedition, will take charge of the penguins. These birds were obtained at the Bay of Whales, with the permission of the New Zealand government, which holds a mandate over the Ross dependency. The birds, which were brought here in crates, arrived in very poor condition, but the survivors will be given to the Philadelphia zoo. Ashley McKinley, aerial survivor, will fly for America in the Makura in order to lose no time in printing his films and making a mosaic map of the territory surveyed during the party's flights.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

SENATE radicals have served notice on President Hoover that all future appointments to the Supreme Court must be liberal. Otherwise, they promise, he may expect fights against their confirmation much more bitter than that against Charles E. Hughes, and, they think, more likely to succeed.

For the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Sanford, who died the same day as Mr. Taft, the so-called Progressive group insists upon the nomination of Judge William S. Kenyon, former senator from Iowa, and incidentally Smith Brookhart's candidate for President.

Old Line leaders are simply flabbergasted at the temerity of the Liberals in presuming to attempt to dictate appointments to the high court, but they are not underestimating the menace of the radical threat in the slightest degree. It is not easy to pick men for the Supreme Court against whom no sort of political issue can be raised. The Regulars have not entirely recovered from the amazement at the strength mustered by the opposition to Hughes, and in that case the radicals admitted on the floor of the Senate that they had nothing against his integrity or ability.

* * * *

MOREOVER, Mr. Hughes had, to a degree future nominees for the court are unlikely to have, a political hold in various States which would make it dangerous for senators from such States to oppose him. For example, Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, generally regarded as one of the most liberal of Democratic senators, deplored the appointment because of his objections to Hughes' economic views, but, in view of Mr. Hughes' admitted strength in the Bay State, he did not dare to vote against him.

The radical group in the Senate has given a great deal of consideration to this question of trying to force President Hoover's hand on the Supreme Court. They have figured out that Mr. Hoover in all human probability will name a majority of the members of the court. They doubt very genuinely whether the President will dare force the issue with them. They doubt even more if he will care to risk the attacks which would be made on nomination after nomination, and they realize, of course, how distasteful such fight would be to many lawyers whose reputations might lead the President to appoint them.

* * * *

SO the campaign is far from an idle gesture, and far from a mere attempt to make political medicine for the radicals, though the last, of course, plays an important part in the strategy. The radicals are the more firmly determined on this plan, since the obvious breakdown of the coalition under the insidious appeal of log-rolling on the tariff bill, the old Army game that tripe tariff reformers, just as it defeats Treasury watchdogs when pork barrels slide through Congress.

The Supreme Court, to the radicals, is the last entrenched position of the reactionaries. They want a court composed entirely of such men as Brandeis and Kenyon, to name their favorite justice and their candidate. They want a court which will pay small heed to property rights when, as they put it, human rights are involved.

* * * *

THE concern of the regulars at their proposed tactics does not worry them at all. "Didn't the reactionaries fight the confirmation of Louis Brandies?" they retort. "At that time the regulars did not want a single man of liberal views on the court. We think now that no man except one of liberal views should be appointed. The court must keep step with progress. At present it is simply archaic. It dates back to the days of robber barons and their rights over serfs."

* * * *

THOROUGHLY alarmed, especially as they are not absolutely sure President Hoover may not be at least partially in sympathy with the progressives, the old-line senators are wondering whether they had better organize a counterdrive, possibly threatening to confirm no radical. Certainly there would be a stiff fight against the confirmation of Judge Kenyon, despite the fact he is a former senator. They have not forgotten his zeal to confiscate wealth during the war revenue bills. Senator Penrose once tripped him up when he had introduced an amendment which would take 107 per cent of a man's income.

There was no reply.

INTERNATIONAL LAW CODIFYING STARTS

Women's Rights, Rum and Mexican Concessions Involved in Discussions.

MEETING AT THE HAGUE

The Hague, March 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Women's rights, rum-running and concessions in Mexico—three international problems which have caused considerable hardship to various parts of the American public—are involved in the three subjects before the international codification of international law conferences meeting here.

More than 50 countries sent delegations—all the members of the League and Brazil, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Egypt, Iceland, Mexico, Monaco, San Marino, Turkey, Soviet Russia and the United States having been invited.

Starting back in 1924, at the suggestion of the Swedish government, league committees (with the active cooperation of George W. Wickersham, former United States Attorney General), have been framing a basis for the first codification of internationally recognized customs.

30 Haitians Present Views.

Although confronted with difficulties, jurists have collated the replies and viewpoints of more than 30 governments, which after careful study sent to the league their observations on the above questions.

The greatest common denominator has been deduced from these replies as a starting point. All schools have been taken into consideration—the European, Oriental and American. Even the divergencies between Christian, Moslem and Confucian moral codes have been noted where racial and religious issues are involved.

The impossible situation that women, who marry men of foreign nationality, find themselves in, the divided families, where the father may be a Frenchman, the mother an American and the children of still a third nationality, and the question of double-nationality is one that is likeliest to be solved by the conference.

Nationality of Wives.

Another question that will be decided is whether or not a woman, should her husband choose to change his nationality, could be forced to adopt the new country without her consent, while it is further urged that upon dissolution of international marriages, which have resulted in a change of the wife's nationality, her former nationality should be restored upon her own application.

It is also hoped to secure universal recognition of the principles that a person who applies, through naturalization, for another nationality keeps his old one until he has acquired a new one.

Difficult and complex as is the problem of nationalities, it is believed a unanimously acceptable law can be worked out, one which even covers the tantalizing question of birth on board a merchant ship—an accident which now usually makes the child subject to anywhere from two to five national jurisdictions.

WILBUR ASKS FIGHT AGAINST ILLITERACY

Secretary Appeals to All U.S. Evangelical Bodies to Aid in Drive.

30 STATES IN CAMPAIGN

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wilbur yesterday appealed to all evangelical bodies in the United States to join in the drive to eliminate illiteracy.

The "shocking facts" of illiteracy are being called to the attention of church organizations now, he said, in order that plans can be made at the annual meetings this spring for active participation in the campaign sponsored by the Government. In his letter, Secretary Wilbur said: "The national advisory committee on illiteracy, appointed with the approval of President Hoover, is stimulating interest in the campaigns now being carried on in 30 States to reduce adult illiteracy before the 1930 census is taken.

"This effort is preliminary to a Nation-wide drive which will be undertaken soon after the Census Bureau assembles the facts upon existing illiteracy. The success of the campaign will depend in large measure upon the active cooperation of all the educational and religious agencies in every community."

Wilbur said that the 1920 census reported 4,931,905 persons ten years of age and over unable to write in any language. Three million of these are whites of whom 1,242,572 are native born.

"These are sheer illiterates," he said, "the number of persons unable to read the Bible with understanding, or to write a letter, is variously estimated from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000."

Trade Diplomacy Urged by Sackett

U. S. Envoy to Germany Says Such Policy Will Make for Peace.

Berlin, March 16 (A.P.).—Ambassador Frederic C. Sackett preached the gospel of "an economic diplomacy of common sense" before the American Chamber of Commerce here yesterday. The new American envoy urged members of the chamber and similar organizations in the United States to maintain an attitude of "powerful assistance," adding that such a policy, weaving among the nations a closely interdependent business fabric, is "better security for the future than battleships and armament."

Mr. Sackett, by inference, indicated his belief in the future of Germany by recalling the days when the United States was a struggling debtor nation, compelled constantly to borrow abroad and to ship tribute to foreign nations in the form of interest.

Yet in less than 50 years of real industrial progress, he said, the United States had jumped from this poverty to the position of chief creditor nation of the world.

Americans came from all parts of Germany to attend the affair.

Dividend Is Seen On Irish Bonds

Defunct Republic's Security Will Return About 58 Per Cent.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Holders of the bonds of the defunct Irish Republic will receive dividends of 58 per cent of their claims, under supreme court decision made public today by Justice Curtis A. Peters.

The decision approves recommendations of the receivers and directs the immediate distribution among 129,031 claimants of the $2,539,783.69 balance on hand, out of an aggregate of $3,613,108.66, based on 160,705 subscriptions. About two months will be required to complete the distributions.

Funds were reserved for the estimated expenses of winding up the receivership and for a possible dividend on a claim for $100,000 by the Friends of Irish Freedom, now in litigation.

Keeping Posted

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

It is not compliance with the law merely to obtain license tags and put them on one's car. They must be kept legible at all times. The regulations require that the plates must be kept clean so that the identification which they afford is plainly visible.

In case a tag is lost or mutilated, the owner of the car is obliged to report the occurrence to the superintendent of licenses within 24 hours and a duplicate set will be issued. This permits the immediate cancellation of the old tags.

Example: While driving over a rough stretch of road a motorist loses one of his license plates. He discovers the loss on returning home, but needing the car he uses it with the tag missing. It is an infraction of the law.

Stolen Auto Is Bought With Worthless Check

Chicago, March 16 (A.P.).—Morris Furhman, who sells used cars, says a worthless check may be a worthy check, and he proves it.

William A. Hanna offered Mr. Furhman an expensive car for $300. Mr. Furhman suspected the car was stolen, so he offered him a $50 check, signed by a fictitious name. Hanna took it, and it was hardly any time at all before he was arrested and confessed the car did not belong to him.

CANTILEVER COMFORT WEEK

MARCH 17 TO 22

Dedicated to Relieve Foot Suffering

IF your feet ache—if you are troubled with weariness, headaches, backaches, "nerves" and other ills that are so often the result of "Shoe Fatigue"—then this week is dedicated to you.

This week is part of a nation-wide drive to bring COMFORT to every man, woman and child.

We are glad to take our part in this health mission. We extend our sincere invitation to every seeker of foot-health to call on us during Cantilever Comfort Week.

Our service and counsel are given without any obligation to you. We are proud and happy to give our services in this great drive to End Shoe Fatigue.

WHY CANTILEVER SHOES END SHOE FATIGUE

Cantilever Shoes end Shoe Fatigue because:

The Arch is Flexible

Their Shape is Natural

The Heel is Wedged

FETES, LAW MENACE AWAITING AL CAPONE

TWO TURKEYS FATTENED

Chicago, March 16 (A.P.).—A mixed reception awaits Al Capone on his return here from the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia, where he is serving a ten months' sentence for carrying a pistol. The gangster's sentence expires Monday.

An elaborate banquet was being planned by his mother, brother and sister at Capone's South Side residence. Two 18-pound turkeys have been ordered from a neighborhood butcher and invitations extended to intimate friends. The time of the feast depends upon the arrival of Capone, whose hour of departure from the prison, originally set for shortly after midnight tonight, may be delayed until Gov. John S. Fisher reaches Philadelphia from a vacation trip to sign necessary commutation papers.

Different plans were being considered by United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson. The prosecutor said he had two possible cases against Capone—one involving the alleged nonpayment of income taxes and the other based on a contempt-of-court charge.

Capone was cited for contempt of court last year when he failed to come to Chicago from his winter home in Miami Beach, Fla., in answer to a subpena issued while a Federal grand jury was investigating Chicago Heights liquor traffic. He was subsequently released on $5,000 bond, but the Federal attorney must exercise the privilege of calling the case for hearing.

Deputy Commissioner Stege crystallized the police department's attitude toward the homecoming with: "Capone will be picked up like all the other gangsters have been in the current crime drive."

Philadelphia, March 16 (A.P.).—"Scarface" Al Capone, Chicago racketeer, whose term in Eastern Penitentiary here expires officially at midnight, may not obtain his freedom until tomorrow afternoon.

Capone was sentenced last May to a year in prison on charges of carrying a loaded revolver, but two months were deducted for good behavior, and according to penitentiary rules he is eligible for release at midnight. Before he is set free, however, routine papers in connection with his case must be approved by Gov. Fisher and delivered to prison officials.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

George E. Wintz presents "Vanity Fair of 1930," with Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield. Book and lyrics by William K. Wells. Music by George D. Wiest. Orchestra under the direction of Harry Shannon, jr. Entire production staged under personal direction of Mr. George E. Wintz.

Until last night in the National, Washington hadn't seen a razzle-dazzle vaudeville show, or a revue, in a long time.

Then, of a sudden, "Vanity Fair of 1930" brightened the horizon, with Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield featured. Along with them were a dozen more from the music halls—and some very good, too. This sort of entertainment is more a matter of mood than anything else; but this is a hard-working aggregation and manages to work up enthusiasm.

The third George Wintz production to play the National, "Vanity Fair of 1930," seems to have a shade on the others—if only for speed. It moves along in fast style, motivated, perhaps, by a jazz orchestra under the command of one Harry Shannon, related no doubt to the Shannons of Broadway.

Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield have some new numbers, along with their old stuff, and go along about the same as they did in those days of the Keith-Albee circuit; but, as someone aptly remarked last night, Cecil has been drinking beer again. Now the chances are that Cecil has not been drinking beer; for where can beer be secured in this day and generation? Even so, Cecil makes some of the boys jealous, with his—for want of a better name—well-fed look. Yet, withal, he manages to dance, and sing as well as ever—and do his patter songs, with Cleo, as in the days of yore.

There is a young comedian amongst those present, Dave Burns, who does several rousing numbers—and goes over big. Then, there are two exceedingly splendid dancers, one Miss Norma Gallo, and the other Miss Marcella Smythe; good enough to grace any stage, in any company.

The regular revue style of entertainment—there are black-outs, and flash numbers, and what not—all interspersed with dances by a trained troupe of Tiller girls.

Someone, recently wrote to ask: What has become of vaudeville? Here is the answer. Vaudeville is being perpetuated by the revue.

GAYETY

The prettiest chorus in burlesque, Frankie Clark and the vocal numbers of Billy Sullivan, uphold "French Models'" prestige in their claim for I. H. Herk's grand prize for the Mutual Burlesque's best production.

Twenty of the prettiest blondes and brunettes to participate in a chorus is the honor bestowed upon the lassies who form this portion of the "French Model" cast.

Frankie Clark, a little dazzling blonde ushered forth in classy costumes, danced around, rendered several numbers, and in her brief stay was acclaimed the star of the show. Viola Ellito, who made several brief appearances, came in for much acclaim. The singing voice of Billy Sullivan made him well liked. Ella Sears, a girl of action, continued with her speedy pace yesterday.

The dancing La Marr team, dominated by a stunning blonde, stood out. Issie Ringold, known as the Blue Singer, took care of the added attraction part in fine style.

Jimmy Lake's own show, "The Big Revue," will hold the stage next week, with the usual amateur and auction nights coming off again this week. Amateur night, on Friday, is open to all young amateurs.

Attackers of Man Sought by Police

John Byroades Robbed of $200 After Being Beaten.

Police last night continued their search for companions of John Byroades, 42 years old, who gave his address as Eighteenth street northwest near Ontario road, who were with him when he was brutally beaten and robbed of $200 Saturday night.

Byroades' condition was reported as still critical at Emergency Hospital. Byroades suffered a possible skull fracture, three fractured ribs and possible internal injuries.

According to Byroades' story to the police he and two companions were in a speak-easy in I street when two strangers joined their party. He said they set out for a notorious roadhouse on the Baltimore boulevard and that near Silver Spring a fight occurred and that he was beaten into semiconsciousness.

Byroades was picked up by Grover Bell, of 2136 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, who was passing in his automobile. Bell took Byroades to the hospital.

TAX WILL BE LIFTED OFF OPERA TICKETS

Payments Guarantors Make May Be Deducted From 1930 Returns.

OFFICERS ARE REVEALED

Buyers of tickets for operas to be presented at the Fox Theater next month under the sponsorship of the Washington Opera Association, Inc., will not be burdened with an amusement tax, and any payment made by the guarantors of the opera will be deducted from their 1930 income tax returns, it was announced yesterday.

This allowance has been made by the Bureau of Internal Revenue because of the educational purposes of the opera. The purpose of presenting the operas, it is explained, is to encourage the understanding and appreciation of music and to promote the musical education of the public.

Three operas are to be presented on April 23, 24 and 25, La Boheme, Andre Chenier and Traviata. The price of tickets will be lower than usual for opera because of the capacity of the Fox Theater, it is announced.

Officers of the association are Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, chairman; Mrs. George Mesta, vice chairman; Mrs. Tracy Dows, treasurer; Andrew Wylie, secretary, and Mrs. Wilson-Greene, manager. The board of trustees includes Miss Elizabeth Butler Howry, Mrs. Charles J. Bell, Mrs. Franklin Ellis, Mrs. James F. Parker and Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, as well as the first three named officers.

The officers will continue until the first annual meeting in May, when the guarantor members will elect a new board and officers.

Eugene Meyer, Frank R. Jelleff, Mrs. Elmer Schlesinger, Mrs. Christian Heurich, Princess Boncompagni, Mrs. James F. Curtis, William Phelps Eno, Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis, Mrs. Keith Merrill, Mrs. Armistead Peter 3d, James Parmelee, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, Mrs. Demarest Lloyd, Henry B. Spencer, Leander McCormick-Goodhart, Mrs. Henry Barton, Mr. and Mrs. William McClellan Ritter, Mrs. Stokes Halkett, Mrs. Hennen Jennings, Thomas Sweeny, Mrs. David St. Pierre Gaillard, Mrs. Copley Amory, Mrs. Charles J. Bell, Mrs. George Mesta, George Garrett, D. J. O'Brien, Mrs. Thomas J. Phillips, jr., Mrs. John F. Wilkins and the Evening Star.

The Western Electric Co.'s annaul report to the stockholders for 1929 shows total sales of $410,950,000, an increase of 42.7 per cent over 1928, which previously was the largest year in the history of the company. Net profits were $22,980,000, or 5.6 per cent, on sales compared with the rate of 6.7 per cent in 1928.

"The year 1929 was an outstanding one in the history of the Western Electric Co.," says Edgar S. Bloom, the president. "Faced at the opening of the year with an unparalleled demand for equipment on the part of the Bell System, the company was able to expand the volume of production so as to meet these requirements satisfactorily."

Fireman Hurt in Fall While Battling Blaze

One fireman was injured in a series of sixteen fires early yesterday and last night. The injured fireman, Albert H. Chace, attached to No. 15 Engine Co., received injuries to his back while fighting a fire of undetermined origin in a vacant house at Thirty-second and G streets southeast early yesterday. He fell over a rafter. He was carried to the street by fellow firemen and given first aid. The damage caused by the blaze is estimated at $2,000.

The other alarms, which kept the department busy, were in the outlying sections of D street, where dry grass became ignited.

Two Men Are Injured When Auto Strikes Tree

Two men were injured early yesterday when an auto in which they were riding struck a tree in New York avenue between Ninth and Tenth streets northwest.

James C. Wills, 21 years old, of 1223 Tenth street northwest, operator of the car, was treated at the Emergency Hospital for bruises and shock. His companion, Maurice Eaton, 19 years old, of 1101 Massachusetts avenue, was treated at the same institution for lacerations on the face.

Texas Representative's Condition Is Improved

(Associated Press.)

Representative Lee, Texas, who has been seriously ill at a Washington hospital for the past few days, was reported yesterday by his physician to be "definitely better" and to have a good chance for recovery.

Saturday the representative's life was despaired of, but his doctor said yesterday that he slept through most of last night for the first time since he has been critically ill.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

It has grouped plaits to provide necessary width to hem. These plaits are inserted following notches for same. You will note this inset is placed below the hips with diagonal treatment at upper edge which tends to give the figure length.

The surplice closing bodice adds a scalloped collar that is brought well around to left side to contribute length.

It is one of those lovely green and white printed piques with plain white pique contrast. It is splendid for home wear now and then later may be worn for summer for general daytime wear.

Flesh-colored fist silk crepe is very chic.

Style No. 8079 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. It is made with 2¾ yards of 35-inch material with ⅜ yard of 32-inch contrasting and 3¼ yards of binding in the medium size.

All patterns of Lucille Lorraine styles are 15 cents each. Mail your order to our Fashion Department, The Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City. Be sure to write your name and address clearly and give the number and size of the pattern.

Visits to Spain Urged by Envoy

Ambassador Padilla Speaks Over Nation-Wide Air Hook-Up.

A cordial invitation for Americans to visit two exhibitions to be held this year at Seville and Barcelona was broadcast yesterday afternoon by the Spanish Ambassador to the United States, Senor Don Alejandro Padilla. Speaking over the coast-to-coast hookup of the Columbia Broadcasting System, in the "conclave of nations" program, the ambassador discussed the history of Spanish music, and the international understanding that he said music brings about. "Music is the great universal language," he said. "I wish we could have an international written language, such as music."

Senor Padillo was introduced by Senator James M. Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, who briefly sketched the ambassador's career since he entered the diplomatic service in 1893, as an attache to the Washington Legation.

"The good relations between Spain and the United States," Senor Padillo said, "are based not only on the good political, commercial and industrial understanding, but on the reciprocal knowledge of the people. Therefore, one of the most agreeable duties of my diplomatic representation here is to encourage Americans to visit Spain and my compatriots to visit this hospitable country, of which I am such a devoted friend."

Moving of Chapel Tribute to Wilson

President-to-Be Is Said to Have Made First Faith Profession There.

Atlanta, Ga., March 16 (A.P.).—An inconspicuous little stone building, now in Columbia, S. C., is to be torn down and reconstructed in Decatur, near here. The building is the old chapel of the Columbia Theological Seminary, where Woodrow Wilson, as a boy of 16, is said to have made the profession of faith in Christ.

Columbia Seminary, founded in Lexington, Ga., in 1828, was removed to Columbia in 1830, and five years ago was relocated in Decatur. Presbyterian synods of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi control the seminary.

The Rev. A. M. Fraser, of Staunton, Va., is said to have vouched for the story of Wilson's visit to the chapel. President Wilson's father was a professor at the seminary from 1870 to 1874, and his uncle, James Woodrow, a professor from 1861 to 1886.

Former Sheriff Shoots Self, Fearing Poverty

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 16.—James S Mitchell, 67, former sheriff of Carroll County, was in a dying condition today at the Galax Hospital after shooting himself in the head with his revolver yesterday.

Friends said that he had been worried over financial matters. Yesterday his home was auctioned under a foreclosure. Mitchell did not attend the sale and was unaware that at the time he attempted suicide his wife had bid in the home on funds she had privately secured, her action having been planned as a surprise.

The First Presbyterian Church of Natchez, Miss., is worshiping for the second century in its building, built in 1830.

Draftsman Who Slew Wife Draws Life Term

Maryville, Mo., March 16 (A.P.).—Charles D. Dimmick, St. Joseph draftsman, was convicted of a first-degree murder last night for the slaying of his wife by a circuit court jury here and he was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Dimmick pleaded insanity.

BICENTENNIAL GROUP TO BE FORMED SOON

CITY LEADERS CALLED

A joint committee, composed of representatives of leading civic organizations of the city, to cooperate in planning for the George Washington Bicentennial in 1932, will be organized at a meeting at 4 o'clock next Thursday afternoon, it was announced yesterday.

The meeting has been called by Mark Lansburgh, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association. Those who will attend will include representatives of the Board of Trade, Washington Chamber of Commerce, Federation of Citizens Associations, District Bankers Association, Real Estate Board, District Bar Association and the Operative Builders Association.

The committee will be made up of representatives of all these organizations. It will work in cooperation with the Bicentennial Commission in planning for the tremendous celebration. The committee will get down to work as soon as it is organized.

Decision to form the committee comes as a direct response to the appeal of Representative Sol Bloom and Col U. S. Grant 3d, codirectors of the bicentennial, for cooperation from local civic organizations. The codirectors spoke before the Washington Chamber of Commerce and the committee on community affairs of the Board of Trade at meetings last week.

Representative Bloom told the organizations that Washington will be the central stage for the celebration, the curtain to be rung up on Washington's birthday and rung down on Thanksgiving Day of 1932.

The Federal Government will finance the celebration, but cities are expected to contribute their individual part by sending conventions to the National Capital, Mr. Bloom pointed out. Washington should plan to take the part of host to the thousands of visitors who will flock to the National Capital during the year of the celebration, the codirector said.

17 Are to Be Initiated Tonight by Law Order

Senator Samuel M. Shortridge (Republican), of California, and United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover will be initiated as honorary members of the Gamma Eta Gamma Fraternity at the seventh annual initiation banquet of Iota and Washington Alumni Chapters tonight in the Raleigh Hotel. Fifteen students in the Georgetown University Law School will also be initiated tonight.

Prior to the banquet, the exemplification of the ritual will commence at 6:30 o'clock in the rose room on the second floor of the hotel.

"Wonder if a Set of Matched Sticks Would Really Improve My Game?"

Let us tell you our experiences. Like many other golfers we always used to play with a miscellaneous assortment of clubs . . . never getting anywhere or winning anything. Then we bought ourselves a set of Kroyden matched sticks. Improvement? Why say!

Beginning today . . . and continuing for 2 weeks . . . a representative from Kroyden will be here to tell you the advantages of Kroyden matched sets. He's a most interesting fellow . . . patient . . . willing to answer your questions . . . and as an extra measure will show you just how Kroyden clubs are made. Drop in soon and see him.

The same celery as it came from the Hydrator the following morning. The magic action of the Hydrator has restored the celery to its original state—fresh, crisp, delicious.

ALL this week we're giving a special demonstration of the Frigidaire Hydrator. We're showing what an amazing difference this new compartment makes in vegetables. We're showing how it revives wilted celery—how it restores lost crispness to lettuce and radishes—how it keeps tomatoes firm and delicious.

And, in addition to the Hydrator, we're demonstrating the latest cabinets in Porcelain-on-steel and the famous "Frigidaire Cold Control." We are showing how the "Cold Control" cuts down freezing time—how it increases the variety of frozen delicacies you can make.

Scores of new salads and desserts

The Hydrator and the "Cold Control" enable you to prepare scores of unusual salads and desserts—delicacies you've probably never enjoyed before. Read about them in the recipe books we're presenting to all our guests. Get your copies now. And by all means taste the salads and desserts now being served in our showroom.

The famous "Frigidaire Cold Control"

Attend the special demonstration now going on at our showroom. Delicious salads and desserts served. Free recipe books. Open evenings until 10 o'clock

SPECIAL OFFER
Until Saturday, March 22nd

We are prepared to make a liberal special offer to all who buy Frigidaire during our 9-day demonstration. Let us tell you about this offer. Let us tell you about our easy payment plan. Come in at your first opportunity. We will be open evenings until ten o'clock every day of the demonstration.

DEPARTMENT STORES PROFITS DEPEND ON SIZE AND TURNOVER

Small Department Stores Should Merge, Fisher Says

By IRVING FISHER
(Professor of Economics, Yale University).

It would appear that the merging of smaller department stores is economically desirable. Those stores which show the most favorable expense ratio to sales, the quickest turnover of stocks and the largest profits, have sales of at least $1,000,000 a year, and more often from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000 a year, or even more.

The chain stores and mail order houses with local retail outlets belong in one field, the department stores in another field, of higher price ranges.

Department stores may not profit from the advantages of mass production and mechanical improvement as manufacturing industry profits.

The representative store has become a stock company with widely diffused ownership and a general manager who holds his job by ability, not by birth or marriage.

Special to The Washington Post.

New Haven, Conn., March 16.—The larger department stores have made the greatest gains in sales volume in recent years. They have shown relatively a higher gross margin—that is, higher receipts from aggregate sales after total merchandising costs are deducted—and a greater rapidity of turnover of stocks than the smaller stores. Naturally, their showing in net profit and in net gain, or percentage of net sales, has been greater than in the case of smaller stores. Studies of department stores compiled by the Bureau of Business Research of Harvard University, under the direction of Prof. Malcolm C. McNair, show that for stores doing a business of $1,000,000 a year and over expenses are comparatively low and profits are distinctively better. The lower expense ratios of the larger stores are due primarily to their quicker turnover of stocks.

Internal Factors Uppermost.

It would appear, therefore, that the merging of smaller department stores is economically desirable, since those stores which show the most favorable expense ratio to sales, the quickest turnover of stocks, and the largest profits have sales of at least $1,000,000 a year, and more often from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000 a year, or even more. As in the case of the beef trust, the net profit on turnover of money and stocks for department stores has decreased within recent years. In studies extending over the period since 1921, Dr. McNair finds that factors conditioning success or failure for department stores are primarily the "internal ones in management rather than the external ones beyond the control of the store operator."

That is a comforting finding, in these days of aggressive chain-store development, popularity understood to be more or less in competition with the department stores. Really it is not so. The chain stores and mail order houses with local retail outlets belong in one field, and the department stores in another field of higher price ranges. The department store has nearly reached its full stature. To achieve further success it must employ managerial brains of the highest type.

Retailers' Handicaps.

Perhaps it is on this account that the larger stores have profited by commanding the services of the better trained managers. Department stores may not profit from the advantages of mass production and mechanical improvement as manufacturing industry profits. They must carry on their business under increasing handicaps with higher rentals, fairly definite trading areas, very limited export markets, and nationally standardized and advertised goods constantly warring against their own private brands. Moreover, competitive conditions compel them to meet mark-downs made by competing stores doing business for cash.

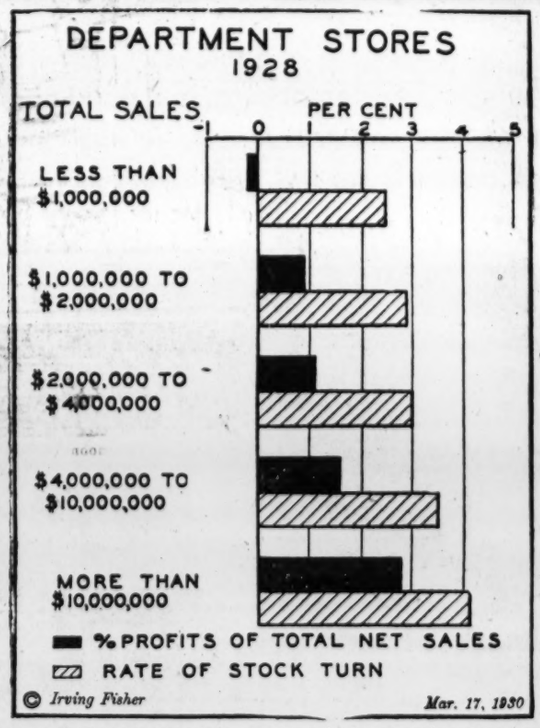
In the face of these difficulties it is gratifying that the better type of department store is working out its salvation. The family-owned establishment of former years, some conspicuously efficient examples of which still remain, is rapidly steadily disappearing. The representative store has become a stock company with widely diffused ownership and a general manager who holds his job by ability, not by birth or marriage. The progressive store carefully analyzes consumer demand, buys to meet that demand, and consequently quickens the rate of stock turnover. It emphasizes quality appeal. With careful individual treatment of its customers and better quality of goods, it justifies proportionately higher prices. Its credit policies become stricter. Well-wrought "club plans" provide an installment method for purchasers.

War Against Waste.

The National Retail Drygoods Association urges a standard packing procedure to cut down returns of goods, occasioned by rough handling. In its adjustments the better type of store realizes its educational opportunity, not only in setting the customer right, but in setting the store employes right. There is greater expertness in the judging of styles. There is deliverance from the fallacy that sales naturally proceed from production, whatever that production may be.

The independent store has lately come into competition with chain department stores. But both chains and independents appear to see that they are engaged in a common war against waste. No doubt a terrific fight is going on between the two systems for the consumers' dollar. "Massed advertising," massed selling, may accomplish much. In the department chains there is strong centralized control of many units. There is a drive which an outside coordinating management can impart to the initiative of the individual store manager. All these forces loom large as competitive factors in the eyes of the independent store owner. But no retail chain is such a dominant factor in the department store field as the great trusts, such as the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., United States Steel, or General Motors are in their respective fields. A department store, for instance, would have to do three billions' worth of gross business a year to equal the standing of United States Steel. For the present, at least, this is unthinkable in the retail field. There may be further mergers of independents. Department store chains are still matters of experiment. But perhaps size is only incidental. Skill and care in merchandizing are what really count.

Retrenchment, liberal advertising and stiff competition mark the radio industry at present. Its prospects will be the theme of a forthcoming article by Prof. Fisher, one of whose articles appears each Monday in The Washington Post.



"Profits" here represent surplus over interest on owned capital and fair remuneration for proprietors. Figures cover stores reporting to the Bureau of Business Research, Harvard University.

NEW YORK STOCK TRADING SELECTIVE

OIL SHARES MOVING UP

By H. B. BROUGHAM
(Irving Fisher Service.)

Selectivity was the keynote of the bullish movement of stocks last week, as of the entire upward trend since January 17. On March 12 the all-common industrials index had shown a 37 per cent recovery of the 89.1 points lost during the break last fall. On March 11 the common industrial index showed a 5.7 per cent gain over February 23. The rise from 138.7 on January 17 to 150.8 on February 5, approximately the same duration, showed an 8.7 per cent gain.

Last week thirteen of the group indexes reached the high point since the break last fall, but the slump on Wednesday left only nine groups up when the week closed. Twenty-one out of 23 oil stocks rose. Motors reached their high since the break on March 11. Radio had eight of last week's 50 most active stocks. Other strong groups were auto accessories, miscellaneous, office equipment, building supplies, preferred and tobaccos. The weekly index shows only coppers, household products and electrical equipment off, but the daily index reveals eleven groups off from the close of the preceding week. Rails have lost since February 8, with the index down by 3.4 per cent below the February 8 point of 137.4.

Group Trading Urged.

More than ever it is requisite that investors follow group movements in stocks and individual movements within those groups. A good rule would be to trade chiefly in those groups that show a pronounced upward trend, and only in those stocks within those favored groups that are rising most rapidly.

The groundswell in values traded on the New York Stock Exchange noted during the preceding week continued last week. Average daily tradings rose to $217,000,000, the largest this year, due to activity in common shares. Values in all common stocks rose by $29,700,000, to the high since the second week in December, with March 5 the largest trading day since December 20. Thirteen groups rose, seven lost.

Foreign Stock Markets Steadier.

For the first time in many weeks stock prices on foreign markets showed steadying trends. The Berlin index, 85.7 on February 28, showed no change last week from a level 2.6 per cent above record low on November 29 last.

London stock prices rose by 0.4 per cent last week, to a point 2.2 per cent above the bottom of December 27 and after a slump of eight weeks.

Paris stocks lost 2.5 per cent last week, to a level 2.8 per cent above the November 29 low of 134.1.

The compact survey of New York Stock Exchange movements of common industrial shares is given below in price indexes (1926 equals 100). There are two indexes of market price movement. The first ("Shares Outstanding") represents all common industrial shares listed on the exchange, the importance of each stock being considered according to the shares in existence, or outstanding. The second index ("50 Leaders") shows the price movement of the common industrial stocks most heavily dealt in during the week, this list changing weekly with the shifts in trading popularity.

The "Shares Outstanding" index shows what a substantially representative $100 worth of stocks in 1926 would now amount to if held unchanged since that year. The "50 Leaders" index shows the result of reinvesting the $100 every week in the market favorites of that week.

The last column of the table gives the rate of return on the week's 50 leaders at current prices.

Rise Most Rapidly.

Speculative stocks last week continued to move at the most rapid pace of the three groups, advancing by 2.8 per cent to a high since November at 124.4 on March 14.

From a February low of 175.0 the investment group had climbed 7 per cent to 187.2 on March 14, while a concurrent rise in semiinvestment issues brought them on March 11 to a fraction below the December post-panic high.

Broke Market With $1,000,000.

The increased speed of modern financial life can be realized in considering the fact that the elder Morgan broke the stock market panic of December, 1899, with a paltry $1,000,000.

Weather Is Good For Winter Wheat

Freezing and Thawing in Ohio Is the Main Exception.

While continued thawing and freezing kept the outcome of the wheat crop in the Ohio Valley problematical, weather elsewhere was in general favorable. Except for dryness in parts of Kansas and soil-blowing in Oklahoma and part of the Northwest area, winter wheat conditions remain fair to good.

The accompanying table's figures relate to temperature and precipitation in the spring wheat belt, and indicates that with higher than normal temperatures for this time of year and only slight deficiency of moisture, seeding and plowing can go forward for the fall crop.

March 14	Above 6.7	Below 0.24
March 7	Below 1.4	Below 0.28

What Deflation Is.

A declining price level, which means a rising purchasing power of the dollar, shows that the volume of money and credit available is decreasing so fast that goods and services made up on one level of costs have to be sold on a lower or declining level of prices.

Tennessee will spend $33,000,000 on roads in 1930.

Market in Bonds Is Prospering

Index Reaches 100.8, the High Record for 1929 and 1930.

Cheap money rates have had their undoubted effect on the bond market to make it prosper. The price index of all bonds has trended sharply upward since March 5, closing last week at 100.8, the record high for 1929 and 1930. Two-thirds of the rise of 0.8 per cent during this time was recorded last week; the index is above the preceding high level of 100.4 on December 4, last.

Average daily value traded in all bonds on the New York Stock Exchange increased by $3,300,000 over the preceding week; railroad industrial and foreign bond tradings produced the high point since the week ended December 5, last, with March 13 as the largest day's trading since December 12. Total bond issues last week were $186,598,120, as against but $1,091,200 of common shares.

Last week 61 per cent of bonds in the Fisher price index rose above the preceding week's close, while 26 per cent were stationary and 13 per cent fell.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Assets of the American Tobacco Co. on December 31, 1929, were $265,405,906, against $221,205,693 at the end of 1928. Surplus was $80,869,332, or almost twice the total as of December 31, 1928. Current assets totaled $146,766,868, including $20,490,152 in cash, leaving the company with the largest working capital in its history. Current liabilities amounted to $3,458,817. Brands, trade-marks, patents and good will were valued at $54,099,430. There has been no change in this item since 1913.

Initial public financing for the recently formed Appalachian Gas Corporation is expected to embrace a $2,500,000 issue of convertible debenture bonds. The company controls Ohio Southern Gas, Wayne United Gas, Ohio Valley Gas and Ohio Kentucky Gas.

Liquid Carbonic Corporation has acquired a controlling interest in Canadian Carbonate, Ltd.

The city of Helsingfors, Finland, is negotiating a loan of about $10,000,000 with American bankers. The purpose of the bond issue is to retire the municipality's present floating debt and to improve the port facilities.

FARM PRICES HOLD WELL DURING WEEK

DROP HALTS IN ENGLAND

Purchasing power of farm products, which took a sickening dip the week ending March 7, held its own last week at 109.4, thus reflecting the less serious fall of All-Commodities. In spite of general weakness of wheat, the foodstuffs group showed a rise for the week of 0.41 per cent.

Raw materials bore the brunt of last week's drop. This index fell to 89.0, another record low, and a slump of 0.45 per cent from the preceding week. Semimanufactured goods dropped only 0.11 per cent, while finished goods registered the first rise in five weeks with a gain of 0.11 per cent.

Falls in prices last week were pretty well divided between th agricultural and nonagricultural groups. Two rises in the nonagricultural group are worthy of note: Fuel and lighting rose 0.25 per cent, while hides and leathers showed an 0.62 per cent gain.

The first ray of hope in the foreign commodity price situation came last week when the index for England reversed its trend and rose 0.4 per cent from the record low of March 7. It is the first rise since the week of November 22, 1929.

Deflation Helps Lenders.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. In a time of deflation, creditors, or lenders, profit because fixed rates of income (on savings, bonds, mortgages, loans) yield them a given number of dollars, each of which will buy more than the dollars they loaned due to the lower level of prices. The appreciating dollar robs the borrower to pay more, in goods, to the lender than he should have.

COMMODITY PRICES CONTINUE TO FALL

But Fall for Week Is Only Fraction of That of Preceding Period.

DOLLAR'S POWER RISES

Followers of the wholesale commodity price index were prone to look upon last week's further decline of 0.1 per cent as almost in the nature of a moral victory considering the preceding week's heavy fall of 1 per cent. The ratio of rises to falls showed distinct improvement. Of the commodities changing in price 38 per cent rose, while the preceding week's changes registered 16 per cent rises as against 84 per cent falls.

At 90.9, however, the index records another low point.

The purchasing power of the dollar still maintained a steady swing upward, rising to 10 cents above the 1926 average.

Fluctuations in the general wholesale price level and in the purchasing power of the dollar are given below for the United States for various periods, based mainly on Dun's quotations. The average for the year 1926 is the base used.

U. S. an Industrial Gourmet.

Although the population of the United States is only about 7 per cent of the total world population, that unit consumes 48 per cent of the world's production of coffee, 53 per cent of tin, 66 per cent of crude rubber, 21 per cent of sugar, 72 per cent of raw silk, 36 per cent of coal, 42 per cent of pig iron, and has 24,000,000 of the 32,000,000 automobiles in use. But it likewise produces more per man than other nations.

New York Grape Market.

San Francisco, March 16 (A.P.).—New York State is the largest single user of California fruits, and was the only large market in 1929 in which the sales of grapes increased.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

PRESIDENT HOOVER will be heard over two nationwide networks when he speaks in the ceremony dedicating a memorial to the heroic American women of the World War on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Gen. John J. Pershing, Senator Simeon D. Fess and Miss Mabel Boardman will speak during the same program.

Inferior quality of reception, due to atmospheric conditions, caused the National Broadcasting Company to cancel the rebroadcast of a portion of Beethoven's opera, "Fidelio" from the State Opera House at Dresden, Germany, after the first few minutes, yesterday afternoon.

A special half-hour broadcast arranged for its audience in the maritime provinces of Canada will be transmitted by Station WTIC, at 8 o'clock, Wednesday. The program will be rebroadcast by Station CHNS, of Halifax, Nova Scotia. Washington listeners will find WTIC on the same wave length used by WBAL.

The orchestral portion of the program will include such Canadian favorites as "Land of the Maple and Beaver" and some of the Gilbert and Sullivan light opera tunes.

By means of the rebroadcast from Station WHNS, listeners in the maritime provinces will be able to pick up the program either from their own station or from the Connecticut transmitter. Following the half-hour from Hartford, the Halifax broadcasters plan to reciprocate by presenting a program dedicated to the audience in the States.

ALL housewives are invited to the coming out party to be given by the National Canners Association this morning over WRC for "The Canny Cook."

WOL will celebrate St. Patrick's Day by commencing contisuous operation from 7:30 o'clock in the morning until 7:30 o'clock, or later.

More complaints about WMAL being broad. We are told a station in that portion of the spectrum naturally tunes broad, but the explanation hardly seems to justify WMAL taking up 10 points on the dial.

THE increased use of radio in the United States and by Scotland Yard in spreading information to aid in capturing criminals has been watched carefully by the French police. As a result, it has been announced, funds will be allocated in the new budget to construct a radio station in Paris to give the police there immediate contact with stations through France.

William S. Paley, president of Columbia, vacationing at Agua Caliente, Mexico, wanted to hear Will Rogers broadcast recently. On two hours' notice, a direct wire to his hotel room, connecting him with the broadcast, was arranged by the telephone company.

John Boles, of the films, will sing "Song of the Dawn" as a solo during the concert to be broadcast by Whiteman's orchestra over WMAL at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

How to Prevent Accidents.
(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

Burns are far too common in infancy. They should be prevented by keeping the baby away from the stove, open fires and gas or electric heaters.

Keep him in his crib or in a play pen, at a safe distance from any heater. Never bathe him close to the stove, as tragic accidents have been caused by overturned kettles of hot water.

Keep all bottles of medicines or boxes of pills on high shelves or in cupboards well out of the baby's reach. Do not leave the bottle of iodine on the washstand or table. Keep the kerosene can in a closed cupboard or other safe place. A baby who bites his painted crib or other piece of painted furniture may get lead poisoning; he should have an unpainted wooden crib or one painted with paint containing no lead.

Never use a baby powder containing stearate of zinc unless ordered by your doctor. Never give a baby a can of baby powder as a plaything, even one that is apparently empty. If he puts the top in his mouth he may inhale the powder. If stearate of zinc is inhaled a serious and often fatal form of pneumonia develops.

Gas poisoning can be prevented by not using gas heaters or by being certain that neither the heater nor the piping fixtures leak.

G. W. Glee Club Fete Has Been Postponed

Ceremonies honoring the George Washington University Men's Glee Club, winners of the intercollegiate glee club contest, which were to have been held this evening at the Memorial Continental Hall, have been postponed, it is announced by the university.

Announcement of the date of the postponed function will be made within the next few days.

Paris, March 16.

SHORT sleeves are nice. I prefer the short sleeves that are rather full and simulate the little capes that are so stylish. These are especially comfortable as well as attractive for summer.

For afternoon wear, short sleeves are really adorable when rendered elegant with long loose gloves. The very large and almost too heavy looking gloves worn with the most fragile and lacy horsehair hats and printed chiffon dresses are particularly favored by Suzanne Talbot.

* * * *

No fooling, I'm beginning to like the short sleeves for summer. Some of them are cuter than a bug's earwacker, looking for all the world like little shoulder capelets. And one length seems as smart as another for these sleevelets. Some just cover the shoulders a couple of inches, others come just above the elbows and are very wide, still others are tied just below the elbows.

* * * *

There are dresses AND dresses. Personally I never cared for "dresses"—but when I run across an AND dress like Ardanse's simple wine-colored crepe which I have illustrated for you today—well, I just hasten to sketch it for you, that's all.

You mustn't mistake what I mean by AND dresses into thinking that they have to be in any way exaggerated or unusual—quite, quite the contrary, it's usually the just dresses that are exaggerated and unusual. But when you encounter a dress like this one, that is really the last word in elegance and quietness—well, then you usually sketch it for your deah publik.

* * * *

Now you can really have more than one evening coat! Because the mode decrees that they can be short and unlined and that they needn't be so very lavishly fur-trimmed, either! So for your summer wardrobe I've made you an illustrated leaflet with the directions for making several of the very smartest types of short evening coats. Just a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will bring it to you.

* * * *

There is a style creator in gloves, yes, a glove couturier—and the name is a famous one that you have heard in connection with gloves, oh, ever so often.

Alexandrine it is who realizes that a glove is not just a glove; but an important part of a smart ensemble and has within itself decorative possibilities. Keeping closely in touch with the mode, and making as she does special gloves for so many of the famous dress couturiers, one just feels as though a glove by this well-known designer is worth the much more that you pay for it.

* * * *

Of course you're looking each Sunday for the weekly Dare fashion letter. It's in the big Sunday Post each week.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

The Helpless Girl.

"WHY, oh, why do the men all flock to the sweet thing just to wait upon her? Tell me this and I will thank you!"

This outburst, with lots more, was signed "Up-and-Doing." Now "Up-and-Doing" is a young lady who wants to get married, but can't. She declares that all the dumbest girls at school are now married, and to really fine men, while she and several other intelligent classmates are still pounding typewriter keys and waiting for rescue.

So she demands the why of it all. "Why do men flock to these helpless Janes?" And we ask, why do flies flock around molasses? Man, from the dimmest past, has been looking around for something to protect, not because of any Simon pure protective instinct, but because of a strong Simon pure fighting instinct. In the past, to appoint himself protector meant to fight. And how man loves to fight. Well, now he buys a pair of ringside seats and watches two people who are paid to do his fighting for him. So fighting is out. But he still has that lingering tendency to pick out something weak to look after.

And when the "helpless" girl happens on the scene he goes loco. He fetches and carries, and acts all man. And the girl just sits back and enjoys herself, while all the girls around want to slay her, or show her up, or do anything! All the "Up-and-Doing" girls bustle about to show how active they are and how lazy she is, but to no purpose. They then ask, "Is it worth while to imitate her?" No. It is fatal for a woman who is by nature a hustler to attempt to be languid. Not even a man would be fooled for an instant.

Truth is, the "helpless" girl is not posing. Nor is she really "helpless." She is just the type of woman who, by instinct, looks upon man as her natural proctector and incidentally her servant. The type is by no means extinct and is found even among successful and highly intellectual women. In any emergency, then, first thought is a man. Even in grief they go to a man for comfort. It is their nature, and the type delights a man's heart. He sees himself necessary, needed, leaned up, indispensable. And does he like it? Just observe him!

So, "Up-and-Doing," although she never can be the "clinging" type, can modify her general effectiveness to at least the degree where efficiency will cease to be her outstanding characteristic. Men are conscious of their shortcomings, and they fear and dread the faultless woman. They live in a world of efficiency. They hustle. They are fed up on this. What they crave is candle light on a smooth cheek, and a wisp of pale chiffon, a head that seems to seek a strong arm as a resting place. They ask so little it just seems a pity they so rarely find "it" in this up-and-doing age.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

THE trend of thinking is away from the opinion that smoke in the air is a direct cause of disease. It does produce cloud and fog; it does filter sunlight rays which the body needs in protecting itself. Thus indirectly it causes pneumonia and consumption, but, so far as direct action of inhaled smoke and soot on the lungs goes, these sources of air pollution get a fairly good certificate of character.

Not so with dust in the air. The trend of opinion grows stronger against it all the time. However, there are some kinds of dust that escape indictment. Organic dust, such as that from flour, is not especially harmful if the possibility of eczema and asthma is overlooked. Stone dusts are not very harmful if they contain a considerable percentage of lime. The very harmful dusts are those which run very high in silicon. There is some evidence that the kind of rock and the binder may be factors. Dust from certain rocks does not seem to be especially harmful even though they are high in silicon; the binder is a factor. Dust containing considerable clay is not so harmful as that which contains less of this binder. The size of the dust particles and their sharpness are other factors. For these several reasons, it is never safe to condemn even a silicon or sand dust without investigation. One should judge partly by the prevalence of consumption among those who work in it and who, having worked, quit because of it. One should judge, also, by X-rays taken of the lungs of those who work in this dust. And finally, the amount of dust and its physical and chemical constitution must be taken into consideration.

There is practically no escape from indictment for three industries: Granite cutting and polishing, sand blasting, and mining sand and sandstone.

Substitution of the hose and nozzle method, in which the blasting is done in a closed place while the operator works from the outside. This is better than open blasting.

All men who work at this trade should be specially registered for examination for tuberculosis, and this period of observation should be continued for at least five years after they have left the sand blasting trade. The South African Miners' phthisis bureau requires that every miner working in a dusty mine be examined clinically and by X-rays before being set to work and at six months intervals thereafter.

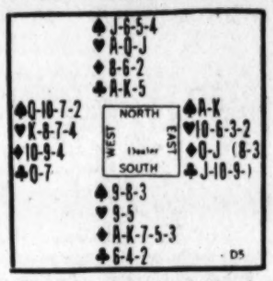
WORK ON BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



With the above hand played at Auction Bridge, South would bid one Diamond, West would pass and North would bid one No Trump, which would end the auction.

At Contract, South would bid one Diamond and North three No Trumps, which would end the contracting.

When the hand was played with North the Declarer, East led a Club which North won. Declarer then, appreciating the necessity of establishing South's Diamonds, led a Diamond from North and permitted East's Jack to hold the trick. East led a second Club, which North won, and then Declarer ran South's four Diamonds, North discarding two Spades. With six tricks in hand, Declarer led a Heart and North finessed. The finesse won, but the Ace of Hearts did not drop West's King, and consequently the Declarer made only two-odd.

The Correct Play.

The Declarer should have realized that to make game it was necessary to take, in addition to the two Clubs which were assured, four Diamonds and three Hearts. The Diamonds could be obtained by chucking the first or second Diamond trick; but to get the Hearts it would be necessary to find the King in the West hand and to lead Hearts twice from South.

After the first three tricks were played as above, North should have led a Diamond to be won by South. But before continuing Diamonds, and while North still had a Diamond to return, South should have led a Heart for North to finesse. Then South should have been put in to cash his Diamonds, after which he would lead for a second Heart finesse. That is the only way in which game could be made and, as the cards lay, it would have been successful.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF March 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

There will be an acceleration of activities on this date, and things will move forward at a rapid pace. It should be a memorable day for sports. There will be considerable travel—mostly of a business nature.

The child born on this March 17 should be able to pass a high intelligence test at an early age. It will be highly strung and nervous and should not be pushed in its work or studies. It will have sufficient talent to pursue an artistic career.

You have an extraordinary nature in your reactions to things. There is no one who could be "bigger," braver or sweeter tempered in time of trouble and storm. At such times you show up at your very best—not then do you grumble and fret; you are in your element, and all your reserve forces are in action. When you are up against things, you do not allow your spirits to drop; you "buck up" and you stimulate others to do the same.

You are not, however, so pleasing as a fair-weather companion. When there is peace and calm, you become bored with everybody and everything, and you grouse over trifles. When you are traveling at full sail you are inclined to be a rather arrogant and indifferent friend and associate. You can not de depended upon to be the same both today and tomorrow.

It may almost be said that you never worry and you do not suffer from many forms of fear. You are a born gambler with your life and you take many chances. Luck is usually with you, but it does not always accompany you on your voyages of adventure.

A. A. U. FIVES IN SPIRITED BATTLES

Montrose Downs Co. F; Stewart Bros. Trim Dixie Pigs.

TWO spirited battles between A. A. U. title-aspiring teams were staged in the Hyattsville Armory yesterday. The Montrose A. C. Unlimiaed defeated the Company F Cagers in a hard-fought contest, 29 to 25, and the Stewart Bros. Photographers topped the Dixie Pigs by a single point, 17 to 16, in an equally as bitterly fought fray.

Trailing 11 to 10 at the end of the first period, the Montrosemen, with Bob Freemen, pointing the way, outscored their foes decisively from the floor but their close guarding caused many penalties and the Militiamen kept close upon the trail of the victors by sinking most of these free tosses. Troy's shooting and Costinett's all-around play featured for the losers. Anthony Scheele and Mike Hunt ably assisted Freeman.

Stewarts Overcome Rivals' Lead.

The Stewartmen had a big handicap to overcome in tripping the Dixie Pigs, who piled up an 11 to 5 lead before intermission only to see that lead vanish in the second half before the improved Photographers' attack. Shapiro was the chief cog in this rejuvenated offensive. Reeley and Zahn carried the brunt of the battle for the losers.

The two winning teams on yesterday's card will clash Wednesday night at 8 o'clock on the Silver Spring High School floor.

In a multiple scoring fray yesterday at Silver Spring, the Woltz Photographers defeated the Eastern Preps, 52 to 35. The Preps made a close contest during the first half, trailing, 18 to 26, at intermission. Forney, Walker and Buscher led the Woltz scorers. Chapple and Hoffman split honors for the losers.

Columbia Ends Penn's Eastern Court Rule

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—The Eastern Intercollegiate Basket Ball League championship has moved to New York after a two years' residence in Philadelphia. Beaten only once in ten games, the Columbia Lions finally have returned to the top for the first time since 1926.

Penn's victory over Princeton last night, 28 to 16, officially closed the campaign, but to all intents and purposes the race was over Wednesday night when Columbia invaded Penn's court and romped off with a 29-23 victory.

With an all-star combination in which Lou Bender and George Gregory were the scoring spark plugs, Columbia rode roughshod over all league opposition. The Lions' only defeat was inflicted at New Haven by Yale. Columbia, incidentally, set a new high-scoring mark for the modern league when it trounced Dartmouth, 56 to 28, here on Monday night.

Lou Bender won the individual scoring title with 96 points in nine games, four more than his teammate, George Gregory was able to tally in ten. Horowitz, of Yale, finished third with 78.

	Won.	Lost.	Pts. for.	Pts. ag'st.
Columbia	9	1	399	270

Alabama's 15 in Row Cops First Cage Title

Tuscaloosa, Ala., March 16 (A.P.).—Alabama, which won its first Southern Conference basket ball championship this year, finished the season with one of the best records in the history of the Dixie loop.

The Crimson Tide won 11 games without a defeat before the conference tournament and then waded through the ranks of the tourney favorites to chalk up 4 more victories and the title. North Carolina's championship team of 1924 is the only other title winner of recent years to go through a season undefeated. The Tarheels won 26 games that year.

Except for "Lindy" Hood, a towering center who resembles Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the Tide had an outfit of small players. One of the stars was Fritz Wambsganss, nephew of the Wamby of world series triple-play fame, a 5 foot 4 inch guard whose cool generalship had much to do with Bama's victory over the highly touted Duke outfit in the final tilt.

"Bootleg" Ring Bouts Problem in Minnesota

Minneapolis, March 16 (A.P.).—Laxity of local officials is enabling "bootleg" boxing promoters many privileges in Minnesota, says Dr. Andrew Sivertsen, chairman of the State Boxing Commission.

Dr. Sivertsen, who is a Minneapolis physician, blames sheriffs and county attorneys for the existence of the illegal ring activities since, he says, they do not interfere in many small cities where, under the law, professional bouts are barred.

"The bouts are billed as amateur cards," said the commissioner. "But the use of the word amateur is just another joke, for the boxers are paid in most instances."

Amplifiers for Track Meet Now Planned

Greensboro, March 16 (A.P.).—The local committee in charge of the North Carolina intercollegiate track and field meet and the Greensboro civitan scholastic events to be held here May 3, are planning to use an amplifying outfit during the event.

If present plans are adopted, the amplifiers will be installed in the Memorial Stadium and the committee believes they will prove of benefit not only to the fans but to competitors and officials.

EAGLES BEAT BALTIMORE QUINTET

Come From Behind in Second Half to Score, 42 to 33.

THE Vorwaerts, of Baltimore, gave the Skinker Bros. Eagles a terrific battle at Silver Spring yesterday afternoon before bowing, 42 to 33. The visitors led the way for 25 minutes and although never far in front, threatened to hand the Skinker's their third loss of the season.

With Faber and Bennie setting the pace, the Eagles came back in the second half after trailing 15 to 16 to the intermission, took the lead after five minutes of play and were not headed thereafter. The Eagles functioned better as a team in the closing round and the Vorwaerts were unable to keep pace.

28 Games Scheduled For N. Carolina Nine

Chapel Hill, N. C., March 16.—The University of North Carolina baseball team, champions of the Tristate League of Southern Conference last year, faces a tough schedule of 28 games for the coming season, beginning with a game with Springfield here March 27.

Graduate Manager Charles T. Woollen announced the 1930 Tarheel card yesterday.

Twenty of the games will be with Southern Conference opponents. Springfield and Cornell will be the only intersectional foes. The usual brace of games will be played with N. C. State, Duke and Wake Forest in the Big Five, as also the usual three-game series with Virginia, culminating in the annual Greensboro game.

Veterans are back in Lufty, Whitehead, Rand, Jackson and Maus for every infield post but first. Wright and Fleming are back as veterans from last year's mound corps. Sher and House are back in the outfield, but House may not be in shape when the season opens, due to an injury to his arm sustained in football practice.

March 27, Springfield here; 31, Cornell here.

April 1, Cornell here; 3, W. and L. here; 4, Georgia there; 5, Georgia there; 8, Maryland here; 11, Maryland there; 12, Virginia there; 14, W. and L. there; 15, V. M. I. there; 16, V. P. I. there; 19, V. M. I. here; 21, Davidson at Salisbury or Winston-Salem; 22, Davidson there; 23, Georgia here; 24, Georgia here; 25, V. P. I. here; 26, Duke here; 28, Davidson here.

May 3, Wake Forest here; 6, N. C. State here; 7, South Carolina here; 9, Virginia here; 10, Virginia at Grenesboro; 12, Wake Forest there; 17, Duke there; 20, N. C. State here.

Batterymen Worry At Hampden-Sidney

With Drexel Institute, of Philadelphia, but two weeks away on the schedule, workouts are becoming harder every day, and Coach Bernier expects to have his men in good form by March 27 when the opening game is played.

Apparently the only players sure of their positions are Capt. Bob Lawson in center field, Willis at shortstop and Knight on second base. John Hunt is the mound mainstay, but the other places are wide open.

A scarcity of lads who can throw 'em down the alley is causing some of the Tiger followers anxiety, for Hunt is the only pitcher of experience in the college. Davis, captain of the squad in 1929, finished his academic career last spring after excellent catching, hurling and hitting.

Trayman was expected to do first-string receiving, but Trayman is ineligible, and Lee, submarine second-string pitcher of last year, did not return. As a result, Coach Bernier may develop slabmen out of sophomore material, especially Jim Crawley and Harwood, right-handers. Hughes, first sacker on the 1928 nine, may become a southpaw hurler.

Randolph-Macon Nine Has 16 Games

Special to The Washington Post.

Ashland, Va., March 16.—A baseball schedule, listing sixteen games, has been announced for the Randolph-Macon Team for the coming campaign. The season will open in Ashland on March 26, when the local nine will face Drexel Institute, and will end with the second scrap with Richmond May 14. The latter game will also be played here.

March 26, Drexel, Ashland; April 1, Bridgewater, there; 2, V. M. I., Lexington; 5, Medical College, Ashland; 10, Quantico Marines, Quantico; 15, Richmond, at Richmond; 17, Bridgewater, Ashland; 23, Hampden-Sydney, there; 24, Hampden-Sydney, there; 28, William and Mary, Williamsburg; 30, Hampden-Sydney, Ashland; May 2, Emory and Henry, Ashland; 5, Hampden-Sydney, Ashland; 7, Medical College, Richmond; 10, William and Mary, Ashland; 14, Richmond, Ashland.

LYNCHBURG GIVES LETTERS

Lynchburg, Va., March 16 (Special). Letters to players on the varsity and girls basket ball teams at Lynchburg College have been awarded as follows: Varsity—George Weibel, Leslie Young, Ralph Johnson, Lewis Gilbert, Jack Lane, Walter Miller and Joe Thomas. "GOSLIN VS. JOHNSON" IS ASPECT IN HOLDOUT CASE

4 Sports Hold Attention of Colleges

Intercollegiate Boxing Tourney Draws D. C. Entries.

G. U. Nine Opens Play in South; 2 Swimming Meets.

THE lingering indoor sports season for local colleges passes out this week as the outdoor season opens. Two swimming meets, two track meets and the intercollegiate boxing championships will find representatives of Capital colleges in action. Baseball competition will be introduced by Georgetown's nine, which will play three games in North Carolina.

George Washington's swimmers will compete tonight against Johns Hopkins and Wednesday night against Catholic University, both meets being listed at the Ambassador Hotel pool. The match with Catholic will be the second and final of a series and the Colonials are hoping to avenge themselves for a defeat last week in the Cardinals' tank. Tonight's meet will start at 7 o'clock.

Georgetown's trackmen and boxers will undergo their final indoor tests of the season during the week. Tomorrow night Leo Sexton, Artie Briggs and Jimmy Kelly will strive for titles in the national amateur track and field championship games in Madison Square Garden, while on Saturday night Sexton and the mile relay team of Chuck Carlin, Kelly, Vic Burke and Briggs will compete in the University of West Virginia carnival at Morgantown, W. Va.

G. U. to Send Group Of 7 Boxers.

A full team of seven men will represent Georgetown in the intercollegiate boxing championships, which open in the Palestra at Philadelphia on Friday. Capt. Charley Fish will defend his welterweight title won last year at State College, Pa. Fish is the first intercollegiate ring champion in Georgetown's history.

Having departed from custom by arranging a Southern trip to open its baseball season, Georgetown will send its diamond hopefuls to Dixieland Wednesday night. On Thursday they will go into action against Davidson College, at Davidson, N. C., and on the succeeding two days will meet Wake Forest College and Guilford College in the same State.

Right now it looks as if Georgetown is going to enjoy its best baseball season in years. The 1929 team, which won half of its twenty games, has returned virtually intact, while the freshman aggregation of last year has sent up several promising players who are making strong bids to oust the so-called regulars.

Coach Red Smith is optimistic. He likes the manner in which the pitchers are progressing and is highly pleased with the caliber of the infielders. He has two complete infields between which there is little to choose in the way of capability on defense.

Walter Morris at Third Base.

However, it is expected that he will nominate three of the 1929 quartet to take their old positions in the opening game. These three are Walter Morris, third base; Johnny Dunn, shortstop, and Johnny Scalzi, second base.

Johnny Bozek, who held down first base last spring, has been shifted to the outfield, and his old job has been turned over to Phil Mooney, a lefthander. With Bozek in the outfield are Capt. Ralph McCarthy and Bob Wholey, who played regularly last season.

The pitching department has been strengthened by Harry Noznesky, a southpaw, who has had considerable experience in New England amateur ranks, and Bill Lomax, a righthander, who performed effectively for the 1929 freshmen. The mainstays of the 1929 varsity, Hal Poole and Russell ("Packy") White, are again on the job.

Behind the plate the Hilltoppers also are stronger than a year ago. Paul Donovan, a veteran, is battling to retain his position against the ambitious efforts of Jack Tierney, who caught several games in 1928, and Frank Orefice, regular freshman receiver of last season.

Agua $10,000 Futurity Is Won by Siskin

Agua Caliente, Mexico, March 16 (A. P.)—Siskin, first son of the famous French racer, Epinard, scored a decisive victory today in the inaugural of the Agua Caliente Futurity, a carry over of the old Tia Juana Futurity.

The purse, $7,500 added, amounted to $10,980. The Nevada Stock Farm's bay colt, at home in the heavy going, won by four lengths over Shasta Broom. Flying Ace was third.

J. C. C. and Mount Vernon Clash in A. A. U. Tourney

ACTION in the District A. A. U. championship basket ball tournament, being sponsored by The Washington Post, should provide some of the keenest court play ever witnessed in the Tech High Gymnasium this week. Last week's opening contests saw the elimination of most of the weaker fives along with a few of the stronger teams.

The simmering down has resulted in the bringing together of natural rivals in every class and it will be a fight to the finish to escape elimination.

The Jewish Community Center "big five" and the Pratt's Whirlwinds, with their Business High School stars, are making their first tournament start tonight, which may or may not be their last appearance. Both of these teams have remarkable records for the season and are rated leading contenders in their respective divisions.

J. C. C. to Battle Mount Vernon.

Opposing the J. C. C. Five, which includes in its line-up, among others, Irving Fine, G. W. star; Sid Wallenstein, Irving Abramson and Sam Tash, will be the crack Mount Vernon Quintet, champions of the Sunday School League. Mount Vernon is not lacking in star players, having Warren Swift, former Central star; Tommy Dalgish, Melton, Crouch and others.

The Pratt's Whirlwinds will have the Tremonts, who have been in every A. A. U. tournament here, to hurdle to remain in the championship running. The Tremonts, featured by the Ciago brothers, have more than one tourney upset to their credit. Whether they can step with Spencer Chase, Dick Keefer and Bobby Lucas remains to be seen. This game is in the 145-pound class.

In another unlimited clash, the famed Calvary M. E. Church Five, which won a string of Sunday school titles, will meet an old rival in the Fort Washington Club. Calvary, led by Paul Gottwals, veteran guard, has a decision over the soldiers to its credit earned earlier in the season. The Soldiers will be out for revenge.

Calvary Eagles in Action.

The other game on the card at Tech High will bring the Calvary Eagles into action against the Night Hawks in the 130-pound division.

At the George Washington gymnasium, the Aztecs, one of the city's outstanding 115-pound clubs, will meet the Pirates, who defeated St. Paul's in the first round. This game starts at 4:30 o'clock.

Tomorrow the District amateur champions—the Woltz Photographers—will face their second test of the tournament, meeting the Calvary Drakes in the anticipated feature of a card which will also see the Y. M. C. A. and Brentwood Hawks in a second round unlimited clash.

Amateur Ring Stars Clash at Kensington

The most attractive amateur boxing card arranged here this season is to be presented tonight in Kensington Armory by the Forest Glen Council, Knights of Columbus.

Jack Malevich, crack light heavyweight of Catholic University; Nevin Barber, clever featherweight of the local Knights of Columbus team; Stwart Ball, veteran City Club boxer, and several others representing the local "Casey" organization will appear against a team from the Baltimore Y. M. H. A. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock, one hour after buses carrying Washington fans will leave the K. of C. Hall on Tenth street.

Malevich, in spite of a broken rib suffered in his last college bout, will meet Joe Kirchman, reputed to be one of Baltimore's hardest hitting amateurs. Efforts to match Malevich with Buddy Bordeau, Georgetown University South Atlantic light heavyweight champion fell through.

Tilden Takes Three Net Titles in France

Nice, France, March 16 (A.P.).—Three championships in the southern France tennis tournament fell into the hands of Bill Tilden, veteran Philadelphia player.

Tilden won the singles title by defeating Lyttleton Rogers, Irish Davis Cup player, in straight sets, 6—2, 6—2, 6—3. He then paired with Wilbur F. Coen, of Kansas City, to capture the doubles championship, beating the Japanese, Satoo and Takeichi Harada, in a hard-fought five-set match, 2—6, 6—4, 6—2, 7—9, 6—1.

The mixed doubles title went to Tilden and his German partner, Cecilie Aussem, through a 6—4, 6—0 victory over Elizabeth Ryan, former American now living in England, and Charles Kingsley, of England.

The women's title went to Mme. Simone Mathieu, of France, who defeated Miss Ryan, 6—4, 7—5.

Select Field to Play In La Gorce Tourney

Miami Beach, Fla., March 16 (A. P.).—Golf professionals from all the country and a plentiful sprinkling of amateurs will tee off Thursday morning in qualifying play for the second richest purse of American golf—the $15,000 La Gorce open tournament.

Horton Smith, Cragston, N. Y., who added the La Gorce championship to his list of fairway accomplishments last year, has been working out for the past several days since his elimination from the international four-ball matches at Miami, in preparation for defense of the title.

The 72-sole contest will run through Friday and Saturday after qualifying marks are set up Thursday.

Johnny Farrell, wearer of the La Gorce crown in 1928, will seek titular honors this year, as will Gene Sarazen, former national open champion, and an estimated 150 other followers of the golden trail of golf.

New York Craft Wins.

San Pedro, Calif., March 16 (A.P.). The Marin, Manhasset Bay Yacht Club, New York, entry in the 8-meter boat class, won the second lap of the King of Spain Trophy race here today. Frederick Hoyt skippered the craft and barely nosed out the Angelita, entry of the California Yacht Club, Los Angeles, yesterday's winner.

Red Sox Look Promising For 1930

No Title Contender, But Likely to Give All Foes Trouble.

(This is the thirteenth of a series of first hand Associated Press stories of major league baseball prospects.)

BY BRIAN BELL.

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 16 (A.P.). The Boston Red Sox may not win the American League championship in 1930, but they will win some games from the team that does capture the pennant and make themselves very disagreeable during the season.

The Sox have a long, hard baseball road to travel, but they may be said to be definitely on the way. President Bob Quinn and Manager Heinie Wagner are convinced that the reconstruction program is finally launched. They believe the comeback trail will have its start this year, that with a little luck the team in the making will annoy the other clubs no end, and an even more daring hope—that upon this foundation will be built a baseball machine capable of restoring to Boston the glory that was hers when the Red Sox not only dominated pennant races, but world series as well.

Players Not as Old As Thought.

Of 37 players in the camp, 31 are under 30 years of age. Eighteen are not yet 25. The oldest player is Milton Gaston, a hard pitcher to beat, who is 32, and the youngest Joe Cicero, a boy with a wallop in his bat, who is only 19. The club promises, however, to be well balanced with a good mixture of the experience of age and the enthusiasm of youth. The pitchers have been around long enough to know what it is all about and a raw youngster in the lineup will have an old head in baseball close beside him.

Pitching was not the worry of the Sox last year and the capable staff of 1929 has been returned in a body. Ed Morris, who broke even in games won and lost on a team hopelessly in last place, heads the group, with Charlie Ruffing, who finished strong after losing his first twelve games, working hard to make a repetition of this tragedy out of the question. Gaston, Danny MacFayden and Jack Russell are other starting pitchers.

Young Hurlers May Fit in Well.

There seems to be a wealth of material from which to complete the staff. Billy Bayne, Ergar Carroll and Ray Doberis tried briefly last year, and Horace Lizenbee, whose arm flopped without warning, are candidates. George Smith, former Detroit pitcher drafted from Seattle, and Ed Durham, recalled from Pittsfield, are adding zest to the fight for places, as is Frank Mulrooney, another Pittsfield product.

An added starter is attracting attention. Ben Shields, the former Yankee left-hander, forced into retirement by illness four years ago, is attempting a comeback, and certainly has a chance to succeed.

There is a freshman class of ambitious young pitchers whose members will have to matriculate in a baseball college of less exacting standards.

Charlie Berry and John Heving probably will do most of the catching, with a contest between Bob Asbjorson and Eddie Connolly for the third place.

Manager Wagner does not know how he will send his forces into battle arrayed for the opening skirmish but he does know that he will retain the services of 8 infielders and 6 outfielders until he has to reduce to 25 players June 15.

Two Complete Infields Now in Training.

He has two complete infields in Phil Todt, Bill Regan, Harold Rhyne and Bobby Reeves on one side and Bill Sweeney Otis Miller, Bill Narlesky and Ernie Holman on the other. Both first basemen will be retained, for Sweeney is fast and can make himself very useful. Selection of the other two extra infielders may remain in doubt for some time.

The starting outfield line-up may be Russell Scarritt, a star in his first season, in left; Tom Oliver, drafted by the Athletics from Little Rock in Miami, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—Rain forced postponement of the exhibition game between the Brooklyn Robins and the Philadelphia Athletics today. As far as the Robins were concerned, it was a good thing. Dazzy Vance, who was to pitch, developed a bad cold overnight and would have been unable to start.

Kress Starts for Camp; Browns Idle.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—A rainy day was not a gloomy day in the St. Louis Browns camp today, despite the fact that the team was thus deprived of playing Milwaukee in a scheduled exhibition game and was kept idle because of a soggy field. Word that Ralph (Red) Kress, flashy Brownie shortstop who has been a stubborn holdout this spring, had given in and started for camp from the Pacific Coast, spread cheer in the training quarters. Only Manush and Blaeholder now are holdouts and club officials believe they soon will come into the fold.

Errors Force Nats to Rally To Win From Colonels, 3-2

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., March 16.—Myles Thomas, Bob Burke and Ad Liska turned in good pitching performances here this afternoon against the Louisville Colonels, but sloppy work afield almost nullified their efforts, the big leaguers finally wining out, 3 to 2.

Burke deserved being charged with the run made from his slants, for his wildness was largely responsible for it, but miscues got Liska in hot water and made it necessary for the Nats to battle until the eighth inning before clinching the decision.

McLeod and Tate Hit Timely.

Earl Brown, a southpaw, and Joe Deberry, who uses his right arm, held the Nats to ten hits, but four were packed in the fifth frame, enabling Johnson's men to come from behind to lead, while timely bingles by McLeod and Tate, after Hayes had walked, decided the issue.

Red Barnes, Sam Rice and Buddie Myer, for the Nats, and Brannon for the visitors, cracked out two hits each. Melburne Simons and Foster (Babe) Ganzel, former Nationals, were in the allen line-up and each contributed some good fielding plays, the latter having been converted into a third sacker.

The Colonels broke the ice in the fourth inning, Burke, who had relieved Thomas after the starter had granted but one hit, helped construct his own pitfall by walking two and hitting another, with one down. Then Brannon propelled one over with his second consecutive bingle of the game.

Burke Hits Brown On Salary Arm.

Meanwhile, the Nationals had been having their troubles trying to solve Brown's southpaw slants. He held them to three singles in four frames and then was forced to give way when Burke hit him on the salary wing. This brought Deberry to the hill and the Nats immediately started to work on him, scoring two runs and having the sacks filled when the third out was turned in.

Ruel's opening pass, Burke's safety on an intended suicide and West's long fly on which Ruel advanced after the catch, put the Nats in a scoring position and successive singles by Rice, Barnes and Myer did the rest. The rally ended when Bradley fouled to Thompson and Bluege hit into a force play.

Round eight saw the Colonels knot the count, the run being a gift one. With one dead, McLeod pegged over Bradley's head after fielding Simons' roller. After Herman fanned, Myer threw poorly on Nachand's grasser and Simons scampered home while the Nat first sacker was lying on the ground trying to grab the ball. The Nats got this back in their half due to the work of the first three batters. Hayes coaxed a pass, and singles by McLeod and Tate brought him in before Deberry was able to put on the brakes. Liska made this run stand up by retiring the Colonels in order in their ninth.

Outfield Star At Odds With Manager

Salary Cut Not Only Phase; Griffith Backs Manager.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 16.—Guessing as to who will be the winner of the salary argument between President Clark Griffith, of the Nationals, and Outfielder Leon (Goose) Goslin has been the leading indoor sport here most of the past two days when the players have been driven to the fireside because of rainy weather.

The writer has been doing considerable sleuthing during this period and is convinced, despite all reports to the contrary from both sides, that Goslin refuses to play ball under Manager Walter Johnson and that the fight now is more "Goslin vs. Johnson" than over 1930 terms with the Washington Club owner.

True, the Wild Goose of the Potomac may resent Griffith's $10,000 "insault" plus bonus opportunities to earn more, but confirmation has been received that the player is on record as stating that he will not play with Johnson managing, feeling that the Nat leader "rode" him too much last year.

Fans Showing Keen Interest.

Judging from many letters received here by both Griffith and Johnson, the cash customers are taking an unusual amount of interest in Goslin's case. Of course, each side has its following, but according to information at hand the question resolves into a showdown as to whether any single player is bigger than the organization which employs him. There is no denying the fact Goslin is a good player and that the Nationals need him, but President Griffith no doubt feels that he is battling for a principle, hence his declaration first that Goslin himself must reopen contractual negotiations if they are to be reopened, and second that it will be up to the player to deny having made any such statement regarding his alleged refusal to play under Johnson before being allowed to join the club.

As the Washington Club owner sees things he is asked to choose between a player whom he declares has not always kept himself in the best condition and a manager in whom he has confidence and who by his clean living and earnest efforts over a stretch of more than twenty years has become one of baseball's idols and a great credit to the national game.

And taking this view of the situation Griffith naturally has no alternative but to support his manager irrespective of how much money is involved or of the question as to whether or not Goslin will regain his batting eye which he lost last season.

Although no rain fell here since late last night the damage to the diamond already has been done and the usual morning workout had to be omitted this morning while oil was burned so as to make the field playable this afternoon. Mud again slowed things up but Manager Johnson had his men out three hours before the game with the Louisville Colonels so that the day could not be called a total loss.

Shortstop Joe Cronin, who reported here slightly overweight, has been turned over to the tender mercy of Trainer Mike Martin, and, knowing how "Sir Mique" works, fans may be assured that this young infielder will be down to playing weight by Wednesday at the latest. Martin does not do any blasting, but his methods are almost as effective, if the words of Pitcher Irving Hadley and Catcher Gordon Phelps may be taken at face value.

Manager Walter Johnson tonight received a long distance telephone call from Commissioner of Baseball Landis at Clearwater, Fla., expressing his regret at learning of the automobile accident to Walter, jr., and giving his best wishes for the youngster's speedy recovery. Mr. Landis stated that he planned to visit the camp here, but he can hardly get here before the Nationals leave next Thursday, and probably will shift his visit to the Chattanooga camp.

Silver Bullet Will Do 320 Miles, Says Designer; Sets 250 as Goal

DAYTONA Beach, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—Utmost confidence in the racing car he designed for Kaye Don's assault upon the world's speed record was expressed here today by Louis Coatelen, European automotive engineer.

He said the machine, powered with two 12-cylinder motors, was capable of attaining a speed of from 310 to 320 miles an hour, but added that "we shall not attempt more than 250 at this time, because we want somebody else to break that mark so we can come back again."

The veteran automobile designer, who is chief engineer for the Sunbeam Motor Car Co., of England, arrived here from New York today and spent the entire day inspecting the giant silver bullet machine in which Don yesterday attained a speed of 198 miles an hour during a preliminary test run. The driver was prevented from making another trial this afternoon because of several minor mechanical troubles and alterations.

First Record Trial Is Near.

If beach and weather conditions are favorable tomorrow, Don expects to make several trial runs then, and if it is possible, he may try for the record.

Coatelen said Don's car was so designed that only 600 of the available 4,000 horsepower would be necessary to break the record of 231 miles an hour, which Sir Henry Segrave, of England, established here a year ago in his Golden Arrow.

"We have only half the wind resistance on this car that Segrave had on his," Coatelen said.

"Wind tunnel tests have proved that a stream lined racing machine, with the bulge around the motors and the body designed like the Golden arow offers much greater wind resistance than a parallel body that is perfectly straight from the nose right back past the motors and then gradually tapered off.

First Test Raises Don's Goal.

"Had I known before that the wind tunnel tests on our car would show up so favorably, I certainly would have put but one motor in it. As it is, we could break the record easily with only one motor."

Don has said that he would be satisfied with setting a record of 240 miles an hour, but after learning of Don's achievement yesterday, Coatelen said that "250 probably will be more like it."

30 MARYLAND-OWNED STABLES TO RACE AT BOWIE

String of 25 To Race for Bryson

Bedwell Brings Stable East for 11-Day Md. Meeting.

Winter Tracks Send Stars; N. Y. to Be Represented.

BOWIE, Md., March 16.—The eleven-day spring meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, which also marks the opening of the Eastern season here on April 1, promises to be extremely popular hereabouts, as no less than 30 Maryland owned stables will campaign here.

Ray Bryson and Guy Bedwell will campaign 25 and 20 horses, respectively. The majority of Bryson's string wintered in this section and were given their early preps at Pimlico under Harry Rite's care.

Bedwell's band raced throughout the winter at Agua Caliente and needs only a bit of freshing up in order to step right after the lucrative purses to be offered here next month.

List of Maryland Stables.

The list of Maryland-owned stables that have already been granted stalls by Track Superintendent Pending are: Mrs. Margaret Amory's Sagamora Stable, 14; Paul B. Codd, 6; J. P. McGovern, 7; Yancy Christmas, 5; S. W. Labrot, 12; Joe Rowan, 4; Richard Pending, 6; J. J. Farrell, 4; M. J. Cremon, 4; W. B. Trundle, 3; Ray Bryson, 25; Guy Bedwell, 20; Jay Reynolds, 4; Mrs. August Swenke, 7; E. P. Summerfield, 5; Maj. G. L. Stryker, 10; R. Jackson, 3; Dick Johnson, 4; N. K. Beal, 8; C. J. Moister, 5; Clarence Turner, 3; Sammy Freidel, 9; Ben Chapman, 10; Rob Robertson, 14; Ral Parr, 7; Howard Bruce, 11; Janon Fisher, 5; Wilson K. Lovering, 3; Charles Raynor, 2, and W. R. Kirkpatrick, 3.

However, this State's horsemen will have their work cut out for them to win purses, as the leading establishments of New York, Kentucky, Illinois and other racing centers will be ably represented.

Winter Tracks Send Stars.

In addition, the majority of winners at the past winter's racing at Miami, Hialeah Park, St. John's Park, Oriental Park, Jefferson Park, Fair Grounds and Agua Caliente will be available for the eleven days' sport. Therefore, it's going to be even harder on the race fan to dig up winners.

A big crowd of race fans was due here today, as Track Supt. Pending extended an invitation several days ago through Baltimore newspapers to come here and watch the thoroughbreds tune up for next month's session.

Seals Stop Pirates; Pitching Good.

San Francisco, March 16 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh's Pirates made but four hits off Davis and McDougall, pitchers for the San Francisco Seals, today, and dropped their first game of the exhibition season, 4 to 1.

Pie Traynor, Pirate third baseman, was out of the line-up, suffering with a soreness in one eye. Stuart Clarke, a rookie, took his place. Coleman hit a home run for San Francisco, sharing batting honors with Pinelli, a teammate, who had three hits.

Peck Drills Indians In Fundamentals.

New Orleans, La., March 16 (A.P.). Rain again keeping the Cleveland Indians from playing their first exhibition game with the New Orleans Pelicans, Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, between showers at the Indians' training camp, put his pitchers through arm-loosening exercise today.

The next scheduled game is Wednesday, but if the weather clears it may be played tomorrow or Tuesday.

Peckinpaugh, systematically endeavoring to correct the players' mistakes of last year, was also drilling the outfielders in throwing to the bases.

Tigers Bombard Red Hurlers But Lose.

Tampa, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers collected six home runs off Cincinnati Red pitchers here today, but the Reds included four circuit blows among their twenty hits and won an exhibition game, 15 to 9.

The National Leaguers came from behind three times, making Charlie Sullivan, recruit Tiger pitcher, victim of three and five run rallies in the last two innings.

Dale Alexander hit two homers, while Johnson, Stone, McManus and Akers also got four-base hits for the Tigers. George Kelly equaled Alexander's mark, and Stripp and Webb were other Cincinnattians to trot around the bases. Kelly collected four hits in five trips to the plate.

Cubs Pound Hurlers In 10-5 Victory.

Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., March 16 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs got the hitting range today, along with effective pitching and defeated the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League Club, 10 to 5.

Eighteen hits, including a home run, double and single by Riggs Stephenson, were obtained by the Cubs off three Angel hurlers, while Malcolm Moss, recruit southpaw, and regulars Pat Malone and Guy Bush, stopped Mr. Wrigley's other team with eight hits. Moss permitted but one hit, Malone yielded four, and Bush the other three.

The victory evened up the series at two wins each.

CARNERA DUE TEST WITH WIGGINS

Heavies Clash Tomorrow; Chocolate Returns.

NEW YORK, March 16 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera's tenth American appearance and the return to the ring of Kid Chocolate, crack Cuban featherweight, furnish the outstanding features of this week's national fistic schedule.

Carnera clashes with the old heavyweight trial horse, Chuck Wiggins, of Indianapolis, in the main ten-round bout at St. Louis tomorrow night. Chocolate, back in the United States after a long vacation in Cuba, takes on Al Ridgeway, slugging featherweight from New Jersey, in a ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night. In the semifinal of the Garden card, black Bill, of Cuba, and Midget Wolgast, of New York, finalists in the recent flyweight tournament here, clash over the fifteen-pound championship route.

Philadelphia's weekly show tomorrow night is headed by a ten-rounder between Tommy Loughran, former light-heavyweight titleholder, and Jack Renault, of Canada, once regarded as a leading contender for the heavyweight championship.

A Detroit card Thursday night will be featured by a ten-rounder between Bat Battalino, of Hartford, Conn., featherweight champion, and Bud Taylor, of Terre Haute.

Marlboro Soccerists Win Over Concord in Tourney

Wyville's Shot Wins, 2-1, After Deck Equalizes; D. C. Kickers in 4-3 Triumph Over Rockville in League.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

JOY reigned supreme in Marlboro last night as the soccer team representing the town won the most sensational victory of the season yesterday, when it eliminated Concord in the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association's cup tie tournament.

It was in the semifinal and the Marlboro lads will now meet British United in the final for the city championship. D. C. Kickers nosed out Rockville, 4 to 3, in a Capital City League game.

There were but few soccer experts who picked Marlboro to triumph over Concord, and it is doubtful if any looked for the clean cut victory and unquestioned superiority that Marlboro won and displayed. In attack, defense and combination play the Maryland kickers had the edge on the strong Concord Eleven.

In the early minutes of the contest it looked like a walkaway for Concord as the Marlboro defense was nervous and erratic, Emil Konnel scoring a goal but shortly after the start of the game. But this was the final success of the German kickers, as immediately afterward the Prince Georges County boys

NEWS FROM MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

CITIZENS' GATHERING TO HEAR BALL, REID

DISCUSSION OF SCHOOLS

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

State Senator Frank L. Ball and Delegate Hugh Reid are announced as the principal speakers at a meeting of the Ashton Heights Citizens Association to be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse, with President George M. Yeatman presiding.

President Yeatman extends an invitation to all citizens of the community, as both Senator Ball and Delegate Reid will review the activities of the recent session of the Virginia Legislature, giving to the people firsthand information relative to the many bills passed effecting Arlington County.

Among other matters to be discussed will be the school question. Plans are now in course of preparation for the calling of a special election for a bond issue of at least $580,000.

Proposals for the bond issue for the enlargement of the Washington-Lee High School and a number of the elementary schools as recommended in the report recently filed with the Arlington County School Board by the United States Bureau of Education resulting from its survey of the school situation in the county will be the principal business before the meeting of the Arlington District Council of Citizens Associations tonight. The meeting will be held in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at Clarendon.

The discussion on school needs in the county will be led by C. I. Kephart, chairman of the school committee, which has made an extensive study of the report which recommends a bond issue to meet the situation.

The monthly meeting of the Arlington Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held tomorrow night in the new hall of the Clarendon Fire Department.

The executive committee of the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association will meet tomorrow night at the home of W. O. Pickett. All members are asked to attend, as the meeting has been called for the purpose of discussing plans to create more interest among the members in county affairs.

The Edward Douglas White Council, Knights of Columbus, has announced a St. Patrick's Day card party tonight in the auditorium of the St. Charles School. The proceeds will go to the building fund being raised to erect in Arlington County a Knights of Columbus hall.

The committee in charge of the arrangements is composed of J. F. Cavanagh, Thomas A. Flynn, Martin I. Cook, Arthur Veitch, E. A. Brady, J. R. Mulligan, Robert Raeburn, T. L. Miller, Eugene Shreve, B. F. Toulotte, Thomas J. Crack, Louis W. Metzger and Hugh J. McGrath.

will be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights in the Odd Fellows Hall under the auspices of the Clarendon Rebekah Lodge.

Gideon A. Lyon, member of the group of journalists which recently made a three-months tour of the Far East, is announced as the principal speaker at the meeting Friday night of the Arlington County Creative Arts Club in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at Clarendon. Mr. Lyon will lecture on Japan and the Japanese people. He will show a number of colored slides showing views from Japan, China, Manchuria and Korea.

Mrs. William W. Willis, chairman of the committee on arranging the program, will introduce the speaker. Mrs. J. A. McKnight, president, will preside.

The ladies' auxiliary to the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department will elect officers at its meeting to be held tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall

The newly elected officers of the ladies' aid society of the Calvary Methodist Protestant Church at Aurora Hills will be installed at the meeting to be held in the chapel tomorrow afternoon. The installation will be preceded by a luncheon, to be served at 12:30 o'clock.

Those who will be installed are Mrs. Anna Jackson Sloan, president; Mrs. J. C. Gall, first vice president; Mrs. Wilda Hildebrand, second vice president; Mrs. J. W. Townsend, secretary, and Mrs. E. J. Skidmore, treasurer.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Nellie Custis School at Aurora Hills will meet in the Virginia Highlands Community House tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Men's Club of St. George's Episcopal Church at Clarendon announces it is holding, Thursday night at the Parish Hall, its first ladies night since its organization a few months ago.

Dr. Ray L. Sexton will give an illustrated talk on the "Mountain People of Virginia."

A specially called meeting of the vestry of St. George's Episcopal Church will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the rectory. All members are requested to be present.

The Margaret King Circle of St. George's Episcopal Church has announced a luncheon tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Upfold, Cherry Valley street, Ballston.

The Ballston Council, No. 20, Daughters of America, will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Ballston Firemens Hall.

The monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Cherrydale School will be held in the school library room tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Ashton Citizens Association announces it will give the third of its series of card parties in the Woman's Clubhouse Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

The Jefferson District Fire Department announces it is giving a St. Patrick's Day dance tonight in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

Urgent need of a central fire alarm system for Arlington County, that better locations can be given and much time saved by the several fire departments, which are many times called out when not necessary, will be discussed at a meeting of the fire prevention committee to be held tonight at the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall, according to an announcement made last night by Chief Frank Allwine of the Jefferson District Fire Department, chairman of the committee.

Another matter that will be considered will be ways and means to put a stop to the many calls being sounded daily for brush fires. Yesterday there were six alarms, all of which were for brush fires.

Darwin Cooper has been elected president of the Young People's Society of the Calvary Methodist Protestant Church at Aurora Hills. Other officers are: Stearns McNeil, vice president; Mrs. Lawrence Grimes, secretary, and Miss Sarah Ketring, treasurer. The Rev. J. W. Townsend, pastor of the church; Miss Dorothea Storek and Warren Norwood constitute the executive committee.

DESIGNING FESTIVAL COSTUMES

Director General Nelson Richards, of the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival, selecting the costumes to be worn by this year's princesses to the event, which will take place in Winchester, Va., late in April or early in May. Designer Peter Rookley is shown here designing the costumes, and with some finished specimens of his work. Approximately 50 girls will be honored this year by being named to the court of Queen Shenandoah VII.

Condemned Killer Is Taken to Prison

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 16. Walter Crabtree, 38, sentenced at Romney Saturday afternoon to be hanged May 9 at the State Prison at Moundsville, for the murder of Justice of the Peace H. Carter Inskeep in Romney December 18, was taken to Moundsville by a prison guard from here today by train. He was brought here this morning by Hampshire County officers and joined thirteen Berkeley County prisoners sentenced during the past term of court.

Hundreds of persons followed the manacled prisoners to the station, most of them anxious to get a glimpse of Crabtree, who was indicted for the slaying of Jailor Benn Miller and Edward Wolford at Romney the same morning he killed Justice Inskeep, but who was tried only on the Inskeep indictment.

Crabtree showed no concern over the trip. To the wife of the prisoner chained to him, who was weeping over the removal of her husband, Crabtree casually remarked that she need not worry for he would take care of her husband.

W. C. Kilmer Dies In Martinsburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 16.—Wade C. Kilmer, 53, well-known West Virginia attorney and former member of the Public Service Commission of West Virginia, died at his home near here at noon today of a gland infection which had kept him ill for some months. He had been critically ill for three weeks and had undergone hospital treatment in an effort to control the malady technically known as Hodgkin's disease.

Mr. Kilmer was born in this county, was graduated from West Virginia University with academic and law degrees and was admitted to the bar here in 1899. He later was associated in his profession with the late U. S. Senator Charles James Faulkner and the late Stuart W. Walker, U. S. attorney for the Northern District of West Virginia. Mr. Kilmer was a member of the Masons, Shrine, Elks and Modern Woodmen, and also active in the work of St. John's Lutheran Church here. For some years his firm had been district counsel for the Baltimore & Ohio.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Miss Katherine Miller; three children, John, Katherine and Eva Lee, all at home. His mother, Mrs. Anna Cushwa Kilmer; one sister, Eva, and one brother, Clarence, all of this county.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon from the home with burial here.

Army Officer and Wife, Hurt in Auto, Improving

Keyser, W. Va., March 16.—Lieut. and Mrs. Paschel N. Strong, of Morgantown, W. V., injured when their car rolled down a 90-foot embankment on the Maryland side of the Potomac River, near the new bridge at Gormania, were improving at Hoffman Hospital here today, although they will probably have to remain at least a month.

Lieut. Strong, who is instructor in military tactics at West Virginia University, suffered a broken knee cap, lacerations about the head and face, and shock. Mrs. Strong has a fracture of the right leg above the knee and a fractured jaw. They were on their way to Annapolis, accompanied by Harold T. Swindler, manager of the West Virginia University Team, and Vaughan Michael, a member of the team, who were slightly injured.

BODY OF BABY FOUND WEIGHTED IN CREEK

Cousins, 17, Discover Child, Bound in Sack, While on Sunday Walk.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.

Walking along the road between Accotink and Accotink Station, Fairfax County, yesterday, Marvin Shepherd and his cousin, Floyd Shepherd, both 17 years of age, of Accotink, the boys saw a brown sack in the Mill Branch. They opened the sack to cast their eyes on the body of a new born white babe wrapped in paper. The sack was weighted with bricks.

They reported the discovery to Justice of the Peace Harry Shepherd, who returned to the branch with them. Sheriff E. P. Kirby was notified. He ordered the body removed to the Groff undertaking parlors in Fairfax.

Dr. Ford Swetnam, who viewed the body, said an autopsy would be held today to determine if the child was alive when thrown into the creek. Fairfax authorities are investigating the case.

Roberta De Planta and Peggy Seldon, white, giving their address as Alexandria, Va., were arrested at Lacy's dance hall, near Baileys Cross Roads late Saturday night by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams on a charge of drinking in public. They were taken by Justice of the Peace John B. Dowden at Baileys Cross Roads, where they were found guilty and fined $19.50 each. Being unable to pay the fine, they were remanded to the Fairfax jail, where they spent the night.

Yesterday afternoon B. F. McKinney was arrested by Capt. Haywood Durrer on a charge of driving while drunk, and G. A. McKinney was arrested at the same time and charged with being drunk and disorderly. They were arrested on the Fort Humphreys road and taken to the Fairfax jail.

Stanley A. Jadlowick was arrested by Sheriff Eppa Kirby on a driving-while-drunk charge and his companion, Lawrence Jenkins, was charged with being drunk and disorderly. They were also lodged in the Fairfax jail.

Mrs. Mable Sellers, of Clarendon, Va., was elected worthy matron of Harmony Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, at Vienna. Other officers elected were: F. N. Hagman, worthy patron; Mrs. Preston Wickline, associate matron; Irving Kenyon, associate patron; Mrs. Augusta Rinker, conductress; Mrs. Mildred Burner, associate conductress; Mrs. Elsie Sullivan Payne, secretary, and Mrs. Wilhimena Fox, treasurer.

Sharon Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, at McLean, will hold its annual election of officers tonight at their meeting in the Masonic Hall at McLean.

BYRD URGED TO RUN FOR SEAT IN HOUSE

SHARP BATTLE BREWING

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., March 16.—As the congressional fight in the Seventh Virginia District gets under way, new efforts are being made to get former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd, of Winchester, to enter the race again Jacob A. Garber, of Harrisonburg, the present Republican representative, it is learned here from Valley sources.

Close friends of the former governor say that he is not interested in the nomination. They believe that he will refuse it if thrust upon him, unless his acceptance should prove the only means of preventing a factional fight in the party. Judge John W. Fishburne, of Charlottesville, the only avowed candidate for the nomination so far, has announced that he will withdraw from the race in favor of Harry Byrd. John T. Harris, of Harrisonburg, a prospective candidate, has maintained that if the former governor becomes interested to the point of accepting the nomination, he will give no further thought to entering the race.

Party leaders are urging Gov. Byrd to take the nomination so that the Democrats may present a united front against the Republicans in the November balloting. These leaders are working earnestly to forestall a sharp nomination fight which seems to be brewing and see in the naming of former Gov. Byrd the only means of doing it.

Judge Fishburne, who resigned last week from the bench of the Albemarle Circuit Court, is now busy touring the Seventh District. The greater part of his time is being spent in the Shenandoah Valley section as he feels that his home country east of the Blue Ridge Mountains will give him a sizable majority.

John T. Harris, the Harrisonburg attorney, has not announced his candidacy, although his friends expect him to enter the race. There is an effort on the part of friends of Dr. William J. Showalter, of Washington, associate editor of the National Geographic Magazine and a voter in Harrisonburg, to have him run.

Seventh District Democrats, normally in control of the district, feel that they have a good chance of returning the district to the Democratic column in the November election, especially if they are able to present a united front. As the situation shapes up now, leaders see a contest between the Valley and the east-of-the-Blue-Ridge sections, although the Valley does not yet have a candidate in the field. The east of the Ridge has not been represented in Congress for years, and the Democrats there maintain that it is time they are given the honor.

Restless Christianity Held Ideal at Session

Amarillo, Tex., March 16 (A.P.).—A restless Christianity, attempting the solution of world problems on a world scale, was held up as the ideal to members of the woman's missionary council, Methodist Episcopal Church South, in session here, by Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of Macon, Ga., in the annual missionary sermon prepared for delivery today.

Miss Constance Rumbough, of Lynchburg, Va., was elected to fill the superintendency of children in the society at the meeting yesterday. She succeeded to the place of Miss Althea Jones, of Houston, who was killed last June in an automobile acicdent.

Fire Destroys Dairy Barn With $5,000 Loss

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., March 16. Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large dairy barn at the country home of Judge Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, near Broad Run, Fauquier County, late yesterday afternoon. The Warrenton Fire Department answered the call at 2 p. m. and until 7 o'clock last night fought the blaze with a quarter of mile of hose laid to a nearby stream. Loss was estimated at $5,000.

The efforts of the companies were devoted mostly to the saving of the handsome home of Judge Smith, which was untenanted at the time.

Fox-Hunt Season Ends in Virginia

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 16.—A full week of fox hunting by members of the Golden Bridge Hunt Club, of New York, and the Blue Ridge Hunt Club, of Clarke County, Va., came to a close yesterday in the southern part of Virginia.

The New York and Clarke County hunters were joined the last day of the sport by friends from the Middleburg (Va.) Hunt Club, and formed perhaps the largest hunt party seen in Clarke County in many years. The combined packs of the three clubs took up the chase, the dogs giving lead over the fields from the kennels, near Old Chapel, toward the Sprinsberry estate of Gen. Daniel Morgan, of the American Revolution, on toward the river. The chase lasted until late in the afternoon, when a red fox was denned.

The three clubs were led by their respective masters, Langhorne Gibson, for Golden Bridge; D. C. Sands, for Middleburg, and Ewart Johnston, for Blue Ridge. A hunt breakfast followed at Carter Hall, the famous old Burwell showplace, recently purchased by Gerald Lambert, of Princeton, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Richardson, of Chicago, who came East for the meet, entertained last night at a dinner party at their country place near Berryville for those who had taken part in the day's hunt. Most of the New York clubmen returned today. Their mounts and hounds will be taken back to New York tomorrow in special moving vans equipped for transporting horses and dogs.

Knights of Columbus Initiate 34.

Lynchburg, Va., March 16 (Special). Thirty-four candidates were given the degrees of the Knights of Columbus by Holy Cross Chapter here today. Mass at Holy Cross Catholic Church and lunch preceded the exemplification of the degrees.

PALACE

"A LADY TO LOVE." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of Sidney Howard's stage play, "They Knew What They Wanted," starring Vilma Banky, supported by Edward G. Robinson and Robert Ames. Directed by Victor Seastrom. Reviewed Saturday night.

By NELSON B. BELL

Vastly improved as a morsel for mass consumption by deft and salutary renovation, this once banned play of Sidney Howard's now finds its way to the screen as an amusing, and at times genuinely compelling, piece of camera entertainment. Possibly the degree, or the manner, in which the original script has been modified to evade the Hays embargo is less important to the casual amusement-seeker than that in a pivotal role is disclosed an actor whose unsuspected capability, despite Miss Banky's fine performance in her first all-talking role, runs away with the show.

Prior to his appearance as the gunman in "The Night Ride," recently shown in Washington, I have no recollection of Edward G. Robinson as any sort of luminary of the cinema. That is a circumstance of no import whatever now that Mr. Robinson has appeared in the role of Tony Patucci, who wins a bride by the devious device of mailing her a photograph of his best friend. No one who sees it will soon forget the portrayal of the impetuous Italian whose nature embodies all that is impulsive, excitable, tempestuous and impassioned. Were this role not played with such gusto, Miss Banky's characterization would seem a very fine piece of limning indeed.

As it is, her delineation is pitched in a high emotional key, is expressive and searchingly honest. Her strong Teutonic accent is entirely "in character" in the role of Lena Schultz, the Swiss-born waitress whom Tony lures by correspondence and his friend's picture from the drudgery of a San Francisco spaghetti restaurant. If there is a heavy and persistent sullenness in her work, it, too, belongs to the part. Some of it may also have belonged to Miss Banky, for I must confess that she was least convincing to me when assuming the little gayeties of a doubtful domestic happiness.

The third of the familiar domestic triangle is Robert Ames, cast as Buck, at first mistaken by Lena for the man she has come to the vineyard country to marry—a confusion of identity that extended a trifle beyond the wedding day and the boundaries of propriety. Mr. Ames completes the triology of exceptionally deft portrayal about which cluster a notable group of lesser portraitures by Richard Carle, Lloyd Ingraham, Henry Armetta and George Davis.

In the matters of photography and recording "A Lady to Love" is as perfect as any audible subject so far released.

On the stage, Loew's "Venetian Carnival" takes rank as one of the most gorgeously staged of the touring units. Ted Claire is the singing and dancing guest master of ceremonies, who scores a hit himself in addition to introducing Peg-Leg Bates, an extraordinary dancer, formerly with "Blackbirds;" the Tommy Atkins Sextet of male steppers, assisted by Neil O'Dea; Kathryn Lewis, soprano; Nena Ogenska, toe dancer; the Chester Hale girls and Senor Dan Alfonso Zelaya, exponent of humorous philosophy of the keyboard, who plays a Liszt tone poem and Victor Herbert's "Sweet Mystery of Life" and "March of the Toys" with color and skill.

COLUMBIA

"THE GIRL SAID NO." A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer presentation of a story by A. P. Younger, adapted for the screen by Sarah Y. Mason; featuring William Haines, supported by Leila Hyams, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran. Directed by Sam Wood. Reviewed Sunday afternoon (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

She said "No"—but you know what a woman's "No" means! And William Haines' current offering presents no change in this fundamental premise.

Ever an actor devoting his time and talents to the promulgation of smart-aleck roles, and having had many which offer an admirable chance to display his livelier attributes, William Haines has had few, if any, opportunities for displaying them to better advantage than in the Columbia's current attraction. He is at his best and supported by a cast which is so admirably chosen that the star loses much of the glamor that should surround his excellent efforts.

Mr. Haines in the principal role is supported by Leila Hyams, as the girl; Marie Dressler, the sales-resistant bachelor "girl," who practically steals the show away from the star, and Polly Moran, as the maid in the paternal household. The entire supporting cast does excellent work and keeps the audience in a continual uproar.

The whole story is entirely improbable, but that mere trifle means nothing inasmuch as the net gain is a rousing comedy, excellently acted and with direction, photography and sound technique above reproach.

Supporting the feature is "A Night in a Shooting Gallery," a dance number filmed in Technicolor. Releases of the Hearst Metrotone and the M-G-M-International Newsreels complete the screen subjects.

Winchester Man Is Killed in Crash

J. F. Horton Dies After Car Smashes Into Pole and Turns Over.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 16.—J. Francis Horton, 63, of Winchester, Va., died at a local hospital late Saturday night, 40 minutes after being brought here suffering with a crushed chest, fractured forearm and abrasions on the head, suffered on the State road south of here when the car in which he was riding was forced off the road, smashed into a power pole and landed in a field, upside down.

Robert Schinestuhl, of Winchester, Va., chauffeur for Mr. Horton, escaped with minor lacerations. Both he and James Bucher, also of Winchester, who was driving the car which forced the Horton car off the road, are being held here for further questioning.

The accident occurred near Darkesville, 6 miles south of here. Mr. Horton was en route to Winchester from Baltimore. He had been visiting in Winchester some weeks with a son. He was a native of Massachusetts, an attorney by profession, and had practiced in Baltimore and New York.

Attorney Arrested for Speeding.

Thomas Bradley, 46 years old, giving his home as Chevy Chase and his occupation as an attorney, was arrested by L. K. Collins, Fourteenth Precinct motorcycle policeman, on Wisconsin avenue near Albemarle street northwest yesterday morning on charges of speeding in driving a machine at 40 miles an hour. He was released on $10 collateral for appearance today in Police Court.

FOX

"MEN WITHOUT WOMEN." Fox Movietone production based on story by John Ford and James K. McGuinness, featuring Kenneth MacKenna, Frank Albertson, Walter McGrail and J. Farrell MacDonald. Directed by John Ford. Reviewed Sunday afternoon.

In its relentless revelation of the individual reactions to their impending doom of the members of the crew of an American submarine, run down by a freighter and sunk in 90 feet of water in the China Sea, this tense study in human behavior probably has never been surpassed in stark realism.

In shaping and directing their story, John Ford and James K. McGuinness have been particularly skillful in their utilization of contrasts. The introductory sequences in a Shanghai "bund" are given over to the ribald enterprises that represent a sailor's idea of how best to spend his shore leave, while the later developments concern themselves entirely with how men comport themselves while facing imminent death. The two divisions of the play mark the opposite extremes of human experience.

This "bund" business is highly diverting, even if at times a trifle too frank in its exposition of what a sailor does with his money ashore. During its progress there is singing, dancing, much drinking at a bar that seems no less than a mile long and a steady flow of salty comedy, adroitly put over by a lusty male personnel whose taste in feminine pulchritude is obviously international. It is too bad they had to put to sea on a night like that!

It is upon the sea, nevertheless, that this picture depends for the overwhelming quality of its suspense. When the collision occurs, in an impenetrable fog, the commander is washed overboard with his lookouts, leaving Ensign Price, fresh from Annapolis and the football fields, in command of the S-13 and his imprisoned mates, fourteen of the toughest fighting men in the Navy. Slowly the one remaining oxygen tank is consumed. One by one the men begin to crack under the strain. One loses his mind in a religious fervor and has to be shot by the ensign, who stands aghast at his deed; another bids his comrades goed-by and goes heroically to sleep; another is merely "awfully tired."

And so time drags on through one of the most vitally real of human dramas. There is no love interest, no romantic glamour, no tinsel of the theater here—just death stalking the hold of a crippled sub. To heighten the effect there is put aboard the S-13, as chief torpedoman, the only surviving officer of the British navy who holds the secret of the fate of Lord Kitchener in the North Sea. On the surface, among the rescuers, is Capt. Weymouth, who awaits the chance to place him under arrest. How this comes out you will have to see for yourself. I refuse to spoil it for you.

On the stage, Alexander Callam, master of ceremonies, introduces Masters and Grace, Freddie Bernard, Charles Rozelle, Mary Miles and Mildred Perlee, Six Wild Demons, John Dale and the Sunkist Beauties in one of Panchon & Marco's weaker ideas, called "Hollywood Studio Girls."

EARLE

"SHE COULDN'T SAY NO." Warner Bros.-Vitaphone talking and singing picture, starring Winnie Lightner, supported by Chester Morris, Johnny Arthur and Tully Marshall. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Reviewed Saturday night by C. Ransom.

Following the fashion set by Al Jolson and carried on by ever so many other popular entertainers, Winnie Lightner breezes into the starlight with one of those screen life stories, supposed to shadow forth something, maybe, of her own approach to fame, and exploiting thoroughly, without any doubts, her own personality and powers of entertainment. It would be sad, and it is quite unnecessary to suppose there is any real biography in the story. Winnie Lightner may have had her romance, but the breadth between her eyes and the quirk of her lips give her credit for better judgment than Wild Winnie Harper, the girl in the film, who is madly devoted to a ratty racketeer.

The lurid tale is only a movie, with the familiar varieties of night club and backstage settings, in which the lively Winnie has plenty of occasions to do her stuff. Those who like her a lot will be entranced. Bubbling with life and laughter, eager to regive her genuine gift of comedy, hindered by no notions of restraint or decorum, she carries on her calling of adding sparkle to the obvious. Some day, with some other songs, she may do more than that. It is a fair guess that she will not stop growing now that she has arrived.

Chester Morris has his favorite character of the sophisticated gangster and knows just how to deal with him, but there he is advanced from the lesser field of villainy to the center of the scene. Just because he gives voice now and then to healf-hearted impulses toward a decent career, the racketeer is allowed to bask in a glow of sympathy and assume the stature of a hero. This chap feels sorry because he has robbed a poor man and decides to quit. Then he falls in love with a wealthy girl who takes a faddy interest in him, and decides that he must have jack. So he doesn't quit. If the films are to be acquitted of evil-doing they must keep these rats in their places.

Nevertheless it is a good piece of acting that Chester Morris contributes. Johnny Arthur is well cast as a song writer who earns his songstress. Tully Marshall has an interesting bit as an older racketeer. The piece is well acted at all angles and the dialogue is admirably done, with some lines that are unusually fresh and bright.

"He Trumped Her Ace" is the title of a short comedy in the program that is well above the ordinary in merit. When short comedies begin to get good there is surely a rainbow in the talkie sky. This one deals intimately with a bridge game and allows you to count the trumps and laugh at all the poor husband's errors. Newsreels and the orchestra do their bit.

Mrs. W. A. Burton Rites Are Held in Culpeper

Culpeper, Va., March 16.—Mrs. W. A. Burton, 64 years old, who died here Saturday morning, was buried today. Before her marriage she was Miss Josephine Jefferies, of Fauquier County. She is survived by two daughters, Miss Minnie J. Burton and Mrs. Jesse Yowell, and one son, Ashby J. Burton, all of Culpeper.

Mrs. Burton had been an invalid for many years preceding her death.

METROPOLITAN

"SONG OF THE WEST." A Warner Bros. Vitaphone operetta, adapted from "Rainbow," by Laurence Stallings and Oscar Hammerstein 2d, with music by Vincent Youmans; featuring John Boles and Vivienne Segal, supported by Joe E. Brown, Sam Hardy and Marion Byron. Directed by Ray Enright. Reviewed Saturday afternoon.

The beauty and the majesty of the magnificent natural backgrounds against which much of the action of this melodramatic romance of the pioneering days of '49 is unreeled are in themselves enough to establish this tuneful phonoplay as one of Technicolor's major achievements. The method of natural color photography which heretofore has been perhaps too largely restricted to indoor shots and revue scenes, is here carried into the open to reproduce in the actual tints of nature the grandeur of the country through which an earlier generation pursued a constantly receding frontier. Even if the story of "Song of the West" falls something short of epic power, certainly no such charge can be lodged against its setting.

The story of outlying cavalry posts the covered wagon trails and a renegade officer restored to his uniform and shoulder bars, and the trust of his wife, has within it all of the necessary ingredients of heroic drama. Yet there are quite as many scenes that seek the extravagances of opera bouffe as scale the heights of any romantic realism. The characters and the period in which they moved were both a trifle more stalwart than they are made to appear in this first of the al fresco musicals.

However, there is a great deal in the fabric of the play over which to enthuse. Against a tale of troubled love it balances a vein of comedy that affords Joe E. Brown his most fruitful opportunitiy to date, not forgetting the excellence of his buffoonery with Maryilyn Miller in "Sally." His drollery, as "Hasty," the mule skinner, is a constant source of enlivement and the bit wherein he lays down his life for his friend, after having accounted for two of a trio of quick triggermen, is impressively executed.

The friend for whom this sacrifice was made is Stanton, the hero of the piece, impersonated by John Boles. Mr. Boles, between his downfall and restoration as an Army officer, is by turns trail blazer, "parson" and gambler. In every diverse manifestation of character he is in fine voice. No less is true of Vivienne Segal, whose soprano finds ample occupation in the effective score composed by Vincent Youmans, and whose acting is quite on a par with any she has contributed to the stage productions she has graced.

A numerous supporting company is led by Rudolph Cameron, Eddie Gribbon, Sam Hardy, Edward Martindel, Marie Wells and Marion "Peanuts" Byron. Miss Wells, as the feminine menace; Miss Byron, as Hasty's strongest weakness, and Mr. Cameron, as Stanton's rival for the hand of Virginia, are especially well cast.

The recording is excellent throughout, although full orchestral accompaniment seems wholly out of place in many of the sequences in which it is employed. Only in the ensembles does the color photography occasionally lose its sharp definition. As the first of its line, "Song of the West" is eloquent of greater glories to come.
